These proposed changes will amend our regulations governing the administrative review process for the Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) programs to update our procedures and to reflect and implement sections 205(b)(3)(A) and 1631(c)(1)(B)(i) of the Act, as added by section 5107 of Pub. L. 101-508. Section 5107 specifies certain cases in which our policy on administrative res judicata may not be applied to deny a claimant's subsequent application for benefits under the Social Security or SSI program. In general, section 5107 provides that an individual's failure to timely request review of an adverse determination (initial or reconsidered) under the Social Security or SSI program may not be used by us as a basis for a denial of the claimant's subsequent application for benefits under the same program, if the failure to request review was due to certain circumstances specified in the statute.

We are also proposing to amend our regulations to expand and clarify our policy on administrative res judicata and on collateral estoppel.

Statement of Need:

This regulation is necessary to implement provisions of Pub. L. 101-508 and make related administrative changes.

Abstract:

This initiative will enable the Social Security Administration (SSA) to collect qualifying, delinquent title II debts owed by former beneficiaries who are currently Federal employees. The debt collection will be accomplished by the partial reduction of the employee's disposable salary.

Statement of Need:

This regulation is required by 5 U.S.C. 5514(b) and by regulations of the Department of the Treasury (Treasury) in order for SSA to participate in the Federal Salary Offset program. Treasury's regulation 31 CFR section 285.7(d)(2) requires agencies to prescribe regulations in accordance with the requirements of 31 USC 3716 (administrative offset) and 5 USC 5514 (salary offset).

Summary of the Legal Basis:

SSA's use of the Federal Salary Offset program is authorized by 42 USC 404(f), as amended by section 31001(z)(2) of Public Law 104-134, the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996, and 5 USC 5514.

Legal Deadline:

Abstract:

This initiative will enable the Social Security Administration (SSA) to collect qualifying, delinquent titles II and XVI debts owed by former beneficiaries who are now employed (as other than Federal employees). Administrative wage garnishment allows SSA to direct an employer to deduct a percentage of the disposable wages earned by the worker/debtor, and to send that amount to SSA as payment toward the delinquent debt. Administrative wage garnishment does not require a court judgment to impose the withholding order.

Statement of Need:

This regulation is necessary in order for SSA to use administrative wage garnishment as a debt collection tool.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

SSA is authorized to use administrative wage garnishment by 31 U.S.C. 3720 D, added by section 31001(z)(2) of Public Law 104-134, the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996. Section (o)(1) authorizes the use of administrative offset.

Alternatives:

None--without regulatory authority we would be unable to proceed with administrative wage garnishment. SSA must either adopt by reference the Treasury Department's regulations on wage garnishment hearings or prescribe SSA regulations regarding such hearings consistent with those Treasury Department regulations. See 31 CFR 285.11(f)(1).

Reinventing Government:

This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority:

42 USC 405; 42 USC 1383

CFR Citation:

20 CFR 422.103; 20 CFR 422.106; 20 CFR 422.107; 20 CFR 422.110

Legal Deadline:

Abstract:

The regulations provide authorization for elements of the Department of State (DOS) and the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) to obtain, as part of the immigration process, enumeration information for SSA to assign Social Security numbers (SSN) and issue SSN cards. Currently, SSA employees review evidence and process applications for all aliens who are issued SSN cards. This new process will eliminate duplicate collection of data by SSA of the data elements already collected by the DOS and/or INS for immigration purposes and provide for better overall government efficiency.

Statement of Need:

This regulation is necessary to implement a Reinventing Government initiative.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

These changes are not required by statute or court order.

Alternatives:

None.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

We will need to reimburse INS for the enumeration work they perform. We estimate that there is a 20 percent greater efficiency to the government if INS gathers the information to enumerate these applicants. After reimbursing INS, we expect to save approximately $13 million for the period 1998-2002.

PROPOSED RULE STAGE

162. • CONCEPT RELEASE CONCERNING FOREIGN COMPUTER TERMINAL PLACEMENT IN THE UNITED STATES

Priority:

Other Significant. Major status under 5 USC 801 is undetermined.

Legal Authority:

7 USC 2; 7 USC 4; 7 USC 6; 7 USC 6c; 7 USC 12a

CFR Citation:

17 CFR 30

Legal Deadline:

None

Abstract:

The Commission issued a Concept Release to solicit the views of the public on issues relating to the placement of computer terminals in the U.S. by foreign boards of trade. The terminals would be used for the purpose of trading products available through those boards of trade. The Release requests public comment on a variety of issues including the extent to which a foreign board of trade should be permitted to place computer terminals in the U.S. without being designated as a U.S. contract market and issues relating to electronic order routing and trade execution systems. The Release also sets forth a potential regulatory framework for a proposed rule and serves as the first stage of the Commission's rulemaking process.

Statement of Need:

The Commission received a number of inquiries regarding the ability of a foreign board of trade to place computer terminals in the U.S. for the purpose of facilitating the trading of products available on the boards of trade without being required to be designated as a U.S. contract market. In undertaking a rulemaking in this area, the Commission seeks to implement a regulatory framework that will provide certainty to foreign boards of trade that want to place terminals in the U.S., will not inhibit cross-border trading activities, will be consistent with the Commission's regulatory obligations to maintain the integrity and competitiveness of the U.S. markets, and will provide protection to U.S. customers.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

Section 4(a) of the Commodity Exchange Act (Act) states that a commodity futures contract may be traded lawfully in the U.S. if it is traded on or subject to the rules of a board of trade that has been designated as a contract market by the Commission. The concept release requests comments on a potential regulatory framework that would provide a means for a foreign board of trade to petition the Commission to place its computer terminals in the U.S. without subjecting the foreign board of trade to the requirement that it be designated as a contract market under the Act.

Alternatives:

Absent the Commission undertaking a rulemaking in this area, foreign boards of trade would be required to be designated as U.S. contract markets prior to placing terminals in the U.S. for the purpose of facilitating access to their products.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

As a financial regulator, the Commission is acutely aware of the costs of regulation. Throughout its history, the Commission has taken into account the costs of its proposed regulations to ensure that the benefits of its regulations outweigh the costs.

Risks:

The Commission, through its Concept Release, has asked for public comment regarding any risks from the placement and use of foreign board of trade terminals in the U.S. and whether foreign boards of trade should be subject to Commission rules in order to minimize risks.

Priority:

Other Significant

CFR Citation:

17 CFR 1; 17 CFR 17; 17 CFR 18; 17 CFR 150

Legal Deadline:

None

Abstract:

The Commission is proposing rules to raise the levels of Commission speculative limits for futures contracts on various agricultural commodities for the deferred contract months, codify a number of broad exemptions from the Commission rule that exchanges set speculative position limits for all contracts not subject to Commission limits, broaden the existing speculative position limit exemption provided under the Commission rule for independent account controllers, and amend the Commission's aggregation policy.

Statement of Need:

The Commission recently reviewed its policies and rules governing speculative position limits and found that expansion of the back-month speculative position limits would be appropriate. The Commission also believes it appropriate to codify a number of Commission policies relating to exchange-set speculative position limits and to expand the existing speculative limit exemptions provided under Commission rule for independent account controllers to reflect the trends toward greater complexity in the structure of financial services companies and greater professional management of trading funds.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

Section 4a(1) of the Commodity Exchange Act provides the Commission with the authority to "fix such limits on the amount of trading which may be done or positions which may be held by any person under contracts of sale of such commodity for future delivery on or subject to the rules of any contract market as the Commission finds are necessary to diminish, eliminate, or prevent such burden."

Alternatives:

The Commission has reviewed the alternatives of not revising its speculative limit rules as proposed and believes that those alternatives do not provide for appropriate expansion of the back-month speculative position limits nor appropriate codification of a number of Commission policies relating to speculative position limits.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

The anticipated benefits arising from the proposed rules would be that the Commission would reflect better the changing composition of the futures markets. The Commission anticipates that the rules would not result in an increase in any costs.

Risks:

Speculative limits are an effective means of preventing unreasonable or unwarranted price fluctuations. Periodic review of these limits enables the Commission to assess their effectiveness.

FINAL RULE STAGE

164. PROHIBITION ON VOTING BY INTERESTED MEMBERS

Priority:

Other Significant

Legal Authority:

7 USC 7a(a)(17)

CFR Citation:

17 CFR 1.69

Legal Deadline:

None

Abstract:

The regulation will implement the provisions of section 217 of the Futures Trading Practices Act of 1992, which require contract markets to adopt rules to avoid conflicts of interest in deliberations and voting by members of the governing board and disciplinary and other oversight committees. The rulemaking will define the relationships between a named party in interest and a member of the governing board or committee that would require abstention from deliberations and voting. The rulemaking will also provide guidelines on situations that would require a member to abstain from voting on a significant action because of a substantial financial interest in the outcome of the vote, based on positions held personally or at an affiliated firm, as well as on other matters addressed by the statute. The action potentially impacts the selection and composition of contract market governing boards and committees.

Statement of Need:

This rulemaking will further the regulatory objective of oversight of contract markets so as to assure that the markets remain open, competitive, and efficient.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

Section 5a(a)17 of the Commodity Exchange Act states that contract markets must "provide for the avoidance of conflict of interest in deliberations by (their) governing board(s) and any disciplinary and oversight committees." The rulemaking would establish standards for contract market rules that address the requirements stated above.

Alternatives:

These rules are required by statutory mandate set forth in the Futures Trading Practices Act of 1992. The Commission intends to pursue this rulemaking to achieve rules that will fulfill this statutory mandate in a cost-effective manner.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

As a financial regulator, the Commission is acutely aware of the costs of regulation. Throughout its history, the Commission has taken into account the costs of its proposed regulations in order to ensure that the benefits of its regulations outweigh the costs. To date, we know of no Commission regulation that adversely affected small entities as defined under the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601-611 (1988).

Risks:

By avoiding conflicts of interest by governing board and committee members of self-regulatory organizations, the risks of interference with open, competitive and efficient markets is reduced.

165. • ECONOMIC AND PUBLIC INTEREST REQUIREMENTS FOR CONTRACT MARKET DESIGNATION

Priority:

Other Significant

Legal Authority:

7 USC 6c; 7 USC 7; 7 USC 7a; 7 USC 8; 7 USC 12a

CFR Citation:

17 CFR 5

Legal Deadline:

None

Abstract:

The Commission is proposing revisions to its Guideline on Economic and Public Interest Requirements for Contract Market Designations, 17 CFR part 5, appendix A, Guideline No. 1. Guideline No. 1 details the information that an application for contract markets designation should include to demonstrate that the contract market meets the economic requirements for designation. In furtherance of recent Commission streamlining efforts to reduce the time for Commission review of such applications, the Commission is proposing that Guideline No. 1 be revised to reduce any unnecessary burdens associated with designation applications.

Statement of Need:

The Commission recently promulgated fast-track review procedures to reduce the time for Commission review of contract market designation applications. To further streamline efforts, the Commission believes that it is necessary to revise the form and content requirements of Guideline No. 1 to reduce any unnecessary burdens associated with the designation process.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

The statutory requirements for contract market designation are found in sections 2(a)(1)(B), 5 and 5a of the Commodity Exchange Act (Act). The Commission, as an aid to the exchanges, has provided guidance in meeting these statutory requirements including the issuance of Guideline No. 1.

Alternatives:

The Commission has reviewed the alternatives of not revising Guideline No. 1 as proposed and has determined that without revising Guideline No. 1, the reduction of unnecessary burdens associated with the designation process could not be realized.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

The anticipated benefits from the proposed revisions to Guideline No. 1 include the codification of Commission contract market designation practices. The Commission also anticipates that the costs associated with the designation process will be reduced.

Risks:

The contract market designation process allows the Commission to evaluate whether the terms and conditions of proposed contracts address risks including market manipulation and dissemination of false information. In this action, the Commission is proposing to further streamline the contract designation process while preserving the regulatory functions of the process.

CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY COMMISSION (CPSC)

Statement of Regulatory Priorities

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission is charged with protecting the public from unreasonable risks of death and injury associated with consumer products. To achieve this goal, the Commission:

- Participates in the development or revision of voluntary product safety standards;
- Develops mandatory product safety standards or banning rules when other, less restrictive, efforts are inadequate to address a safety hazard;
- Obtains repair, replacement, or refund of the purchase price for defective products that present a substantial product hazard; and
- Develops information and education campaigns about the safety of consumer products.

When deciding which of these approaches to take in any specific case, the Commission gathers the best available data about the nature and extent of the hazard presented by the product. The Commission then analyzes this information to determine the best way to reduce the hazard in each case. The Commission's rules require the Commission to consider, among other factors, the following criteria when deciding the level of priority for any particular project:

- Frequency and severity of injury;
- Causality of injury;
- Chronic illness and future injuries;
- Cost and benefits of Commission action;
- Unforeseen nature of the risk;
- Vulnerability of the population at risk; and
- Probability of exposure to the hazard.

Additionally, if the Commission proposes a mandatory safety standard for a particular product, the Commission is generally required to make statutory cost-benefit findings and adopt the least burdensome requirements that adequately protect the public.

The Commission's statutory authority requires it to rely on voluntary standards rather than mandatory standards whenever a voluntary standard is likely to result in the elimination or adequate reduction of the risk of injury and it is likely that there will be substantial compliance with the voluntary standard. As a result, much of the Commission's work involves cooperative efforts with other participants in the voluntary standard-setting process rather than promulgating mandatory standards.

In fiscal year 1999, the Commission's significant rulemaking activities will involve development of options to address risks of fire associated with upholstered furniture and development of a proposed standard for multi-purpose lighters to make those products resistant to operation by young children. These projects are described in detail below.

Both of the rulemaking proceedings in the Commission's 1999 regulatory plan are related to protection of vulnerable populations. Upholstered furniture fires kill and injure children, the elderly, and families and individuals with lower incomes disproportionately to the representation of these persons in the population. With regard to multi-purpose lighters, children younger than 5 years of age usually are incapable of dealing with a fire once it has started. Consequently, they and their families are at special risk of injury from fires started by children playing with multi-purpose lighters. Most fatalities from the fires resulting from children playing with multi-purpose lighters reported to the Commission were the children who started the fires.

The emphasis on these two rulemaking activities in the Commission's 1999 regulatory plan is consistent with the Commission's statutory mandate and its criteria for setting priorities. Additionally, the Commission's 1999 regulatory plan supports the President's goal to reduce costs of health care by preventing injuries to individuals who are among the most vulnerable to being injured in accidents associated with the use of consumer products.

166. FLAMMABILITY STANDARD FOR UPHOLSTERED FURNITURE

Priority:

Economically Significant. Major status under 5 USC 801 is undetermined.

Legal Authority:

15 USC 1193 Flammable Fabrics Act

CFR Citation:

16 CFR 1640

Legal Deadline:

None

Abstract:

On June 15, 1994, the Commission published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) to begin a proceeding for development of a flammability standard to address risks of death, injury, and property damage from fires associated with ignition of upholstered furniture by small open-flame sources such as matches, lighters, or candles. This ANPRM was issued after the Commission granted part of a petition requesting development of a mandatory flammability standard to address risks of injury from ignition of upholstered furniture by: (1) small open-flame sources; (2) large open-flame sources; and (3) cigarettes. The Commission voted to deny that part of the petition requesting development of a mandatory standard to address hazards associated with ignition of upholstered furniture by large open-flame sources. The Commission also voted to defer a decision on that part of the petition requesting development of a standard to address cigarette ignition, and directed the staff to report to the Commission on the effectiveness of, and the extent of industry compliance with, a voluntary program to reduce risks of ignition of upholstered furniture by cigarettes. The Commission staff developed a draft standard to address ignition of upholstered furniture by small open-flame sources. The staff also reported its findings on the efficacy of the voluntary program developed by the furniture industry to reduce the risk of cigarette ignition. On March 2, 1998, the Commission voted to defer action on small open-flame sources and gather additional information on the potential toxicity of flame-retardant chemicals that might be used to meet a standard. A public hearing on this subject was held on May 5-6, 1998. The staff is now analyzing data from the hearing and completing other technical studies. In 1999, the staff is scheduled to brief the Commission on its findings and will present alternatives for future action by the Commission.

Statement of Need:

In 1995, approximately 670 deaths, more than 1,700 injuries, and about $250 million in property damage resulted from 13,600 residential fires in the United States in which upholstered furniture was the first item to ignite. This total includes fires ignited by small open-flame sources, large open-flame sources, and cigarettes. Small open-flame fires accounted for approximately 90 deaths, 490 injuries and $62 million in property losses in 1995.

The total societal cost attributable to upholstered furniture fires was approximately $4.0 billion in 1995. A significant portion of that total -- $625 million -- was associated with upholstered furniture fires ignited by small open-flame sources, such as matches, lighters, or candles. These fires are not addressed by any national standard or voluntary program.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

Section 4 of the Flammable Fabrics Act (FFA) (15 USC 1193) authorizes the Commission to issue a flammability standard or other regulation for a product of interior furnishing if the Commission determines that such a standard is "needed to adequately protect the public against unreasonable risk of the occurrence of fire leading to death or personal injury, or significant property damage." No aspect of the Commission's regulatory proceeding is required by statute or court order.

The Commission's regulatory proceeding could result in several actions, one of which could be the development of a mandatory standard requiring that upholstered furniture sold in the United States meet mandatory labeling requirements, resist ignition, or meet other performance criteria under test conditions specified in the standard.

Alternatives:

The ANPRM stated that the Commission was considering the following alternatives:

(1) The Commission could issue a mandatory flammability standard if the Commission finds that such a standard is needed to address an unreasonable risk of the occurrence of fire from ignition of upholstered furniture by small open-flame sources;

(2) The Commission could issue mandatory requirements for labeling of upholstered furniture, in addition to, or as an alternative to, the requirements of a mandatory flammability standard;

(3) The Commission could terminate the proceeding for development of a flammability standard and rely on a voluntary standard if a voluntary standard would adequately address the risk of fire and substantial compliance with such a standard is likely to result; and

(4) The Commission could terminate the proceeding and withdraw the ANPRM.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

The estimated annual cost of imposing a mandatory standard to address ignition of upholstered furniture by small open-flame sources will depend upon the test requirements imposed by the standard and the steps manufacturers take to meet those requirements. The average annual societal cost of fires involving upholstered furniture ignited by small open-flame sources since 1990 is more than $600 million. Again, depending upon the test requirements, a small open-flame standard could also reduce cigarette-ignited fire losses, the societal cost of which was over $2 billion in 1995. For this reason, the potential benefits of a mandatory standard to address the risk of ignition of upholstered furniture by small open-flame sources could be significant, even if the standard did not prevent all such fires started by open-flame sources.

Risks:

The estimated total cost to society from all residential fires associated with upholstered furniture was $4.0 billion in 1995.

Societal costs associated with upholstered furniture fires are among the highest associated with any product subject to the Commission's authority. A standard has the potential to reduce these societal costs.

167. REQUIREMENTS FOR CHILD-RESISTANCE OF MULTI-PURPOSE LIGHTERS

Priority:

Other Significant. Major status under 5 USC 801 is undetermined.

Legal Authority:

15 USC 2051 Consumer Product Safety Act

CFR Citation:

Not yet determined

Legal Deadline:

None

Abstract:

On January 16, 1997, the Commission published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) to begin a proceeding which may result in a mandatory consumer product safety rule requiring multi-purpose lighters to resist operation by children. The Commission began this proceeding after granting a petition.

A mandatory product safety rule for multi-purpose lighters would require these lighters to have a child-resistant mechanism to prevent operation by most children younger than five years of age. The standard would include lighters marketed for a wide range of general household uses, such as igniting fuel for fireplaces, charcoal or gas-fueled grills, and camping equipment.

The staff forwarded a briefing package to the Commission in July 1998. The briefing package recommended publication of a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) for a rule that would require multi-purpose lighters, also called utility lighters, to be child-resistant. On September 30, 1998, a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) was published in the Federal Register.

Statement of Need:

When the Commission issued the safety standard for cigarette lighters (16 CFR part 1210) in 1993, multi-purpose lighters were excluded from its requirements because the Commission lacked information to establish that multi-purpose lighters were associated with an unreasonable risk of injury from fires set by children playing with such lighters. However, since issuance of the cigarette lighter standard, the Commission staff has obtained information about 158 incidents occurring from January 1988 through April 1998 in which children younger than five years of age started fires using multi-purpose lighters. These fires resulted in 23 deaths and 58 injuries. Because these data are actual incidents rather than national estimates, the extent of the total problem may be greater.

Children younger than five years of age usually are incapable of dealing with a fire once it has started. Consequently, they and their families are at special risk of injury from fires started by child-play. About half of all of the fatalities in the fires resulting from children playing with multi-purpose lighters were the children who started the fires. About 25 percent of the 58 persons injured in fires started by children with multi-purpose lighters were hospitalized for treatment.

Annual sales of multi-purpose lighters have grown from one million in 1985 to 20 million in 1998. With sales growing at a rate estimated to be 5 percent to 10 percent a year, it is expected that fires started with these products by children under five will also increase. Staff testing of lighters currently on the market indicated child resistance levels ranging from a low of 4 percent to a high of 41 percent, still far below the 85 percent required of cigarette lighters under the Commission's cigarette lighter standard.

Fires started by young children playing with multi-purpose lighters are not addressed by any voluntary standard or other voluntary program.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

Sections 7 and 9 of the Consumer Product Safety Act (CPSA) authorize the Commission to issue a consumer product safety standard to eliminate or reduce an unreasonable risk of injury associated with a consumer product. No aspect of this proceeding is required by statute or court order.

Alternatives:

This proceeding could result in the establishment of requirements for multi-purpose lighters to reduce risks of death and injury associated with fires ignited by multi-purpose lighters operated by young children. The ANPRM discussed the following alternatives:

(1) Establishment of a mandatory standard with performance requirements for multi-purpose lighters to reduce risks of death and injury from fires ignited by multi-purpose lighters operated by young children;

(2) Establishment of mandatory labeling requirements to warn of the risks of death and injury associated with fires ignited by multi-purpose lighters operated by young children, either instead of, or in addition to, a mandatory standard with performance requirements.

(3) Development of a voluntary standard containing performance, labeling, or other requirements to address risks of death and injury associated with fires ignited by multi-purpose lighters operated by young children; and

(4) The Commission could terminate the proceeding and withdraw the ANPRM.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

Based on available fire incident and sales information, the estimated cost to society of fires started by children playing with multi-purpose lighters is about $36 million a year. This estimate includes the costs associated with loss of life, medical treatment, lost income, pain and suffering, and property damage. A safety standard for multi-purpose lighters with a required child-resistance of 85 percent would provide estimated gross benefits of about $27 million a year. Costs of compliance are expected to result in increased consumer expenditures of around $16 million per year, resulting in net benefits around $11 million annually. This annual net benefit will increase if, as expected, sales of multi-purpose lighters increase.

Risks:

The Commission has information indicating that from January 1988 through April 1998, children younger than five years of age started at least 158 fires using multi-purpose lighters. These fires resulted in 23 deaths and 58 injuries. Based on available fire incident and sales information, the Commission staff estimates that the total cost to society of these fires is about $36 million a year.

FEDERAL HOUSING FINANCE BOARD (FHFB)

Statement of Regulatory and Deregulatory Priorities

The Federal Housing Finance Board (Finance Board) is an independent agency that is charged under the Federal Home Loan Bank Act (Bank Act) with supervising and regulating the Nation's Federal Home Loan Bank (FHLBank) System. The FHLBank System comprises 12 regional FHLBanks that are each owned by their member financial institutions and that provide wholesale credit to members and certain nonmembers to be used for mortgage lending and related community investment activities. The FHLBank System also includes the Office of Finance, which issues FHLBank System consolidated obligations. The Finance Board is required to prepare the following regulatory plan pursuant to section 4 of Executive Order 12866.

As always, the Finance Board's highest regulatory priorities during the coming year are to ensure the safety and soundness of the FHLBank System and to ensure that the FHLBanks fulfill their housing finance and community investment mission. In furtherance of these statutory mandates, the Finance Board plans four significant regulatory actions during 1998-99. The most important of these will be the promulgation of proposed and final rules revising the Financial Management Policy for the FHLBanks (FMP), which governs the FHLBanks' investments and other aspects of their financial management, and codifying its contents into one or more regulations (RIN 3069-AA50). As part of its safety and soundness responsibilities, the Finance Board intends to address in the regulation control of interest rate risk assumed by the FHLBanks. As part of its effort to ensure that the FHLBanks fulfill their statutory mission, the Finance Board also plans to structure the regulation to encourage the FHLBanks to focus their balance sheets away from investments that are not related to housing finance and community investment and toward a combination of advances and other assets that are mission-related.

In addition, the Finance Board plans to finalize two related rules that were issued in proposed form during 1998. The first of these, dealing with FHLBank Community Investment Cash Advance (CICA) programs (RIN 3069-AA75), will establish a general framework under which FHLBanks may establish CICA programs, in addition to their existing Affordable Housing Programs and Community Investment Programs, to provide advances to members to fund loans for low- and moderate-income housing finance and "targeted" (as defined in the regulation) economic development in urban and rural areas. The second rule, dealing with FHLBank Standby Letters of Credit (RIN 3069-AA61), will codify FHLBank letter of credit guidelines into regulatory form and will amend such guidelines to permit FHLBanks to issue and confirm letters of credit for a wider range of purposes, including the types of targeted economic development addressed in the CICA regulation and pursuant to a wider range of eligible collateral, than currently is permitted.

Finally, during the coming year, the Finance Board intends to promulgate proposed and final rules to amend the collateral provisions of the Finance Board's Advances regulation to permit FHLBanks to accept as security for advances both federally guaranteed mortgages (to the extent of the guarantee), irrespective of such mortgages' delinquency status, and eligible collateral held by member-controlled Real Estate Investment Trusts (REITs), State security corporations, or other similar business structures (RIN 3069-AA77). All of these regulatory actions are in harmony with the regulatory philosophy and principles set forth by the President in Executive Order 12866 in that they either are necessary for the Agency to carry out effectively its statutory role as safety and soundness and mission regulator of the FHLBank System or are intended to reduce regulatory restrictions now imposed upon the FHLBanks and their members.

In addition to these regulatory initiatives, the Finance Board has been working, and will continue to work, with members of Congress and their staffs to refine and promote pending FHLBank System reform legislation. This legislation, if enacted, would devolve further governance authorities to the FHLBanks, would correct several technical and structural anomalies in the Bank Act, and would position the FHLBank System to operate at maximum efficiency and effectiveness in the financial world of the 21st century. If legislation is enacted in a form similar to that now under consideration, the Agency's regulatory priorities and its anticipated program of regulatory actions for the coming year will necessarily change.

168. FHLBANK FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT

Priority:

Other Significant. Major status under 5 USC 801 is undetermined.

Legal Authority:

12 USC 1422b(a); 12 USC 1431; 12 USC 1436(a)

CFR Citation:

Not yet determined

Legal Deadline:

None

Abstract:

The Finance Board will revise its Financial Management Policy (FMP) for the Federal Home Loan Bank System and will issue a proposed rule to codify it as a regulation.

Statement of Need:

In December 1993, the Finance Board adopted the FMP to provide guidance to and establish limits for the FHLBanks in their implementation of financial programs and strategies. The Finance Board intends to amend the policy to more thoroughly address FHLBanks' assumption of interest rate risk and to direct FHLBank funds toward investments that are more closely related to their housing finance and community investment mission. The Finance Board intends for the first time to promulgate the FMP as a regulation.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

Sections 11(h) and 16(a) of the Bank Act authorize the FHLBanks to make certain types of investments. Section 11 generally authorizes the FHLBanks to seek various sources of funding for their operations. Section 2B(a) of the Bank Act authorizes the Finance Board to supervise the FHLBanks and to promulgate such regulations as are necessary to carry out the provisions of the Act.

Alternatives:

The Finance Board is considering various alternative methods for controlling FHLBank interest rate risk and encouraging investment in mission-related assets. In addition, the agency will consider all alternatives suggested by the public during the notice and comment process.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

The Finance Board anticipates that the new FMP provisions may result in slightly lower investment income for the FHLBanks to the extent that the interest rate risk controls and mission-related investment requirements may narrow the range of high-income assets in which the FHLBanks may invest. However, these costs are likely to be counterbalanced by FHLBanks' assumption of less interest rate risk and by the FHLBanks' greater support for the mortgage markets. The regulation would not otherwise impose any direct financial costs upon the FHLBanks or their member institutions.

Risks:

Although FHLBank interest rate risk is already well-managed under the current FMP, the proposed regulation will attempt to further minimize such risk by incorporating state-of-the-art models and methods for monitoring and controlling the risk. The Finance Board is considering whether there are any circumstances under which there should be reserve requirements against interest rate risk exposure. Because the regulation is in its preliminary stages of preparation, the agency cannot now quantify the amount by which such risk will be reduced.

169. • COLLATERAL ELIGIBLE TO SECURE FHLBANK ADVANCES

Priority:

Other Significant

Legal Authority:

12 USC 1430

CFR Citation:

12 CFR 935

Legal Deadline:

None

Abstract:

The Finance Board plans to issue a proposed rule to amend its Advances regulation to permit FHLBanks to accept as security for advances both federally-guaranteed mortgages (to the extent of the guarantee), irrespective of such mortgages' delinquency status, and eligible collateral held by member-controlled Real Estate Investment Trusts (REITs), State security corporations, or other similar business structures.

Statement of Need:

An increasing number of FHLBank member institutions are opting to transfer mortgage assets that were previously held directly by such members to REITs, security corporations, or other similarly structured subsidiaries, in order to gain certain tax advantages. Because many of these mortgage assets are eligible to secure FHLBank advances and, in fact, are currently being used to secure such advances, it is important that the Finance Board establish a regulatory structure under which FHLBanks will continue to be able to accept this transferred collateral--which will still be under the ultimate control of the member--as security for advances. It is anticipated that the rule will establish such a structure. In addition, through this rulemaking, the Finance Board plans to make clear that FHLBanks are permitted by statute to accept as collateral for advances federally-guaranteed mortgages (to the extent of the guarantee), irrespective of their delinquency status, although FHLBanks may not normally accept as collateral mortgages that are more than 90 days delinquent.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

Section 10 of the Bank Act sets forth requirements for FHLBank advances to members and specifies the types of member collateral that are eligible to secure such advances. While, under section 10, FHLBank members are required to assume a primary, unconditional obligation to repay any advance, such advances may be secured by pledges of collateral by affiliates of members. In addition, under section 10, FHLBanks are not precluded from obtaining an interest in eligible collateral by accepting pledges of shares of corporations or trusts whose assets comprise only eligible assets. Regarding federally-guaranteed mortgages, although section 10(a)(1) of the Bank Act requires that whole mortgage loans be not more than 90 days delinquent in order to constitute eligible collateral, section 10(a)(2) permits FHLBanks to accept any federally-guaranteed securities as collateral. Because, to the extent that it is federally-guaranteed, the delinquency status of a mortgage loan is immaterial as a matter of safety and soundness, the Finance Board may permit FHLBanks to accept delinquent federally-guaranteed mortgages as collateral for advances under section 10(a)(2) of the Bank Act. Section 2B(a) of the Bank Act authorizes the Finance Board to supervise the FHLBanks and to promulgate such regulations as are necessary to carry out the provisions of the Act. This regulatory action is not required by statute or court order.

Alternatives:

As an alternative to this rulemaking, the Finance Board could choose to prohibit FHLBanks from accepting as security for advances delinquent federally-guaranteed mortgages, or collateral held by member-controlled REITs, security corporations, or similar structures. Also, the Finance Board could decide to permit the FHLBanks to accept such collateral pursuant only to a staff legal interpretation of the statute and the existing Advances regulation, or to decide these issues on a case-by-case basis. The agency will consider all alternatives suggested by the public during the notice and comment period.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

Although the Finance Board cannot quantify precisely the costs and benefits of this rulemaking at this time, the agency anticipates that the regulatory amendments will benefit both FHLBanks and their members by expressly permitting the FHLBanks to accept as security for advances collateral that might not appear to be eligible under a technical reading of the current text of the Advances regulation.

Risks:

Regarding eligible collateral held by member-controlled REITs, State security corporations, or other similar business structures, the Finance Board is considering ways to minimize or eliminate any risk that a FHLBank would have more difficulty in foreclosing upon such third-party collateral upon the default of a member than if the same assets were to be pledged by the member directly. Regarding delinquent federally-guaranteed mortgages, the Finance Board seeks to ensure that the guarantee attached to each such mortgage is sufficient to negate the credit risks associated with the delinquency status of the mortgage. The control of these risks is of paramount concern to the Finance Board, which is charged by statute with ensuring that the FHLBanks operate in a safe and sound manner.

170. FHLBANK LETTER OF CREDIT ISSUANCE

Priority:

Other Significant

Legal Authority:

12 USC 1430(a); 12 USC 1431

CFR Citation:

12 CFR 938

Legal Deadline:

None

Abstract:

The Finance Board will publish a final rule codifying policies governing issuance of standby letters of credit by FHLBanks.

Statement of Need:

The issuance and confirmation of standby letters of credit by FHLBanks currently is governed by the Finance Board's Interim Policy Guidelines for FHLBank Standby Letters of Credit (Interim Guidelines), which were adopted in 1993. After a thorough review of these Interim Guidelines, the Finance Board determined that many of the restrictions imposed upon FHLBank letters of credit thereunder are not required by statute and, in addition, limit the usefulness of such letters of credit to member institutions. As a result, the Finance Board issued a proposed rule to add to its regulations a new part 938, addressing FHLBank standby letters of credit, that would permit the FHLBanks to issue letters of credit for a broader range of purposes and upon the security of a broader range of collateral.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

The Bank Act does not address directly the power of FHLBanks to issue letters of credit. In the past, the Finance Board has permitted FHLBanks to issue letters of credit as part of their authority to make advances under section 10(a) of the Bank Act. In addition, the Finance Board recently has determined that the FHLBank authority to issue letters of credit is also a part of, and incidental to, the FHLBanks' deposit-taking and payment processing powers set forth in section 11(e) of the Bank Act, and part of the FHLBanks' incidental authority to enter into commitments to make advances under sections 10 and 11(a) of the Bank Act. Section 2B(a) of the Bank Act authorizes the Finance Board to supervise the FHLBanks and to promulgate such regulations as are necessary to carry out the provisions of the Act. This regulatory action is not required by statute or court order.

Alternatives:

The Finance Board is considering various alternatives regarding both the purposes for which FHLBanks may issue letters of credit and the types of collateral that may be accepted to secure FHLBank letters of credit. The agency will consider all alternatives suggested by the public during the notice and comment period.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

It is not possible to quantify precisely the expected costs and benefits of the new FHLBank letter of credit regulation. In general, the Finance Board expects that, under the new regulation, the FHLBanks will issue a greater number of letters of credit than in the past and, therefore, are likely to experience a slight increase in revenues. The new regulation is likely to benefit member institutions (and, indirectly, their customers), who will be able to obtain FHLBank letters of credit for a wider range of purposes and will be permitted to secure FHLBank letters of credit with a wider range of collateral.

Risks:

The proposed letter of credit regulation addresses the credit risk assumed by a FHLBank, as issuer of a letter of credit, by requiring that all FHLBank letters of credit be secured fully for their face amount at the time of issuance. The proposed rule requests comment on whether there are any circumstances under which the FHLBanks could safely and soundly issue letters of credit that are not fully collateralized. All such comments will be considered carefully by the Finance Board in drafting the final rule.

Abstract:

The Finance Board plans to issue a final rule establishing a general framework under which the FHLBanks may establish community investment cash advance (CICA) programs in addition to their Affordable Housing Programs (AHP) and Community Investment Programs (CIP). The proposed rule does not require a FHLBank to establish CICA programs, but merely provides the FHLBanks with an outline of the types of FHLBank lending that the Finance Board has determined will meet the statutory requirement that CICA programs support community investment.

Statement of Need:

The Bank Act authorizes the FHLBanks to establish CICA programs in addition to the CIP and AHP to support "community investment." The Finance Board has not previously promulgated regulations or other specific guidance on the types of FHLBank lending that are permitted under this authority. The proposed rule is intended to provide the FHLBanks with such guidance and to encourage the FHLBanks to fulfill needs for long-term financing for economic development in urban and rural areas that are not being met through the AHP and the CIP.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

Section 10(j)(10) of the Bank Act authorizes the FHLBanks to establish CICA programs to support "community investment." Section 2B(a) of the Bank Act authorizes the Finance Board to supervise the FHLBanks and to promulgate such regulations as are necessary to carry out the provisions of the Act. This regulatory action is not required by statute or court order.

Alternatives:

In the proposed rule, the Finance Board has requested comment on whether it should establish CICA standards, in whole or in part, in a form other than a regulation. Substantively, in developing the final rule, the Finance Board is considering several alternatives regarding the types of "targeted" economic development that will fall within the scope of the CICA guidelines. The agency will consider all alternatives suggested by the public during the notice and comment period.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

It is not possible to quantify precisely the expected costs and benefits of the final FHLBank CICA Programs regulation. Because the regulation would merely encourage, but would not require, FHLBanks to establish CICA programs, any costs imposed upon, or benefits provided to, the FHLBanks or their members thereunder would be assumed at the discretion of each FHLBank. To the extent that a FHLBank chooses to establish CICA programs, such programs would likely benefit individuals and businesses in low- and moderate-income urban and rural areas by providing them, through FHLBank member institutions, with long-term credit that might not be available otherwise, or might not be available under such favorable terms and conditions. The implementation of CICA programs might also benefit the FHLBanks themselves by providing the FHLBanks with additional sources of revenue.

Risks:

By statute, the Finance Board is charged with ensuring the safe and sound operation of the FHLBanks. As with any type of loan program, there would be credit, interest rate and other types of risks involved in CICA lending. Such risks would be managed pursuant to the collateral and other provisions of the Finance Board's existing Advances regulation, as is the case with all FHLBank advances.

FEDERAL MARITIME COMMISSION (FMC)

Statement of Regulatory and Deregulatory Priorities

The Federal Maritime Commission's (Commission) regulatory objectives are guided by the Agency's basic mission. The Commission's mission is to administer the shipping statutes as effectively as possible to provide an efficient, economic, and nondiscriminatory ocean transportation system in an environment free of unfair foreign maritime trade practices. Commission regulations are designed to implement each of the various statutes the Agency administers in a manner consistent with this mission and in a way that minimizes regulatory costs, fosters economic efficiencies, and promotes international harmony.

Proposed legislation pending in Congress could alter significantly the Federal regulatory scheme regarding international ocean shipping. The Commission is monitoring this legislation closely as it obviously would affect the Agency's regulatory planning and priorities and, depending on the effective date(s) of its provisions, could require regulatory action during the coming year. If enacted in its current proposed version, this legislation will require review and rewrite of many of the Commission's substantive regulations. One of the most significant changes would be to the treatment of common carrier tariffs, the publications which contain the rates and charges for their transportation services. Currently, such tariffs are required to be filed with the Commission's Automated Tariff Filing and Information System. Under the proposed legislation, carriers no longer will have to file with the Commission, but will be required to publish their rates in private, automated tariff systems, to be made available electronically to any person. The Commission would be charged with prescribing the requirements for the "accessibility and accuracy" of these automated tariff systems. Against this background, the Commission has initiated an inquiry to solicit comments from the ocean transportation industry and the general public on how best to establish requirements for carriers' automated tariff systems, to assist the Commission in formulating proposed rules in this area.

Until any such legislation is enacted and an implementation schedule is determined, the principal objective or priority of the Agency's current regulatory plan will be to continue to assess its major existing regulations for continuing need, effectiveness, burden on the regulated industry, fairness, and clarity.

The Commission continues to have under review, inter alia, regulations regarding passenger vessel operator financial responsibility and co-loading arrangements between non-vessel-operating common carriers.

The Commission's review of existing regulations exemplifies its objective to regulate fairly and effectively while imposing a minimum burden on the regulated entities, following the principles stated by the President in Executive Order 12866.

Description of the Most Significant Regulatory Actions

The Commission currently has no actions under consideration that constitute "significant regulatory actions" under the definition in Executive Order 12866.

BILLING CODE 6730-01-F

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION (FTC)

Statement of Regulatory Priorities

Regulatory Priorities

Background

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC or Commission) is an independent agency charged with protecting American consumers from "unfair methods of competition" and "unfair or deceptive acts or practices" in the marketplace. The Commission strives to ensure that consumers benefit from a vigorously competitive marketplace. The Commission's work is rooted in a belief that free markets work—that competition among producers and information in the hands of consumers brings the best products at the lowest prices for consumers, spurs efficiency and innovation, and strengthens the economy.

The Commission pursues its goal of promoting competition in the marketplace through two different, but complementary, approaches. First, for competition to thrive, curbing deception and fraud is critical. Through its consumer protection activities, the Commission seeks to ensure that consumers receive accurate, not false or misleading, information in the marketplace. At the same time, for consumers to have a choice of products and services at competitive prices and quality, the marketplace must be free from anticompetitive business practices. Thus, the second part of the Commission's basic mission—antitrust enforcement—is to prohibit anticompetitive mergers or other anticompetitive business practices without unduly interfering with the legitimate activities of businesses. These two complementary parts of its mission make the Commission the Nation's only Federal agency to be given this combination of statutory authority to protect consumers.

The Commission is, first and foremost, a law enforcement agency. It pursues its mandate primarily through case-by-case enforcement of the Federal Trade Commission Act and other statutes. The Commission, however, is also charged with the responsibility of issuing and enforcing regulations under a number of statutes. In addition, under the FTC Act, the Commission currently has in place 13 trade regulation rules. The Commission also has adopted a number of voluntary industry guides. Most of the regulations and guides pertain to consumer protection matters and are generally intended to ensure that consumers receive the information necessary to evaluate competing products and make informed purchasing decisions.

Ten-Year Review Program

In 1992, the Commission implemented a 10-year review program to review its rules and guides. The Commission's review program is patterned after provisions in the Regulatory Flexibility Act. 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq. Under the Commission's program, however, rules are continually reviewed at least every 10 years, not just once as usually required by section 610 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. Thus, this program provides the Commission with an ongoing systematic approach for seeking information about the costs and benefits of its rules and guides and whether there are changes that could minimize any adverse economic effects, not just a "significant economic impact upon a substantial number of small entities." The program's goal is to ensure that all of the Commission's rules and guides remain beneficial and in the public interest.

As part of the 10-year plan, the Commission examines the effect of rules and guides on small businesses and on the marketplace in general. These reviews often lead to the revision or rescission of rules and guides to ensure that the Commission's consumer protection and competition goals are achieved efficiently and at the least cost to business. In a number of instances, the Commission has determined that existing rules and guides were no longer necessary or in the public interest. As a result of the review program, the Commission has repealed 48 percent of its trade regulation rules and 40 percent of its guides since 1992.

Calendar Year 1998 Reviews

The CY 1998 reviews, discussed below, are part of the Commission's 10-year plan to review and seek information about all of its regulations and guides, their costs and benefits, and their regulatory and economic impact. These reviews may also address other matters or issues. This year, the Commission has initiated reviews of a Trade Regulation Rule, three guides, and one exemption: (1) The Funeral Industry Practices Rule, 16 CFR part 453; (2) Used Auto Parts Industry Guides, 16 CFR part 20; (3) Adhesive Compositions Guides, 16 CFR part 235; (4) Decorative Wall Paneling Guides, 16 CFR part 243; and (5) Procedures for State Application for Exemptions from the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, 16 CFR part 901.

All of these matters pertain to consumer protection and are intended to ensure that consumers receive the information necessary to evaluate competing products and make informed purchasing decisions. For example, the Funeral Industry Practices Rule, 16 CFR part 453, requires that funeral service providers give price lists to consumers who visit a funeral home and provide price and other information in response to telephone inquiries. An amendment in 1994 prohibits funeral providers from charging a "casket handling" fee in addition to any nondeclinable basic-service fee. The Commission has moved the review of this Rule from CY 1999 to CY 1998 in response to requests that it examine emerging issues in the funeral industry.

The Commission reviews its rules to determine, among other things, the continuing need for the rule; possible conflicts between each rule and State, local, and other Federal laws; and the effect on each rule of any technological, economic, or other industry changes. For example, the Commission has determined to retain the rules and regulations issued under the Hobby Protection Act in their current form, 63 FR 36555 (July 7, 1998); determined to retain the Trade Regulation Rule Concerning Power Output Claims for Amplifiers Utilized in Home Entertainment Products with technical modifications, 63 FR 37234 (July 9, 1998); and recognized a potential need for substantive amendment of the same rule by issuing an Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, 63 FR 37238 (July 9, 1998).

The Commission has begun a review of the Guides for the Rebuilt, Reconditioned, and Other Used Automobile Parts Industry (Used Auto Parts Guides), 16 CFR 20. The Used Auto Parts Guides, effective since 1962, advise industry members not to misrepresent the age of the product, the condition of the product, the extent of the rebuilding of the product, or that the rebuilder was the original manufacturer. Industry members must also conspicuously disclose in advertising and packaging that the products include used parts, if that is the case. The Commission's review will examine, among other things, the overall costs and benefits of the Used Auto Parts Guides and whether there is a continuing need for them. The Commission has published a Federal Register notice seeking comment on several questions concerning the Used Auto Parts Guides' provisions. See 63 FR 17132 (Apr. 8, 1998).

Also as part of its 10-year regulatory review, the Commission has requested comments on its Guides Against Deceptive Labeling and Advertising of Adhesive Compositions, 16 CFR part 235 (Adhesive Guides). See 63 FR 17348 (Apr. 9, 1998). Effective since 1967, the Adhesive Guides are designed to prevent deceptive labeling and advertising of adhesive products by addressing specific misrepresentations about the properties and effectiveness of adhesives. The Commission is requesting comments on the benefits and costs, the effect of changes in technology, industry, marketplace, and economic conditions, as well as the continuing need for the Adhesive Guides in their present form or with modifications.

In addition, the Commission has sought comments on its Guides for the Decorative Wall Paneling Industry (Wall Paneling Guides), 16 CFR part 243, effective since 1972. The Wall Paneling Guides are designed to protect consumers from being misled by the appearance of a product or by deceptive descriptions, depictions, designations, or representations in advertisements. The Wall Paneling Guides also provide examples and advise consumers that it is the seller's responsibility to provide detailed disclosures regarding the composition of the products. As with the other Guides, the Commission's Federal Register notice requests comments on whether there is a continuing need for the Guides, their costs and benefits, whether changes in technology, the marketplace or the industry suggest that the Guides should be modified, and whether they overlap or conflict with other Federal, State, or local laws or regulations. See 63 FR 14865 (Mar. 27, 1998).

The Commission has requested comments concerning Procedures for State Application for Exemption from the Provisions of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (FDCPA), 16 CFR part 901. See 63 FR 19859 (Apr. 22, 1998). Under part 901, a State may apply for an exemption from the provisions of sections 803 through 812 of the FDCPA if its laws provide substantially similar or greater protection for consumers than that afforded by the FDCPA and there is adequate provision for State enforcement of the requirements. These procedures have been in effect since 1979. The Commission seeks comments on several questions, including whether there is a continuing need for the exemption procedures, whether the procedures should be modified or eliminated, and the costs and benefits of the current procedures. Id.

Final Actions and Continuing Reviews

Since the 1997 Regulatory Plan was published, the Commission has completed the following actions:

The Commission has repealed the Dry Cell Battery Rule, 16 CFR part 403, which prohibited industry representations that dry cell batteries will not leak. In repealing the Rule, the Commission noted that changes in industry practice, and general voluntary compliance by the industry with the requirements of the American National Standards Institute Standard, effectively rendered the Rule no longer necessary or in the public interest. See 62 FR 61225 (Nov. 17, 1997).

The Commission amended the rules and regulations under the Textile Fiber Products Identification Act, the Wool Products Labeling Act, and the Fur Products Labeling Act. See 63 FR 7508 (Feb. 13, 1998). The Commission simplified the labeling requirements and modified definitions of covered publications to include those generated and disseminated electronically through the Internet or e-mail. The Commission also included more examples of country of origin disclosures that comply with both the FTCs and U.S. Customs Service origin-disclosure requirements. Also, the Commission increased the exemption from the labeling requirements for fur trim from $20 to $150.

In 1998, the Commission completed its review of the rules and regulations issued under the Hobby Protection Act, 16 CFR part 304, and decided to retain the rules in their current form. 63 FR 36555 (July 7, 1998). The Commission determined that the rules successfully protect consumers from those who would try to pass off reproductions as originals and that the costs of compliance are not significant to either small entities or others.

The Commission has decided to retain the Trade Regulation Rule Concerning Power Output Claims for Amplifiers Utilized in Home Entertainment Products, 16 CFR part 432. Specifically, the Commission issued a final rule retaining the Rule with a nonsubstantive technical amendment clarifying that the Rule applies to self-powered speakers used with home computer systems because they perform the same functions as the other amplification equipment listed in the Rule. 63 FR 37234 (July 9, 1998). The Commission has also issued an Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking proposing to modify the testing procedures and to eliminate certain disclosures required in advertisements, 63 FR 37238 (July 9, 1998). The Commission concluded that there was no reason to extend the Rule's requirements to automobile sound systems. Based on its review, staff found that consumers currently are able to make meaningful comparisons in the automotive sound reproduction market. Id. at 37240-41.

After completing its review of the Trade Regulation Rule Concerning the Use of Negative Option Plans by Sellers in Commerce (Negative Option Rule), 16 CFR 425, the Commission decided to retain the Rule in its present form with minor technical changes. 63 FR 44555 (Aug. 20, 1998). The Negative Option Rule, promulgated in 1973, applies to sellers of prenotification subscription plans who ship merchandise such as books, compact discs, or tapes automatically to their subscribers on a periodic basis. It requires, among other things, that the companies notify subscribers in advance of shipping to allow them the option of declining the merchandise. The comments received in the rulemaking suggest that the Rule is working effectively. The Commission concluded that there was presently an insufficient basis to consider amending the Rule to include sales techniques and practices not presently covered by the Rule.

The Commission issued a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) seeking public comment on proposed amendments to the Trade Regulation Rule on Care Labeling of Textile Wearing Apparel and Certain Piece Goods (Care Labeling Rule), 16 CFR 423, 63 FR 25417 (May 8, 1998). The Commission proposed amending the Care Labeling Rule to require home washing instructions (rather than dry cleaning instructions, except as voluntarily disclosed additional instructions) for garments for which home washing is appropriate. Through the NPRM, the Commission also seeks to clarify "what can constitute a reasonable basis for care instructions" and requests comment on whether to allow a garment that can be professionally wet cleaned to be labeled with instructions for professional wet cleaning and whether to change the definitions of "cold," "warm," and "hot" water to match those used by an independent standards and testing association.

The Commission amended section 802.70 of the rules adopted pursuant to the Hart-Scott-Rodino Act's Premerger Notification Amendments to the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. 18a (HSR Rules). This amendment to the HSR Rules reduces burden on parties by exempting from the HSR filing requirements divestitures included in consent agreements that are not final orders if the agreements are (1) accepted by the Commission or filed by the Commission or the Department of Justice with the District Court and (2) are subject to public comment, 63 FR 34592 (June 25, 1998). Comments on the final rule were due by July 27, 1998.

The Commission issued final amendments to the Guides for the Use of Environmental Marketing Claims, 16 CFR part 260, regarding compostable and recyclable claims. These Guides were first announced in 1992 and revised in October 1996. The 1998 revision to the Guides expanded the terms "recyclable" and "recycled content" and clarified that an unqualified compostable claim can be made if a product or package is compostable at home, even if municipal or institutional composting facilities are not available locally. 63 FR 24240 (May 1, 1998).

The Commission has taken final action on its review of the Guides for Private Vocational and Home Study Schools (Vocational School Guides), 16 CFR part 254, by deciding to retain the Vocational School Guides with modifications, under the new title Guides for Private, Vocational, and Distance Education Schools. See 63 FR 42570 (Aug. 10, 1998). The amendments to the Vocational Guides delete a number of provisions found to be unnecessary and address deceptive claims about future employment but do not create new requirements for vocational schools.

The Commission also rescinded the Guides for the Feather and Down Products Industry (Down Guides), 16 CFR part 253. See 63 FR 44553 (Aug. 20, 1998). These Guides, in effect since 1971, addressed claims for the advertising, labeling, and sales of products that are wholly or partially filled with feathers or down and all bulk stocks of processed feathers or down intended for use or used in the manufacture of such products. After extensive review of the Guides and their effect on the feather and down industry, the Commission has decided that the Guides have not promoted compliance with section 5 of the FTC Act. The Commission's Federal Register notice announcing the decision to rescind the Down Guides noted, however, that its rescission action does not signal an FTC withdrawal from its law enforcement efforts to prevent deception in the labeling and advertising of these products.

Calendar Year 1999 Reviews

In CY 1999, the Commission expects to initiate reviews of one rule, three industry guides, and one statement of interpretation. The rule scheduled for review in 1999 is the regulation under the Comprehensive Smokeless Tobacco Health Education Act of 1986, 16 CFR part 307. The guides scheduled for review in 1999 are: (1) Guides for Advertising Allowances and Merchandising Payments, 16 CFR part 240; (2) Guides for the Law Book Industry, 16 CFR part 256; and (3) Guide Concerning Fuel Economy Advertising for New Automobiles, 16 CFR part 259. The Commission also plans to begin a review of Statements of General Policy or Interpretations at 16 CFR part 600. See 63 FR 1802 (Jan. 12, 1998).

Summary

With regard to both content and process, the FTC's ongoing and proposed regulatory actions are compatible with the President's priorities. The actions under consideration inform and protect consumers and reduce the regulatory burden on business. The Commission will continue working toward these goals. The Commission's 10-year review program is patterned after provisions in the Regulatory Flexibility Act and complies with the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996. The Commission's 10-year program also is consistent with President Clinton's National Regulatory Reinvention Initiative, which, among other things, urges agencies to eliminate obsolete or unnecessary regulations. The program corresponds as well to section 5(a) of Executive Order 12866, 58 FR 51735 (Sept. 30, 1993), which directs executive branch agencies to develop a plan to reevaluate periodically all of their significant existing regulations.

As set forth in Executive Order 12866, the Commission continues to identify and weigh the costs and benefits of proposed actions and possible alternative actions and to receive the broadest practicable array of comments from affected consumers, businesses, and the public at large. As stated above, since 1992, the Commission has repealed more than 40 percent of its industry guides and more than 48 percent of its trade regulation rules that were in existence in 1992 because they had ceased to serve a useful purpose. In sum, the Commission's regulatory actions are aimed at efficiently and fairly promoting the ability of "private markets to protect or improve the health and safety of the public, the environment, or the well-being of the American people." Executive Order 12866, section 1.

Regulatory Actions

The Commission has no actions that constitute "significant regulatory actions" under the definition in Executive Order 12866.

BILLING CODE 6750-01-F

NATIONAL INDIAN GAMING COMMISSION (NIGC)

Statement of Regulatory Priorities

The Indian Gaming Regulatory Act (IGRA or the Act), 25 U.S.C. 2701 et seq., was signed into law on October 17, 1988. The Act established the National Indian Gaming Commission (NIGC or the Commission). The stated purpose of the Commission is to regulate the operation of gaming by Indian tribes as a means of promoting tribal economic development, self-sufficiency, and strong tribal governments. It is the Commission's intention to provide regulation of Indian gaming to adequately shield it from organized crime and other corrupting influences, to ensure that the Indian tribe is the primary beneficiary of the gaming operation, and to assure that gaming is conducted fairly and honestly by both the operator and players.

The NIGC's regulatory priorities for the next fiscal year are to:

1. Establish regulations to implement the issuance of certificates of self-regulation for class III gaming operations.

2. Establish minimum internal control standards for tribal gaming operations, including standards for auditing, debt collection, accounting, and security.

3. Develop regulations to establish processes for the classification, review, and approval of games and devices used in tribal gaming.

NIGC

172. GAME CLASSIFICATION

Priority:

Other Significant

Legal Authority:

25 USC 2703; 25 USC 2706

CFR Citation:

Not yet determined

Legal Deadline:

None

Abstract:

This rule will establish processes for the classification, review, and approval of games and devices used in tribal gaming.

Statement of Need:

Over the course of the past couple of years, the NIGC has received numerous requests for advisory opinions on the classification of a particular game or device. The Commission has through an informal process issued several advisory opinions. However, given the growing number of requests and the need for some degree of predictability and certainty in the industry regarding the classification of games or devices, the Commission believes it is necessary to develop a formal process. Consequently, the Commission will use the rulemaking process to promulgate regulations in this area.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

The Indian Gaming Regulatory Act specifically defines both Class II and Class III gaming (25 USC section 2703). The Act also expressly authorizes the Commission to "promulgate such regulations and guidelines as it deems appropriate to implement the provisions of this Act (25 USC section 2706 (b)(10))." The Commission relies on these sections of the statute to authorize the development by regulation of a process of formal classification of particular games and devices.

Alternatives:

At this time, the only identified alternative is to continue with the informal process of issuing advisory opinions regarding particular games.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

The potential benefits to this regulatory action are to bring more clarity and predictability to the industry regarding classification. Those engaged in Indian gaming need to have some degree of certainty regarding the legal consequences of playing a particular game. For those tribes without tribal-State compacts, the need is even greater to know with as much certainty as possible the classification of a particular game or device. The anticipated costs of implementing a classification system are unknown at this time.

Risks:

The only identifiable risk at this time is the ability to pay for a formal classification process. The Commission is trying to expand its budget by lifting the statutory fee cap. These actions may be connected because without an increase in funding, it is highly unlikely that the Commission could afford to develop a formal classification system.

173. SELF-REGULATION CERTIFICATION FOR CLASS III GAMING OPERATIONS

Priority:

Other Significant

Legal Authority:

25 USC 2706(b)(10); 25 USC 2717(note)

CFR Citation:

25 CFR 518 (New)

Legal Deadline:

None

Abstract:

These regulations will implement the issuance of certificates of self-regulation for class III gaming operations.

Statement of Need:

Congress recently authorized the NIGC to collect fees from Class III gaming operations. Congress also declared that self-regulating tribes are exempt from the payment of these fees. Regulations establishing the criteria for self-regulation are therefore necessary to implement this new exemption.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

IGRA authorizes the Commission to "promulgate such regulations and guidelines as it deems appropriate to implement the provisions of this Act (25 USC 2706(b)(10))." Furthermore, PL 105-83 created an exemption from the payment of fees on Class III gaming revenues for self-regulating tribes.

Alternatives:

The Commission has no alternative but to promulgate these regulations, which will be used to determine whether a tribe is self-regulating and therefore entitled to the fee exemption.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

The potential benefits to this regulatory action are to establish and define for the regulated community what criteria must be met in order to be deemed self-regulating and therefore entitled to a fee exemption on Class III gaming revenues. The anticipated costs of implementing these regulations are unknown at this time.

Risks:

There are no known risks.

174. MINIMUM INTERNAL CONTROL STANDARDS FOR TRIBAL GAMING OPERATIONS

Priority:

Other Significant

Legal Authority:

25 USC 2702; 25 USC 2706(b)(10)

CFR Citation:

25 CFR 542; 25 CFR 573

Legal Deadline:

None

Abstract:

This rule establishes minimum internal control standards for tribal gaming operations, including standards for auditing, debt collection, accounting, and security.

Statement of Need:

In response to the inherent risks and the need for effective controls in tribal gaming operations, the Commission developed this rule to establish Minimum Internal Control Standards. The Commission has determined that it is appropriate and necessary to promulgate regulations on minimum internal control standards to implement one of the stated purposes of IGRA which is "to ensure that the Indian tribe is the primary beneficiary of the gaming operation, and to assure that gaming is conducted fairly and honestly by both the operator and players." 25 USC 2702(2).

Summary of the Legal Basis:

IGRA authorizes the Commission to "promulgate such regulations and guidelines as it deems appropriate to implement the provisions of this Act (25 USC 2706(b)(10))." The Commission relies on this section of the statute to authorize the establishment of minimum internal control standards for tribal gaming operations.

Alternatives:

The Commission has no alternative but to promulgate these minimum internal control standards for tribal gaming operations.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

The start-up cost is estimated to be an average of 35 million per gaming operation. The annual recurring costs are estimated to be an average of 1-15 million per gaming operation. The benefit of the regulations is that the MICS will help protect against loss of revenues by preventing theft by employees, patrons and other persons.

Risks:

There are no determined risks to this regulatory action.

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION (NRC)

Statement of Regulatory Priorities

Under the authority of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, and the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974, as amended, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) regulates the possession and use of source, byproduct, and special nuclear material. The NRC's regulatory mission is to ensure that civilian uses of nuclear materials and facilities are carried out in a manner that will protect public health and safety and the environment and that will not be inimical to the common defense and security of the United States. The NRC regulates the operation of nuclear power plants and fuel cycle plants; the safeguarding of nuclear materials from theft and sabotage; the safe transportation of nuclear materials; the decommissioning and return to safe use of licensed facilities that are no longer in operation; and the medical, industrial, and research applications of nuclear material.

The NRC's regulatory priority for the next fiscal year is to ensure that nuclear power plants and other licensed facilities are operated safely and that nuclear materials are possessed and used in a manner that will adequately protect public health and safety.

The NRC is addressing its regulatory initiatives in a manner that is consistent with the President's regulatory philosophy. The NRC routinely conducts comprehensive regulatory analyses that examine the costs and benefits of proposed regulations as part of its regulatory process. The NRC has developed internal procedures and programs to ensure that only necessary requirements are imposed on its licensees and to review existing regulations to determine whether the requirements imposed are still necessary.

Additionally, the NRC will continue to recover approximately 100 percent of its budget authority, less the amount appropriated from the Nuclear Waste Fund and the General Fund, as required by the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990, as amended.

PROPOSED RULE STAGE

175. • REVISION OF FEE SCHEDULES; 100 PERCENT FEE RECOVERY, FY 1999

Priority:

Economically Significant. Major under 5 USC 801.

Reinventing Government:

This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority:

42 USC 2201(w); 42 USC 2213; 42 USC 2214; 42 USC 5841; 31 USC 9701

Legal Deadline:

Other, Statutory, September 30, 1998.

Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990

Abstract:

The rulemaking would amend the licensing, inspection, and annual fees charged to NRC licensees and applicants for an NRC license. The amendments would be necessary to recover approximately 100 percent of the NRC budget authority for fiscal year 1999 less the amounts appropriated from the Nuclear Waste Fund and the General Fund.

Statement of Need:

This rulemaking would amend the licensing, inspection, and annual fees charged to NRC licensees and applicants for an NRC license. The amendments would be necessary to recover approximately 100 percent of the NRC budget authority for fiscal year 1999 less the amounts appropriated from the Nuclear Waste Fund and the General Fund. The OBRA-90 requires that the NRC accomplish the 100 percent recovery through the assessment of fees and recover the full cost to the NRC of all identifiable regulatory services that each applicant or licensee receives. The NRC assesses two types of fees to recover its budget authority. License and inspection fees (10 CFR part 170) are assessed under the authority of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act to recover the costs of providing individually identifiable services to specific applicants and licensees. Annual fees (10 CFR part 171) are assessed under the authority of OBRA-90 to recover generic and other regulatory costs not recovered from fees imposed under 10 CFR part 170. Annual fee charges are consistent with the guidance in the Conference Committee Report on OBRA-90 that the NRC assess the annual charge under the principle that licensees who require the greatest expenditure of the agency's resources should pay the greatest annual fee.

Summary of the Legal Basis:

The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990, as amended, (OBRA-90) requires that the NRC recover approximately 100 percent of its budget authority, less the amount appropriated from the Nuclear Waste Fund, for fiscal years 1991 through 1998. Legislation has been proposed to extend OBRA-90. The Act requires that the fees be collected during the fiscal year. Therefore, the final rule is to become effective by June 30, 1999.

Alternatives:

Because this action is mandated by statute and the fees must be assessed through rulemaking, the NRC did not consider alternatives to this action.

Anticipated Costs and Benefits:

The cost to NRC licensees will be approximately 100 percent of the NRC FY 1999 budget authority less the amount appropriated from the Nuclear Waste Fund and the General Fund. Based on the President's budget submission to Congress, the amount to be recovered from NRC applicants and licensees for FY 1999 would be approximately $467 million.

Risks:

Not applicable.

176. NATIONAL ORGANIC PROGRAM

Priority: Economically Significant

Legal Authority: PL 101-624, sec 2101 to 2123; 7 USC 6501 to 6522

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 205

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, May 28, 1992. Final, Statutory, October 1, 1993. Other, Statutory, May 28, 1991. The Organic Foods Production Act calls for the Secretary to appoint the National Organic Standards Board 180 days after enactment and convene it within 60 days thereafter.

Abstract: The program is proposed under the Organic Foods Production Act of 1990 (Title XXI of the Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act, P.L. 101-624), as amended (OFPA or Act), which requires the establishment of national standards governing the marketing of certain agricultural products as organically produced to facilitate commerce in fresh and processed food that is organically produced and to assure consumers that such products meet consistent standards. This program would establish national standards for the organic production and handling of agricultural products, which would include a national list of synthetic substances approved for use in the production and handling of organically produced products. It also would establish an accreditation program for State officials and private persons who want to be accredited to certify farms and handling operations that comply with the program's requirements and a certification program for farms and handling operations that want to be certified as meeting the program's requirements. The program additionally would include labeling requirements for organic products and products containing organic ingredients, and enforcement provisions. The rule provides for the approval of State organic programs and the importation into the United States of organic agricultural products from foreign programs determined to have equivalent requirements. Comments regarding this rule should be sent to: Eileen S. Stommes, Deputy Administrator, USDA, AMS-TM-NOP, Room 4007-So., Ag Stop 0275, P.O. Box 96456, Washington, D.C. 20090-6456. On December 16, 1997, the proposed rule was published with a public comment period that ended. On April 30, 1998. Over 185,000 comments were received and are currently being reviewed with a subsequent revised proposed rule planned for fiscal year 1999.

177. NATIONAL LABORATORY ACCREDITATION PROGRAM

Priority: Other Significant

Unfunded Mandates: Undetermined

Legal Authority: 7 USC 138 to 138i

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The 1990 Farm Bill authorized the creation of a National Laboratory Accreditation Program (NLAP) for laboratories that request accreditation and conduct residue testing of agricultural products concerning chemical residue levels on agricultural products. The program is designed to protect human health by ensuring that laboratories which make claims to the public concerning pesticide residue levels meet minimum quality and reliability standards. The standards for the NLAP will be provided by the Food and Drug Administration with the operation of the program under the Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA. The program costs will be offset by a fee schedule. The one-time appropriation was used to provide for a fully equipped pesticide laboratory to verify the findings of those laboratories applying for accreditation.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 7 USC 7461 to 7473

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 1214

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Two proposals were submitted to the Department of Agriculture for a Kiwifruit Research, Promotion, and Consumer Information Order. Under the proposals, producers and importers would pay an assessment not to exceed 10 cents per 7-pound tray of kiwifruit. The assessments would be used to conduct a general program to maintain, expand, and develop markets for kiwifruit. Seventy-five comments were received on the proposals. Most of which were negative. Therefore, the proposed program was held in abeyance until the Act could be amended. The Act was amended on 6/23/98. Subsequently, there will be a national referendum to determine if the proposed program will be implemented.

179. • FEDERAL SEED ACT; AMENDMENTS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1551 to 1611

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 201

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The objective of this proposal is to update the Federal Seed Act (FSA) regulations to incorporate current seed testing and seed certification procedures and the proposal would also make seeds of Federal Noxious Weed Act (FNWA) species noxious, in interstate shipments of seed. This amendment would keep the FSA regulations consistent with present technology and prevent conflicts between Federal and State regulations that could inhibit the free movement of seed. Making the FNWA species noxious would provide the States and AMS a means to regulate and prevent the spread of these highly destructive weeds.

Abstract: This action will consolidate the Guaranteed Farm Loan program regulations in to a single, streamlined regulation. The regulation will also be removed from title 7, subtitle B, chapter XVIII of the CFR and consolidated in chapter VII. Regulations will be entirely rewritten for clarity and to eliminate internal, administrative procedures from the CFR. Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 5 USC 301; 42 USC 1480

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 1823; 7 CFR 1951

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Indian tribes have experienced loss of Federal assistance in the last five years due to reorganization of the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) and the shifting of responsibilities from the BIA to the tribes themselves. These have included waste management, as well as other mandates. The funding to fully meet these mandates has been insufficient, requiring tribes to use other financial resources to meet them. Funding for tribal Priority Allocations, which include law enforcement, housing, education, natural resource management and other tribal services, was reduced in FY 1996. This action will allow for a reduction of debt commensurate with reductions from other Federal sources. Action will be taken on a case-by-case basis in determining the amount and timing of any debt reduction. This action is intended to head off further repayment difficulties and strengthen tribal operations. Outlays are expected to be $22 million.

Quota Announcement

Abstract: The objective of the peanut quota is to balance supply with demand at a level that will assure stable supplies for domestic use and assure producers a stable income. This action is required by statute, which provides a formula for computing the national quota, based on the Secretary's estimate of the amount of peanuts required for domestic food and related uses for the 1999 marketing year. The 1999 marketing year is from August 1, 1999 through July 31, 2000. This action is also needed to implement the peanut price support program, as required by statute. The price support levels provide a domestic price floor for quota and additional peanuts and a minimum export-edible sales price for additional peanuts. The Peanut Program, which includes the poundage quota, price support, and export policies, will result in gross outlays of about $30 million, which are expected to be offset by repayments and assessments in FY 1999 and subsequent years, for a net cost of 0.

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1312; 7 USC 1445

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 723; 7 CFR 1464

Legal Deadline: Other, Statutory, March 1, 1999.
Marketing Quota Announcement

Abstract: Marketing quotas and price support are required by statute for these kinds of tobacco: Fire-cured (type 21), Fire-cured (types 22-23), Dark Air-cure (types 35-36) Virginia sun-cured (type 37), and Cigar Filler and Binder (types 42-44 and 53-55).. Quotas and allotments are determined by statutory formula to balance supply with demand to assure stable supplies for domestic and export. Marketing quotas are implemented if approved by producers in referenda. Producers approved quotas for the 1999 crops of fire-cured (types 21-23), dark air-cured (types 35-36), and sun-cured (type 37) in March 1997 and 1998. Referenda for the other kinds are scheduled for March, 1999. Producers of these types have historically voted for quotas. Price support levels are set by statutory formula. The Secretary may reduce the level at the request of producer associations, and may limit increases to 65 percent of the formula increase. Gross loan outlays of $1 million in FY 2000 are expected to be offset by loan repayments and no-net-cost assessments in FY 2000 and subsequent years, for a net cost of 0.

Abstract: Section 142 of the Federal Agriculture Improvement and Reform Act of 1996 (7 U.S.C. 7252) requires USDA, through the CCC, to offer recourse loans for dairy products beginning on January 1, 2000. The objective of the program is to assist processors in managing their inventories of eligible dairy products and thereby increase price stability for the dairy industry. The current regulations were promulgated as final without public review or comment, as mandated, as part of the implementation of the Federal Agriculture Improvement and Reform Act of 1996. An Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking will seek a public review and comment on the terms and conditions of the dairy recourse loan program as currently provided in the regulations. Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 15 USC 714b

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 1407

Abstract: This action will set forth CCC's policies in taking regarding the debarment of suspension of individuals or firms from participation in Federal procurement and non-procurement programs. USDA has published Department-wide non-procurement debarment and suspension regulations at 7 CFR 3017. Effective 2/5/96, these regulations were amended to remove certain requirements that would have had a detrimental effect if they had been applied to CCC programs. Consequently, CCC is now proposing that 7 CFR 3017 apply to actions taken by CCC to debar or suspend participant or potential participant in CCC non-procurement programs, in order to foster uniformity and consistency with Department regulations. The procurement regulations will also be amended to change the official responsible for procurement suspension and debarment actions. No cost is expected.

Marketing Quota Announcement

Abstract: The flue-cured tobacco marketing quota and price support are required by statute. The purpose of the quota and price support is to balance supply with demand at levels assuring stable supplies for domestic and export use at prices that are considered sufficient for producers. The national quota is based on cigarette manufacturers' intentions, 3-year average exports, loan stocks adjustment, and a discretionary adjustment of plus or minus 3 percent. The price support level is based on a formula that averages market prices (2/3 weight) and a cost index (1/3 weight), plus discretion to limit any increase to 65 percent of the formula increase. Marketing quotas were approved by producers in a referendum in January, 1998. Gross loan outlays of $19 million in FY 2000 are expected to be offset by loan repayments and no-net-cost assessments in FY 2000 and subsequent years, for a net cost of 0.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 7 USC 1421

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 1464.101

Abstract: This action would change the number of kilograms of imported tobacco classified as a sample from five (5) kilograms or less to one hundred (100) kilograms or less. The objective is to lessen burdensome paperwork by importers and Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) without jeopardizing revenue or violating the intent of the program. This change would save time and paperwork since late payment reports are generated for these small amounts of tobacco but late payment fees and under paid assessments of less than $10.00 are not collected. The cost would be minimal because revenue from 100 kilograms of tobacco is normally less than $5.00 and there would be some savings to CCC from less paperwork, printing and postage.

Abstract: The Disaster Reserve Flood Compensation Program is a proposed program announced by Secretary Glickman on June 8, 1998, which will utilize proceeds from the sale of grain remaining in the Disaster Reserve. This Program is being established to provide monetary assistance to eligible livestock producers with flooded land that was used for the production of livestock. Long-term flooding of agricultural land has occurred in certain portions of the United States as a result of higher than normal snowfalls and excessive moisture. Benefits will be provided to livestock producers in the approved counties based on the land that is inaccessible or incapable of crop production, haying or grazing due to the flooding present in FY 98, and that have a Presidential Designation or Secretarial Declaration during the period January 1, 1997 through August 1, 1998. This action is needed to authorize the program in accordance with section 813 of the Agricultural Act of 1970 (establishes the Disaster Reserve) and S. Con. Res. 63 which authorizes use of the Disaster Reserve for livestock producers. The program will cost $12 million, which is the balance remaining in the Disaster Reserve.

252. • CHEMICAL TESTING OF FARMERS' STOCK PEANUTS FOR AFLATOXIN CONTENT

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 7 USC 357 et seq; 7 USC 7271; 15 USC 714

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 729; 7 CFR 1446

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action will seek comments concerning the classification of peanuts as to availability for edible uses by visual inspection for a aflatoxin-producing mold vs. chemical testing of the peanuts for aflatoxin. Currently, peanuts that have a particular mold are classified as Segregation 3, which may not be marketed as quota peanuts, therefore adversely impacting producer income and availability of peanuts that peanut processors could possibly clean to remove the aflatoxin or at least meet Food and Drug standards for aflatoxin content. Producers and handlers in Alabama support a change in testing procedures. Other areas and segments of the peanut industry have not had the opportunity to comment on this issue. This notice will solicit comments from all segments of the peanut industry, including consumers of peanuts and peanut products. Outlays have not been determined.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: PL 105-174

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 783; 7 CFR 1439

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The 1998 Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act (the Act) appropriated funds for the Dairy Production Disaster Assistance Program (DPDAP), the Livestock Assistance Program (LIP), and the Tree Assistance Program (TAP). DPDAP and LIP provide monetary assistance to eligible dairy and livestock producers for livestock losses, losses of milk that was produced but not marketed, and for diminished production that occurred as a result of natural disasters that occurred between November 27, 1997 and May 1, 1998, the date of enactment of the Act, and for which a Presidential or Secretarial disaster was requested and subsequently approved. TAP provides cost-share assistance to owners to replace or rehabilitate eligible trees and vines damaged by natural disasters in FY 98, and for which a Presidential or Secretarial disaster was requested and subsequently approved. The Act appropriated $6.8 million for DPDAP, $4 million for LIP, and $14 million for TAP, subject to official budget requests. If eligible losses exceed the appropriations, benefits will be factored.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 5 USC 301; 7 USC 1989; 31 USC 3711; 42 USC 1480

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 1956

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: FSA plans to revise its Farm Loan Programs Debt Settlement regulations for Nonprogram loans. The change will allow the Agency to settle nonprogram loans according to RD Instruction 1956-B. Currently, the regulations covering Debt Settlement for nonprogram loans are found in FmHA Instruction 1951-J, and RD Instruction 1956-B. This final rule will consolidate the requirements for debt settlement of nonprogram loans under RD Instruction 1956-B. This rule will make debt settlement procedures for nonprogram loans easier for FSA field employees to apply. This rule will not increase losses in the nonprogram loans. The Agency will be able to debt settle delinquent nonprogram loan accounts faster, minimize unnecessary interest accrual, and thus minimize losses to the Government.

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 319.40

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This advance notice of proposed rulemaking is to request public input on whether we should take action to reduce the risk of introducing exotic forest pests and pathogens into the United States on imported solid wood packing materials and what actions would be most effective and appropriate. Currently, 7 CFR 319.40-3 requires 100 percent removal of bark from solid wood packing materials entering the United States from any part of the world except Canada and the Mexican States adjacent to the U.S. border. This reduces the risk of pests associated with bark from entering the United States, but it has limited effect against deep wood forest pests and pathogens often associated with untreated wood. Recent introductions into the United States of exotic forest pests such as pine shoot beetle and Asian long horn beetle have been linked with the importation of solid wood packing materials.

283. ANIMAL WELFARE—STANDARDS FOR MARINE MAMMALS

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 7 USC 2131 to 2159

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 3

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Department regulates the treatment of certain marine mammals under the Animal Welfare Act. The present standards for treatment of these animals have been in effect for over 10 years. During this time, advances have been made and new information has been developed with regard to the housing and care of marine mammals. The Department has given notice of its review of the present standards to determine what revisions or additions might be necessary, and has requested comments on appropriate specific standards for treatment of marine mammals. The Department has conducted negotiated rulemaking (Reg Neg) and is developing proposed changes to the regulations. In addition to identifying regulatory provisions for revision based on negotiated rulemaking the Department is conducting separate rulemaking to establish standards governing "swim with the dolphins" (SWTD) programs.

Abstract: APHIS is developing a proposal to amend its plant pest regulations by: (1) Setting out the criteria that will be used by APHIS when considering whether an organism is a plant pest; (2) adding a permit category for organisms that would be released into the environment for purposes such as the biological control of weeds; (3) establishing a notification system that could be used in place of permits for the importation and interstate movement of certain low-risk organisms; and (4) revising or amending existing portions of the regulations to clarify or update requirements, eliminate redundancy, and make the regulations easier for the public to use. These proposed changes will serve as a follow-up to the advance notice of proposed rulemaking that APHIS published in the Federal Register on September 27, 1996, to solicit input on the need for regulatory changes and alternative methods of addressing plant pest risk.

Abstract: We are proposing to amend the user fee regulations by adjusting the fees charged for veterinary services we provide for import and export related activities. We are proposing to adopt user fees for these services for fiscal year 1998 through 2003. Costs to operate the Veterinary Services import-export program increase slightly from year to year due to increase in employee costs (i.e., cost of living, etc.) and changes in other operational costs. Therefore, we have determined that the fees must be adjusted to reflect the anticipated cost of providing these services through fiscal year 2003.

Abstract: APHIS is proposing to amend its citrus fruit regulations by recognizing a citrus-growing area within Argentina as being free from citrus canker. Surveys conducted by Argentine plant health authorities in that area of Argentina have shown the area to be free from citrus canker, and Argentine authorities are enforcing restrictions designed to protect the area from the introduction of that disease. APHIS is also proposing to amend its fruits and vegetables regulations to allow the importation of grapefruit, lemons, and oranges from the citrus canker-free area of Argentina under conditions designed to prevent the introduction into the United States of two other diseases of citrus, sweet orange scab and citrus black spot, and other plant pests. These proposed changes would modify the citrus fruits regulations to recognize the citrus canker-free area of Argentina and would add provisions to the fruits and vegetables regulations that would allow the importation, from Argentina, of grapefruit, lemons, and oranges subject to certain conditions.

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 7 USC 2131 to 2159

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 1; 9 CFR 2

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: We are considering several changes to the Animal Welfare regulations to ensure the humane handling, care, and treatment of dogs and cats, while concentrating our regulatory efforts on those facilities that present the greatest risk of noncompliance with the regulations. Specifically, we are considering revising the definition of "retail pet store" so that it includes only nonresidential, commercial retail stores, rather than any pet retailer. Retail pet stores are not required to be licensed and inspected under the Animal Welfare Act (AWA). If the definition were revised, many pet retailers now exempt from licensing and inspection requirements would have to be licensed and inspected. We are also considering regulating dealers of hunting, breeding, and security dogs in the same manner as other dealers of dogs. Because these changes could severely strain available Federal resources for carrying out inspections and other enforcement activities under the AWA, we are considering increasing the total number of breeding female dogs and/or cats that a person may maintain on his or her premises and be exempt from licensing and inspection requirements.

Abstract: This proposed rule would establish irradiation as a new treatment alternative for the importation of certain fresh fruits and vegetables. Irradiation would be allowed as an alternative to other treatments that are required to control certain species of fruit flies in a variety of imported fruits and vegetables. If this proposal is adopted, importers of certain fruits and vegetables will have an additional alternative to the currently approved treatments such as fumigation and cold treatment for treating their articles. No net societal gains and losses other than small price-related changes are expected from this proposed rule change.

Abstract: Bovine tuberculosis is a contagious, infectious, and communicable disease affecting cattle, bison, and other species, including humans. The spread of bovine tuberculosis in the United States could have serious consequences for the United States cattle and bison industries, as well as for human health. Currently, the regulations concerning control and eradication programs for bovine tuberculosis in livestock only regulate cattle, bison, and swine. Recent outbreaks in the United States of bovine tuberculosis in semi-domesticated herds of cervidae (such as deer and elk) have made apparent the need to also regulate captive cervids raised for agricultural purposes, sport, or exhibition, in order to prevent the spread of bovine tuberculosis.

Abstract: APHIS is amending its export certification regulations to provide for the establishment of a program under which nongovernment facilities can become accredited to perform specific laboratory testing or phytosanitary inspection services that may serve as the basis for the issuance of Federal phytosanitary certificates. The accreditation criteria for particular laboratory testing and phytosanitary inspection services will be developed by APHIS in cooperation with other appropriate governmental, industry, academic, or research entities. Prior to this rule, only tests conducted by public laboratories or inspections carried out by Federal or State inspectors and agents could be used as the basis for the issuance of a Federal phytosanitary certificate. The accreditation program will provide a mechanism for qualified non-government facilities to become accredited to perform the testing or inspection services that may be used as supporting documentation for the issuance of phytosanitary certificates for certain plants or plant products.

Abstract: Karnal bunt is a fungal disease of wheat (Triticum aestivum), durum wheat (Triticum durum), and triticale (Triticum aestivum x Secale cereale), a hybrid of wheat and rye. In the absence of measures taken by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the establishment of Karnal bunt in the United States would have significant consequences with regard to the export of wheat to international markets. Prior to March 8, 1996, Karnal bunt was not known to exist in the United States. Since March 8, 1996, Karnal bunt has been detected within several States. In response, we have established regulations that define regulated areas in certain States because of Karnal bunt, restrict the the movement of certain articles from the regulated areas to prevent the spread of Karnal bunt, and provide compensation for certain growers, handlers, and other individuals in the regulated areas to mitigate losses and expenses incurred because of actions taken by the Secretary to prevent the spread of Karnal bunt. As part of a continuing Karnal bunt program, we anticipate that the regulations concerning regulated areas, movement restrictions, and compensation will be revised as more is known about the Karnal bunt situation in the United States.

This action also relieves restrictions with regard to BSE on the importation from certain countries of ruminants and meat, meat products, and other edible products of ruminants, and relieves restrictions under certain conditions on the importation of meat from ruminants of the family Cervidae.

Abstract: The Cooperative State Research Education and Extension Service (CSREES) proposes to modify the Small Business Innovation Research Program Administrative Provisions by changing the language of when a Phase I awardee is eligible to apply for a Phase II award. Currently a Phase I awardee may apply for a Phase II award in the next fiscal year funding cycle or the second fiscal year funding cycle. CSREES intends to revise this language to allow Phase I awardees to apply in either of the two fiscal years following the end of the initial project period; this does not include any no-cost extensions of time. This revision will allow an eighteen-month Phase I awardee the same privileges as that of a six-month Phase I awardee. Privileges as used herein refers to the opportunity for a no-cost extension of time, if necessary, and two options of when a Phase I awardee may apply for a Phase II award.

Abstract: This ruling will effectuate a comprehensive civil rights regulation implementing the following laws: The Equal Credit Opportunity Act (ECOA); title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968, as amended by the Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988 (The Fair Housing Act); the Age Discrimination Act of 1975, and programs and activities; Amendments of 1972; and Executive Order 11246. The revised regulations will provide detailed guidelines for field offices for improved enforcement and compliance with these laws which heavily impact the Agency's programs. Mechanisms for monitoring compliance by field offices and recipients of financial assistance at all levels will decrease the Agency's vulnerability due to noncompliance with recently enacted Civil Rights legislation.

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 407

Abstract: The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) hereby proposes to issue provisions which will outline a new risk management tool to be known as the Group Risk Plan of Insurance (GRP). This plan will insure against the widespread loss of production of certain crops in a county and is intended primarily for use by those farmers whose yields tend to follow the county average yield. GRP pays only when the average yield of the entire county drops below the expected county yield for the insured crop set by the FCIC. Payment is based on the percentage of county or area wide loss below the insured's trigger yield. Specific GRP Crop Insurance Provisions will be proposed for cotton, wheat, barley, corn, grain, sorghum, soybeans, forage production, and peanuts.

355. GRAIN INSPECTION GENERAL REGULATIONS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 71

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 800

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposal, a housekeeping-type rulemaking, is the result of GIPSA's review, under the NPR, of regulations contained in 7 CFR 800. These regulations relate to inspection of grain under the U.S. Grain Standards Act and consist of administrative direction on how the public can request service, how Federal, State or private laboratories must provide service and what fees are charged for the service. In determining what changes to propose in this section, GIPSA consulted users of the service on what changes they felt were needed in the regulations, discussed with legal counsel information required to be in the regulations for enforcement purposes, and reviewed information taken from its day-to-day operations. These changes are being proposed to clarify the language and update the regulations to reflect current technology and operating practices.

356. REVIEW INSPECTION REQUIREMENTS

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 7 USC 71 et seq

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 800.125; 7 CFR 800.135

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: GIPSA is proposing to revise regulations under the US Grain Standards Act to allow interested persons to stipulate the quality factors that would be redetermined during a reinspection or appeal inspection for grade. Currently reinspections and appeal inspections for grade must include a review for all factors that (1) may determine the grade; (2) are reported on the original certificate; or (3) are required to be shown. GIPSA has determined that mandating all quality factors be reexamined during a review inspection is inefficient, time consuming and costly. Further, such a complete review of the preceding inspection service is usually not needed to confirm the true quality of the grain. This proposed action will allow interested parties to specify which official factors should be redetermined during the reinspection or appeal inspection service. However, to safeguard against inadvertent misgrading, official personnel may determine other factors, when deemed necessary.

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: PL 103-448; PL 104-193

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 210; 7 CFR 220; 7 CFR 225

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, May 2, 1996.

Abstract: Sec. 301 of P.L. 103-448 required the consolidation of the National School Lunch Program (NSLP) and the School Breakfast Program (SBP) into a comprehensive meal program in schools. Sec. 741 of P.L. 104-193 expanded the concept of a school-based comprehensive meal program to include the Summer Food Service Program (SFSP). Major provisions in the proposal will include: extending a number of provisions to the breakfast program that previously applied only to lunch (e.g., extending point of service counts to breakfast and supplements and extending "one lunch per child per day" provision to breakfast and supplements); simplifying the operation of the summer program by extending lunch/breakfast operational rules to summer meals; and permitting permanent agreements and an abbreviated review of free and reduced price applications. This rule will delete Sec. 210.28 of the existing regulations which authorizes the State food distribution advisory council and an existing SBP rule which requires the State agency to provide information to school boards concerning the availability of benefits at school. 7 CFR part 220 will be removed and 7 CFR part 225 will only apply to SFSPs administered by private nonprofit organizations. Additionally, this rule will incorporate the rules for waiver requests and for "Buy American." (95-013)

Abstract: The Department of Agriculture is proposing substantial revisions to the Food Stamp Program regulations governing State agency administrative and management requirements. This action is being taken to incorporate certain provisions from the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 (Welfare Reform) and in response to the President's Regulatory Reform effort and as part of the Department's ongoing effort to expand State flexibility. This action will provide the State agencies with more flexibility in operating the Food Stamp Program by eliminating outdated or overly prescriptive requirements. Abstract: This rulemaking proposes to incorporate in the Child and Adult Care Food Program regulations several recommendations suggested by the Department's Office of Inspector General as a result of recently conducted audits. The audits revealed high levels of noncompliance by sponsors and family day care homes in several areas of Program operations.

The Department also proposes to incorporate in the regulations several recommendations from a State-Federal task force in the areas of (1) State approval of both new and renewing institutions; (2) State oversight of institutions; and (3) training and operational requirements for child care institutions, sponsors of family day care homes, outside-school-hours care centers, and family day care home providers.

As a result of the task force's recommendations, this rulemaking also proposes other changes to the CACFP regulations which are intended to streamline the operation of the program at the State and local levels, improve its integrity, and strengthen oversight control. (95-024)

377. DETERMINING ELIGIBILITY FOR FREE AND REDUCED PRICE MEALS AND FREE MILK IN SCHOOLS: PROVISION 2 AND PROVISION 3

Priority: Other Significant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: PL 103-448

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 245

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Currently, schools that serve all meals free for 3 consecutive years may determine free and reduced price school meal eligibility and take daily meal counts by category (free, reduced price and paid) once every 3 years. In years when actual meal counts by category are not taken, schools claim meals for reimbursement based on claiming percentages. This counting and claiming alternative is commonly referred to as Provision 2. This rule would allow schools to extend current procedures an additional 2 years if the socioeconomic status of the schools' population remains stable and allow subsequent 5-year cycles. This rule would also add another alternative for schools that serve all meals free for 4 consecutive years. These schools would receive the same level of cash and commodity assistance they received in the last year free and reduced price eligibility determinations were made, adjusted for inflation and changes in enrollment. For both alternatives, meal costs that exceed reimbursement must be paid for with other than Federal funds. (96-003)

378. FOOD STAMP PROGRAM REGULATORY REVIEW: CERTIFICATION OF ELIGIBLE HOUSEHOLDS

Priority: Other Significant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will eliminate existing text in the CFR.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 2011 to 2026

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 273

Abstract: This action proposes to amend Food Stamp Program rules governing the certification of eligible households. It results from a comprehensive, page-by-page review of all existing Food Stamp Program regulations conducted in response to the President's regulatory reform initiative. The proposed changes would empower States to set their own procedures for case management and customer service; remove overly prescriptive, outdated, and redundant provisions; and emphasize recipient responsibility for complying with Program requirements. Abstract: This proposal would make minor adjustments and corrections in the Federal regulations for the WIC food packages, to recognize new container sizes for and physical forms of several of the allowable WIC foods. This rule would also propose allowing more alternative physical forms of the current WIC foods (e.g., shelf-stable concentrated adult juices packaged in tetra boxes which are new on the market compared to frozen concentrated forms of adult juices). Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1786

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 246

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule would propose revisions to the bloodwork requirements for WIC applicants. Currently, to be certified as eligible for the Program, applicants must be determined at nutritional risk. In determining nutritional risk, at a minimum height or length and weight must be measured, and a hematological test for anemia must be performed. This rule would eliminate the requirement for a hematological test for anemia as part of the certification process if another risk factor is present that would qualify the applicant as nutritionally at risk. Hematological test data for anemia would still be required for counseling and food package purposes. (96-008)

Abstract: Public Law 104-149, enacted on May 29, 1996, establishes additional menu planning alternatives for the school meals programs and requires the secretary to establish guidelines for the use of these additional alternatives. One alternative specified in the statute was the meal pattern in effect for the 1994-95 school year; the other was "any reasonable approach." This proposed regulation would reestablish the meal pattern as a menu planning alternative and provide guidelines for school food authorities to develop a different approach to menu planning. Abstract: This rule proposes to amend provisions of the Food Distribution Program Regulations and the Emergency Food Assistance Program Regulations to implement the personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996, commonly known as Welfare Reform, while generally streamlining and providing greater clarity to these regulations. In accordance with the Welfare Reform legislation, the proposals contained in this rule would address various program changes required by the repeal of Section 110 of the Hunger Prevention Act of 1988, which authorized the former Soup Kitchens/Food Banks Program (SK/FB) and the amendment of definitional terms regarding organizational eligibility in the Emergency Food Assistance Program (TEFAP), contained in the Emergency Food Assistance Act of 1983, accompanying the absorption of SK/FB into TEFAP. Changes to term definitions are also proposed in order to provide greater clarity to the regulations. As required by Welfare Reform, this rule also proposes changes in the required contents and frequency of submission of the TEFAP State plan of operation, an encouragement for States to create advisory boards comprised of public and private entities with an interest in the distribution of TEFAP commodities, broadening the definition of allowable usage of TEFAP administrative funds at the State level, and greater flexibility for States in meeting the TEFAP maintenance of effort requirement. In order to reduce the paperwork burden and afford the States greater flexibility, this rule also proposes changes in TEFAP recordkeeping, monitoring, and reporting requirements. (96-029)

Abstract: This regulation proposes to revise both the food and nutrition services and administration (NSA) funding formulas to improve the effectiveness of WIC funds distribution in a stable funding environment with limited program growth. The revised food funding formula will help to ensure food funds are allocated to States that can utilize the funds to maintain current participation as well as to direct additional funds, if available, to States that are serving a lesser proportion of their WIC eligible population as compared to other States. The revised NSA funding formula will simplify the funding formula by deleting obsolete components and will update existing components to more equitably distribute funding among WIC State Agencies. Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 253

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule proposes the establishment of disqualification penalties under the Food Distribution Program for Indian Reservations (FDPIR) for intentional program violations (IPV). It will include provisions that define IPV, establish disqualification penalties for initial and subsequent violations, and address the procedures and requirements for disqualification hearings and notices. The proposed rule will also address the establishment and handling of claims against households. This proposed rulemaking is in response to a recent audit recommendation by USDA's Office of Inspector General to adopt disqualification penalty procedures for IPVs. FDPIR is an alternative to the Food Stamp Program for eligible households living on or near Indian reservations. Food Stamp Program regulations at 7 CFR 273.16 establish disqualification penalties for IPVs and require State agencies to take appropriate action on alleged cases of IPVs. In proposing similar requirements under FDPIR, we expect to deter program abuse, thereby improving program integrity. (97-012)

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: PL 101-624; PL 104-127

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 247

Abstract: The rule will affect program streamlining by proposing to: 1) Make the State plan and Federal/State agreement permanent, with amendments as needed; 2) Reduce the on-site review requirement of local agencies by States; 3) Change the caseload cycle to the period from January 1 to December 31; 4) Amend the determination of base caseload to consider a State's participation in the previous fiscal year or in the final quarter of the previous fiscal year, but not in the month of September; and 5) Consolidate a number of regulatory sections for the purpose of clarification and removal of redundancy.

The rule will propose to allow States to discontinue participants for physical abuse or the threat of physical abuse of program staff, for a period not to exceed three months.

The rule will incorporate legislative provisions that have been implemented through program policy including a revision of the percentage of appropriated funds and funds carried over from the previous year, for program administration, to 20 percent; and a requirement that State and local agencies provide to participants information on other programs providing assistance to low-income households. 397. WIC: REQUIREMENTS FOR AND EVALUATION OF WIC PROGRAM REQUESTS FOR BIDS FOR INFANT FORMULA REBATE CONTRACTS

Priority: Economically Significant. Major under 5 USC 801.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1786

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 246

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: At the time the current cost containment regulations were published in 1989, there were only minor differences in infant formula wholesale prices and few differences in types of infant formulas offered by manufacturers, i.e., milk- and soy-based infant formula. However, current wholesale prices vary considerably among manufacturers for similar formulas and several new infant formulas have emerged on the market over the last decade. Therefore, to reflect market changes in the infant formula industry and to optimize competition in the WIC Program's infant formula rebate contracts, this proposed rule would require WIC State agencies to award infant formula rebate contracts based on the lowest net price, allowing highest gross rebate as a basis of award only when retail prices of the different brands of infant formula vary, on average, by 5 percent or less. Additionally, this proposed rule would define the types and forms of infant formula that must be included in cost containment systems. It would also expand on conditions that must be met for the issuance of infant formulas not covered by rebate contracts. (92-013)

399. FOOD STAMP PROGRAM: ANTICIPATING INCOME AND REPORTING CHANGES

Priority: Other Significant

Unfunded Mandates: This action may affect State, local or tribal governments.

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 2011 to 2032

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 272; 7 CFR 273

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule proposes revisions in Food Stamp Program procedures for reporting and acting on changes in earned income. The changes are designed to increase State agency flexibility and improve procedures for determining the eligibility and benefits of households whose income fluctuates unpredictably. Under this proposal, State agencies would choose from three different reporting requirements for households with earned income. The reporting requirement a State agency selects would replace the current requirement that households report a change of more than $25 in earned income. In addition to reporting a change in source of income, households would be required to report one of the following: a change in wage rate or salary and a change in part-time or full-time status, provided the household is certified for no more than 3 months; a change in wage rate or salary and a change of more than 5 hours a week that is expected to continue for more than a month; or a change in the amount earned of more than $80 a month. Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 7 USC 2011 to 2032; PL 103-66, sec 13961

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 277

Legal Deadline: Other, Statutory, April 1, 1994.
The Act requires funding rate reduction effective 04/01/94.

Abstract: State agencies are reimbursed by FNS at standard or enhanced Federal reimbursement level for all allowable costs incurred in the State's operation of the Food Stamp Program. This proposed rule would reduce the Federal reimbursement rate for State agencies for fraud control, system development, and immigration status verification to the standard 50 percent rate. It would also limit the time period during which State agencies may file a claim for retroactive funding, and allows the cost of certifying aid to families with dependent children to be charged to the Food Stamp Program for purposes of Federal reimbursement. CFR Citation: 7 CFR 210; 7 CFR 220; 7 CFR 226

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule amends the regulations for the National School Lunch Program (7 CFR 210), School Breakfast Program (7 CFR 220) and the Child and Adult Care Food Program (7 CFR 226) to (1) eliminate the option of serving whole cow's milk to infants between the ages of 8 months and 1 year instead of infant formula or breast milk and (2) permit reimbursement for meals containing only breast milk. The first provision responds to scientific evidence indicating that whole cow's milk is nutritionally deficient compared to breast milk and formula and is not recommended for children less than 1 year old. The second provision is intended to remove a potential disincentive to breast feeding. A related provision would permit providers to give infants that are less than 4 months old an amount of breast milk less than the minimum requirement when the infants consistently do not want the full minimum amount. These provisions include: counting the unborn child of an otherwise income-ineligible pregnant woman, allowing State agencies to deem income-eligible pregnant women presumptively eligible for a period not to exceed 60 days, an increase in the national breastfeeding promotion and support expenditure, and a requirement that Medicaid managed care providers be included in the programs to which WIC must make referrals. Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, January 1, 1997.
Only the two provisions related to administrative funds are mandated by Pub. L. 104-193 to be implemented into regulations by 01/01/97.

Abstract: This interim rule incorporates changes to the Child and Adult Care Food Program (CACFP) as required by the Child Nutrition and WIC Reauthorization Act of 1989 and the Healthy Meals for Healthy Americans Act of 1994 by: (1) providing administrative funds to family day care home sponsors for expansion into low-income or rural areas; (2) granting federally funded income-eligible Head Start participants automatic eligibility for free CACFP meals without further application or eligibility determination; and (3) allowing the use of administrative funds to assist unlicensed day care homes in becoming licensed. These revisions are intended to encourage program participation in low-income and rural areas and to reduce the level of administrative and paperwork burden for Federal, State and local program administrators and for program participants. Abstract: Recent legislative actions have made a number of changes to conditions affecting reimbursement, participation of certain service organizations, and State administration under the Summer Food Service Program (SFSP). This interim rule implements several nondiscretionary amendments to SFSP that are prescribed by the Healthy Meals for Healthy Americans Act of 1994 (Pub. Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 273; 7 CFR 274

Abstract: This proposed rule will allow States and/or their EBT processors to make adjustments to an EBT household's food stamp account under certain circumstances. Current regulations do not allow adjustments to a household's EBT account balance once the benefits have been made available to the household. Occasionally, however, system errors and other malfunctions result in out-of-balance settlement conditions which must be adjusted manually. This proposed rule describes the conditions under which an adjustment is allowed, and the accompanying notice requirements. The rule also makes changes to the representation formula. (97-009)

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, August 5, 1998.
PL 105-33, sec 1005 requires publication of a rule implementing Title I provisions of that Act no later than 1 yr. after date of enactment. PL 105-33 was enacted 8/5/97.

Abstract: This rule will implement two food stamp provisions of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997. The first provision provides State agencies the authority to exempt from the food stamp time-limit at section 6(o)(2) of the Food Stamp Act up food stamp time-limit up to 15 percent of the State's caseload that is subject to the requirement. The second provision provides additional funding for administration of the Food Stamp Employment and training (E&T) programs. These two provisions enhance State flexibility in exempting portions of a State agency's caseload from the food stamp time limit and increase significantly the funding available to create work opportunities for recipients that are subject to the time limit. Abstract: Currently, there is public interest to accommodate further those WIC participants whose dietary practices and/or food preferences are not met with existing milks available in WIC food packages. This proposed rule would provide State WIC agencies with the option of providing soy-based beverages (soymilk) to WIC participants whose dietary practices and/or food preferences are not met with existing WIC milks. By providing States with such authority, nutritionally at-risk WIC participants could better meet their daily requirements for those nutrients essential to proper growth and development. (98-002)

Legal Authority: 21 USC 601; 21 USC 451

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 318.21; 9 CFR 381.153

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: FSIS is proposing to eliminate its Accredited Laboratory Program (ALP). The ALP was established in 1987 to enable meat and poultry establishments to obtain timely analytic results for product suspected of noncompliance with regulatory requirements (9 CFR 318.21 and 381.153). In such "hold-and-test" situations, plants can have samples analyzed by laboratories accredited by FSIS for certain residue chemistry analyses (e.g., chlorinated by hydrocarbons) and/or four food chemistry analyses (protein, moisture, fat, and salt content). These analyses by accredited laboratories are paid for by the meat or poultry plant, whereas samples analyzed by FSIS laboratories are at Agency expense. Despite this, accredited laboratories appeal to industry because there are only three FSIS laboratories and they carry a heavy analytic burden. Product held for testing is highly perishable, and obtaining rapid test results is frequently a high priority for plants. FSIS believes, however, that the ALP is no longer the best way to provide this service to industry and the public and that its functions would be better performed by independent third-party accreditation authorities. The implementation of HACCP systems in all FSIS-inspected plants is expected to preclude many "hold-and-test" situations and thereby reduce the primary need for the ALP. Plants needing to obtain accredited laboratory results for whatever reasons can consult an independent, third party accreditation service to determine if a specific laboratory meets appropriate standards.

Such standards are increasingly being harmonized internationally as a result of widespread adoption of the ISO 9000 Series of Standards for quality evaluation of industry performance (the ISO 9000 Standard for analytic laboratories is contained in Guide 25). The European Community, for example, has recently required that quality systems of many suppliers of products related to health, safety, and the environment be formally registered by a third party according to the ISO 9000 Standards. Moreover, such accreditation can be performed by third parties at a lower cost than the FSIS ALP, which charges each laboratory $2500 per year. Eliminating the ALP would not cause any additional expense or burden for industry, and it would place the responsibility on industry to obtain credible sample results for whatever purposes. FSIS will request comment on this proposed action.

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 325; 9 CFR 381

Abstract: The Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS), in conjunction with the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) addressing possible transportation and storage requirements for potentially hazardous foods. (A potentially hazardous food is one, either natural or synthetic, that is in a form capable of supporting the rapid and progressive growth of infectious or toxicogenic microorganisms.) For purposes of this ANPRM, potentially hazardous foods include meat, poultry, eggs, seafood, and dairy products.

In the past, FSIS and FDA regarded their ability to control adulterated food products in commerce, combined with the standard practices of transportation and storage firms, as adequate to prevent public health problems from occurring. However, FSIS and FDA are now considering efforts to ensure that potentially hazardous foods outside food processing establishments will be handled in a way that will minimize the growth of pathogenic microorganisms and prevent the introduction of new pathogenic organisms or other hazards. The ANPRM solicited comments and information on various aspects of the transportation and storage of potentially hazardous foods.

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 21 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 304; 9 CFR 305

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: FSIS is proposing to streamline and clarify the regulations in 9 CFR parts 304 and 305, which provide for grant and inauguration of inspection in meat and poultry establishments.

Under the current regulations, prior to commercial operation, establishments must apply for grant of inspection by submitting for FSIS review and approval establishment floor plans and blueprints, equipment specifications, and other information. If FSIS approves this information and grants inspection, a circuit supervisor visits the establishment to inform the operator of the applicable regulations. Subsequently, FSIS inspection is inaugurated and the establishment may begin manufacturing product for commercial distribution.

FSIS is proposing to streamline and clarify these requirements in light of (1) new section 304.3, under which compliance with requirements in the Agency's regulations on sanitation standard operating procedures and hazard analysis and critical control point systems (parts 416 and 417) are conditions for receiving inspection, and (2) final action on the Agency's proposal (Docket No. 95-032P) to eliminate the requirement that floor plans, blueprints, equipment specifications be preapproved by FSIS before inspection is granted.

Legal Authority: 21 USC 451 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 381

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: FSIS is proposing to amend the regulations in 9 CFR 381.66 governing the chilling of poultry by replacing the specific time/temperature requirements for chilling poultry of various sizes with a performance standard based on the capability of the chilling process to extend the lag-phase of bacterial growth on the raw product. Poultry that has been slaughtered and eviscerated would have to be processed by a method that would ensure that bacterial multiplication on the poultry is minimized from the time of evisceration until further processing by cooking or freezing or until shipment from the establishment. The proposal would remove the overly prescriptive features of the current poultry chilling regulations and make these regulations more consistent with the HACCP regulations.

Legal Authority: 21 USC 451 et seq

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 317; 9 CFR 381; 9 CFR 440

Abstract: FSIS is developing a proposal to limit the amount of water absorbed and retained by single-ingredient raw meat and poultry products to the amount that is unavoidable in carrying out washing or chilling procedures. Such products include immersion-chilled poultry carcasses and raw meat byproducts that are chilled in water. A requirement for raw products to bear a labeling statement on absorbed water content is being considered. However, establishments having data that demonstrate their raw products do not gain weight as a result of washing or chilling would not have to label the products with such a statement. The proposal also would replace the command-and-control provisions of the regulations on poultry chilling and moisture control with performance standards. This proposal is being made in furtherance of the Agency's regulatory reform effort and in response to a July 23, 1997, U.S. District Court order setting aside current moisture limits for frozen, cooked, or consumer-packaged whole poultry. The labeling provisions of this proposal would be intended to provide consumers with additional information for making purchasing decisions. Affected establishments would have to bear the minimal costs associated with any required labeling modifications.

Abstract: The Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS) is proposing to amend the Federal meat and poultry inspection regulations by establishing food safety performance standards for shelf-stable, ready-to-eat meat and poultry products. The proposed performance standards spell out the objective level of pathogen reduction meat and poultry establishments must meet during their operations in order to produce safe products, but allow the use of customized, plant-specific processing procedures. Although FSIS routinely samples and tests some shelf-stable, ready-to-eat products for the presence of pathogens prior to distribution, currently there are no specific regulatory requirements for pathogen reduction in place for these products. Further, a 1994 outbreak of disease linked to consumption of dry fermented salami contaminated with the pathogen E. coli 0157:H7 indicates a need for performance standards for these products. The proposed performance standards would improve the safety of these products, give establishments the incentive and flexibility to adopt innovative, science-based food safety processing procedures and controls, and provide objective, measurable standards that can be verified by Agency inspectional oversight.

Abstract: FSIS is proposing to establish pathogen reduction performance standards for all perishable, ready-to-eat meat and poultry products. Along with HACCP, food safety performance standards will give establishments the incentive and flexibility to adopt innovative, science-based food safety processing procedures and controls, while providing objective, measurable standards that can be verified by Agency inspectional oversight. This set of performance standards will include and be consistent with those soon to be in place for ready-to-eat poultry products.

439. PERFORMANCE STANDARDS FOR BACON

Priority: Other Significant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will eliminate existing text in the CFR.

Legal Authority: 21 USC 601

CFR Citation: 9 CFR 318.7(b)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: FSIS is proposing to revise the regulatory provisions concerning the production and testing of bacon (9 CFR 318.7(b)). FSIS is proposing to remove provisions that require the Agency to test bacon for nitrosamines and to remove provisions that prescribe the substances and amounts of such substances that must be used to produce bacon. FSIS is proposing to replace these provisions with performance standards that establishments producing bacon must meet. To meet these proposed performance standards, the process used would be required to prevent the multiplication of Clostridium botulinum and limit the multiplication Clostridium perfringens. In addition, the process would be required to limit the presence of nitrosamines when the product is cooked. All establishments not yet operating under the Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Point (HACCP) system requirements would be required to develop and have on file a process schedule documenting the control, monitoring, verification, validation, and corrective action activities associated with bacon production. Once all establishments are operating according to HACCP system requirements, a separate process schedule for producing bacon would no longer be necessary . Establishments under HACCP would be required to incorporate the proposed performance standards into their HACCP plans.

FSIS is proposing these regulations in order to allow establishments to develop alternative means of producing bacon. In addition, FSIS is proposing these regulations to remove the Agency's testing responsibilities and to require establishments producing bacon, instead, to control and monitor their own processes.

Abstract: FSIS is initiating action to decrease the food safety risks associated with shell eggs and egg products through joint issuance of a notice with the Food and Drug Administration (FDA). Eggs contaminated with Salmonella enteritidis (SE) are associated with increasing numbers of human illnesses and continue to be a public health concern. Although FDA has primary jurisdiction over shell eggs, the two agencies share inspection responsibility for eggs and egg products. Through joint issuance of the ANPRM, FSIS and FDA are exploring all alternatives and gathering data on the costs and benefits of various regulatory approaches.

Abstract: The Food Safety and Inspection Service is proposing to amend the mandatory meat and poultry products inspection regulations concerning the reworking of carcasses accidentally contaminated during evisceration. The proposal would replace with performance standards the current prescriptive provisions governing the handling of meat carcasses and the reprocessing of poultry carcasses that have been so contaminated and would permit the on-line reprocessing of carcasses, provided the applicable performance standards are met. The proposal would permit establishments to reprocess contaminated meat and poultry carcasses on the evisceration line, rather than at separate stations, if the establishments can scientifically demonstrate a substantial improvement in the microbiological quality of the carcasses. The amended regulations would be consistent with the Agency's pathogen reduction (PR) and hazard analysis and critical control point (HACCP) regulations.

Abstract: The Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS) is proposing to add Mexico to the list of countries eligible to export poultry products listed in the Poultry Products Inspection Act (PPIA) into the United States. Reviews of Mexico's laws, regulations, and other materials indicate that its poultry processing system is acceptable under the PPIA and its implementing regulations. Poultry slaughtered in Mexico would not be permitted to be imported into the United States. Only poultry products that have been slaughtered in federally inspected establishments in the United States and processed in certified Mexican establishments would be permitted to be imported into the United States. This action would enable processed poultry products from certified processing establishments in Mexico to be imported into the United States.

Abstract: In 1994, the Food Safety and Inspection Service amended its regulations to recognize that product resulting from advanced meat/bone separation machinery comes within the definition of meat when recovery systems are operated to assure that the characteristics and composition of the resulting product are consistent with those of meat. Subsequent compliance problems and other concerns have made it apparent that the regulations are confusing and inadequate to prevent misbranding and economic adulteration. Therefore, FSIS is developing a proposed rule to clarify the regulations and supplement the rules for assuring compliance.

Abstract: The Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) proposes to revise regulations applicable to the financing of the sale and exportation of agricultural commodities pursuant to title I of the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, as amended (Pub. This change would allow additional foreign private entities to participate in title I, and thereby increase exports of U.S. agricultural commodities.

Abstract: The Forest Service is revising its current policy and procedures implemented in February 1987, concerning administration of hydropower authorizations and the processing of proposals for hydropower projects affecting National Forest System lands. These revisions are necessary to make agency policy and procedures consistent with regulatory changes by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC). The proposed policy was published in the Federal Register on May 22, 1995 (60 FR 27153) for a 60-day public comment period, which was extended for another 45 days (60 FR 36401). As a result of the comments received, substantial changes were made to the proposed policy (60 FR 36401). Therefore, the Forest Service is publishing a revised proposed policy for public comment.

Abstract: Regulations at 36 CFR 261, subpart A, set out the acts prohibited on National Forest System (NFS) lands. These prohibitions derive from either statutes governing National Forest programs or other regulations. The regulations at subpart B authorize Regional Foresters, Forest Supervisors, or Station Directors to close National Forest System lands under their jurisdiction to certain uses or to restrict some uses of NFS lands. These closures are issued by order. Comments on the first proposed rule have been reviewed. Because of the high level of public interest in this rulemaking the Agency has decided to issue a second proposed rule for comment. This action no longer includes the minor revisions to part 262, Law Enforcement Support Activities, which is now described as a separate action.

486. SMALL TRACTS ACT REGULATIONS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 521(c) to 521(i)

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 254

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Implementation of the Agency's Small Tracts regulations (adopted in 1984) has revealed an inadvertent inconsistency between the regulations at 36 CFR 254.35(f) and 254.41(a) and the legislative history of the Small Tracts Act of January 12, 1983. The regulations imply that the disposal of mineral fractions by sale can only be made in response to an application from an abutting landowner, thus discouraging the conveyance by sale to the public. The Act clearly authorizes sale of mineral fractions to the public through public sale, as well as individual applications, provided that certain conditions are met. The revisions will clarify the application of the Act to ensure that both individual applications and public sale are permissible means of disposing of qualifying tracts.

487. NATIONAL FOREST SYSTEM LAND AND RESOURCE MANAGEMENT PLANNING

Priority: Other Significant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1600 et seq; 5 USC 301

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 219

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The President's environmental program includes incorporation of the principles of ecosystem management in natural resource planning for all units of the National Forest System. In support of that effort, proposed regulations will be published governing how future changes in direction will be made and how those changes will be documented. Guided by the recommendations of a recently chartered Committee of Scientists, the regulation also will streamline planning and update planning procedures and requirements to reflect the Agency's and public's experience gained over the last 15 years. Emphasis will be placed on assessing ecosystem health through ecoregional and watershed-level assessments. The rule also will strengthen public participation opportunities in planning, as well as give greater emphasis to interaction and dialog with Federal, State, local, and Indian tribal governments.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 620 et seq

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 223.200

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend 36 CFR 223.200, to list species proposed to be surplus to domestic manufacturing needs. This proposed rule would implement a portion of section 620a(b) of the Forest Resources Conservation and Shortage Relief Act of 1990 (16 USC 620 et seq). Section 620a(a) of the Act provides that no person who acquires unprocessed timber originating from Federal lands west of the 100th meridian in the contiguous 48 States may export such timber from the United States, or sell, trade, exchange or otherwise convey such timber from the United States, unless such timber has been determined under subsection (b) to be surplus to the needs of timber manufacturing facilities in the United States. Section 620a(b) of the Act provides that the prohibition contained in section (a) shall not apply to specific quantities of grades and species of unprocessed timber originating in Federal lands which the Secretary determines, through rulemaking, to be surplus to domestic manufacturing needs.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 472; 16 USC 551

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 251; 36 CFR 214

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: These proposed regulations would redesignate these appeals rules as a new part 214, thus placing all appeals and notices and comment rules in close proximity. Additionally, this proposed rule would revise a number of existing provisions. For example, changes to part 251 would clarify the application of this rule to the issuance of permits for occupancy and use of National Forest System lands. When 36 CFR part 251, subpart C, regulations were promulgated in 1989, NEPA analysis and documentation was not consistently applied to the authorization of special uses. Now the authorization and the issuance of permits and other authorization requires application of the NEPA process prior to issuance. In addition, since these regulations were implemented, Congress has passed the Appeal Reform Act. The proposed changes to the permit related appeal rules are needed to make this regulation consistent with regulations at 36 CFR part 215. Among specific proposed changes being considered are removing the second level of appeal opportunity, removing the discretionary review option, shortening timeframes for scheduling oral presentations, and changes to conform terminology and definitions with 36 CFR part 215.

Abstract: This rule and policy change will provide for extension of National Forest System (NFS) timber sale contracts when such extension will permit the prompt removal and utilization of non-NFS owned timber damaged by catastrophic events. The change will define the responsibilities of the parties for requesting and approving such extensions and specify when such extension should be approved. This change will also allow for the use of scarce timber resources and the recovery of economic benefits from timber that might otherwise be lost because of contractual obligations to harvest undamaged timber.

Abstract: This proposed policy would revise form 2400-6 and the 2400-6T timber sale contracts currently used by the Forest Service to sell National Forest System timber. The proposed timber sale contract provisions will be included as part of the proposed policy. The proposed contracts reflect recent court decisions and recent natural resource and environmental legislation and would clarify the rights, responsibilities, and obligations of the contracting parties. The proposed policy also would address specific provisions in the current contract that have generated costly litigation in the past between the Government and the purchaser and would address the concerns regarding timber theft and log accountability.

Abstract: In February, 1994, the Forest Service published proposed rule changes for parts 261 and 262 of title 36 of the Code of Federal Regulations. Due to the high level of interest in and comment on part 261, the decision was made to publish a second proposed rule. The majority of the public comment on part 262 referred to the definition section which has been revised to respond to those comments. The Forest Service has decided to issue a second proposed rule for comment on part 262, Law Enforcement Support Activities. Proposed revisions to part 261 will proceed separately.

Abstract: The Forest Service proposes to revise 36 CFR part 212 to address changes in how the National Forest System transportation road system is developed, used, maintained, and funded. The proposed revisions at 36 CFR part 212 will include a comprehensive science-based policy for the future. Expected features of the proposed revision will include (1) guidance for decommissioning unneeded roads; (2) expanded policy to update road construction, design, and maintenance requirements; and (3) guidance on expenditure priorities for limited funds. The intended effect of the proposed revisions will be to reduce environmental impacts from road construction and reconstruction activities and improve the efficiency and effectiveness of road maintenance and expenditure of limited road dollars.

Proposed Rule Stage

Abstract: This proposed rule would revise 36 CFR 223.85 by removing references to section 2001(k) of Public Law 104-19 (109 Stat.246) and define "extraordinary conditions" to allow forest officers, without advertisement, to make modifications to timber and forest product sales, which result in the substitution of timber or forest products from outside the sale area specified in the contract. Under the proposed rule, substitute timber or forest products would have to come from the same administrative national forest and meet agency requirements for compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act and other environmental laws. This proposed rule would not compel a timber purchaser to accept a timber sale modification offered under this rule. The rule only authorizes the Forest Service to propose modifications and to enter into discussions with purchasers on such modifications.

This proposed rule will reduce timber sale cancellations and partial cancellations, thus reducing future damage claims on timber sales.

Abstract: This rule sets forth Forest Service procedures and role in the regulation of Indian allotments on National Forest System land. The Indian Allotment Act, as amended, authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to make allotments of National Forest System lands to Indians for homesteading and agricultural and grazing purposes. The Forest Service has relied upon USDI rules and procedures at 43 CFR 2533 to govern its involvement in Indian allotment cases. Litigation and a decision by the Interior Board of Land Appeals require the Forest Service to set forth its own regulations.

Abstract: Current regulations governing cancellation of National Forest timber sale contracts do not adequately protect the Government's financial interests in the event the Forest Service is forced to cancel contracts due to events beyond its control arising from compliance with environmental statutes. This rulemaking would remove an unworkable compensation-of-damages formula and establish a termination-for-environmental-protection clause in timber sale contracts, a standard in most Federal procurement contracts.

Abstract: This final rule would incorporate streamlined procedural changes in response to public comments on the interim rule published December 4, 1991. The interim rule established the interim procedures for administration of the Stewardship Incentive Program. The Program is intended to encourage private landowners, through cost-share assistance, to manage their forest lands for economic, environmental, and social benefits. Only two alternatives were considered in detail: (1) to implement the Program in accordance with 16 USC 2101, et seq, and (2) not to implement the Program, in which case there would be no accelerated program for multiple resource management on nonindustrial private forest lands. The overall effects of the Program over time will be environmentally beneficial by enhancing wetlands, wildlife habitat, forest health, forest productivity, and recreation. The Program will help meet future demand for commodity and noncommodity forest resources. There are no potential negative impacts anticipated for the Program.

Abstract: The Department is amending the regulations governing the special use and occupancy of National Forest System lands to minimize application expenses, streamline and make more efficient environmental analysis of special use proposals, provide the ability to use one-time payments for easements as presently used in the marketplace, limit certain liability requirements to amounts determined by a risk assessment, make certain definitions more explicit, and clarify direction on renewal of existing special use regulations. The intended effect is to reduce costs to proponents and the agency, expedite decisionmaking, and administer authorizations in a more "user friendly" manner by removing certain requirements deemed unnecessary and/or outdated. The regulations are necessary to comply with section 1307 of the Alaska National Interest Lands Act which requires the Secretary of Agriculture to give preference to persons he determines by rule are local residents. Abstract: The Forest Service published a proposed revision to 36 CFR Part 211 in the Federal Register on May 18, 1998 (63 FR 27245), to implement recent amendments to the Act of June 30, 1914 (16 USC 498 et seq.). The amendments to the Act (1) expand the Forest Service's authority to use contributions on the entire National Forest System for cooperative work, (2) add the word, "management," to the list of activities for which contributions for cooperative work may be accepted, (3) allow reimbursable payments to the agency by cooperators, (4) provide specific authority to accomplish cooperative work using Forest Service funds prior to reimbursement by the cooperator pursuant to a written agreement, and (5) adequately protect the Government's interests.

The agency received six responses to the proposed rule: three from national conservation organizations, one from a State fish and wildlife agency, 1 from a utility company, and one from a Member of Congress.

The Department has considered all comments and is proceeding to publish the final rule.

Abstract: The Forest Service plans to issue interim directives (ID) to guide employees in complying with the National Environmental Policy Act when changes to or issuance of a ski area permit are purely ministerial actions and no changes are proposed in permitted activities or facilities. The ID would interpret a provision in section 701(i) of the Omnibus Parks and Public Lands Act of 1996 that reissuance of a ski area permit for activities similar in nature and amount to the activities authorized under the previous permit shall not constitute a major Federal action. The ID to sec. 31.1b of FSH 1909.15, Environmental Policy and Procedures Handbook, would add a new category to the existing list of categorical exclusions established by the Chief to include permits for existing ski areas when no changes to the Master Development Plan and no new facilities or activities are authorized.

506. ADMINISTRATION OF THE FOREST DEVELOPMENT TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM: TEMPORARY SUSPENSION OF ROAD CONSTRUCTION IN ROADLESS AREAS

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 551; 23 USC 205

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 212.13

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On January 28, 1998 (63 FR 4351), the Forest Service proposed to suspend temporarily road construction and reconstruction in most roadless areas of the National Forest System. The intended effect is to safeguard the significant ecological values of roadless areas from potentially adverse effects associated with road construction, while new and improved analytical tools are developed to evaluate the impact of locating and constructing roads. The temporary suspension of road construction and reconstruction would expire upon the application of the new and improved analysis tools or 18 months, whichever is sooner. This rulemaking is a component of a larger effort to address a number of National Forest system transportation issues. The agency received 35,000 comments on the interim rule. A final interim rule is in development.

Abstract: This rule amends regulations to clarify that RUS will consider telecommunications systems feasible when writing and processings loans only if the system, in addition to begin feasible in all other respects, is year 2000 compliant. The rule is being published to further ensure that RUS-financed projects pass the year 2000 date changeover without service or revenue disruption. By clarifying feasibility considerations for loan processing, RUS lays the foundation for requests to be made in response to applications submitted to satisfy year 2000 compliance demands.

CFR Citation: 7 CFR 610

Abstract: Section 342 subtitle E of the Federal Agriculture Improvement and Reform Act of 1996 (FAIRA) expands the membership and roles of State Technical Committees set forth in section 1261 of subtitle G of the Food Security Act of 1985, as amended. Under these guidelines, the Secretary is required to establish a technical committee in each State to assist in making technical considerations relating to the implementation of conservation provisions. The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) uses these State Technical Committees in an advisory capacity. The rule will set forth the policies and procedures for the use of State Technical Committees by the United States Department of Agriculture, membership criteria, and the responsibilities assigned to these committees.

The NRCS has delivered the majority of the technical assistance provided to private landowners through the authorities provided in 7 CFR part 610.2. Section 610.2 has not yet been revised to provide for the responsibilities assigned to the NRCS beyond that of soil conservation. To more accurately reflect the broader mission of NRCS, particularly as it relates to technical assistance provided to private grazing land, section 610.2 is being amended to acknowledge that one of NRCS's missions is to improve the quality of all agricultural lands, including grazing land, pastureland, rangeland, forestland, and cropland so that the long-term sustainability of the resource base is achieved.

October 1998 Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, Commerce.

ACTION: Semiannual regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: In compliance with Executive Order 12866 entitled "Regulatory Planning and Review" and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, as amended, the Department of Commerce, in April and October of each year, publishes in the Federal Register an agenda of regulations under development or review over the next 12 months. Rulemaking actions are grouped according to prerulemaking, proposed rules, final rules, long-term actions, and rulemaking actions completed since the April 1998 agenda. The purpose of the agenda is to provide information to the public on regulations currently under review, being proposed, or issued by the Department. The agenda is intended to facilitate comments and views by interested members of the public.

The Department's October 1998 regulatory agenda includes regulatory activities that are expected to be conducted during the period October 1, 1998, through September 30, 1999.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Specific: For additional information about specific regulatory actions listed in the agenda, contact the individual identified as the contact person.

General: Comments or inquiries of a general nature about the agenda should be directed to Michael A. Levitt, Assistant General Counsel for Legislation and Regulation, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, DC 20230; telephone: 202-482-0846.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12866 requires agencies to publish an agenda of those regulations that are under consideration pursuant to this order. By memorandum of July 8, 1998, the Office of Management and Budget issued guidelines and procedures for the preparation and publication of the October 1998 Regulatory Plan and Unified Agenda of Federal Regulatory and Deregulatory Actions. The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., requires agencies to publish, in April and October of each year, a regulatory flexibility agenda which contains a brief description of the subject area of any rule which is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The agenda also identifies those entries that have been selected for periodic review under section 610 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Department of Commerce Regulatory Plan

For this edition of the Department of Commerce's agenda, the most significant regulatory actions are included in The Regulatory Plan, which appears in part II of this issue of the Federal Register. The Regulatory Plan entries are listed in the table of contents and are denoted by a bracketed bold reference, which directs the reader to the appropriate sequence number in part II.

Explanation of Information Contained in the Agenda

Within the Department, the Office of the Secretary and various operating units may issue regulations. Operating units, such as the Bureau of Export Administration, the International Trade Administration, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), and the Patent and Trademark Office, issue the greatest share of the Department's regulations.

A large number of regulatory actions reported in the agenda deal with fishery management programs of NOAA's National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS). To avoid repetition of programs and definitions, as well as to provide some understanding of the technical and institutional elements of the NMFS programs, a section on "Explanation of Information Contained in NMFS Regulatory Entries" is provided below.

Explanation of Information Contained in NMFS Regulatory Entries

The Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (16 U.S.C. 1801 et seq.) (Act) governs the management of fisheries within the Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ). The EEZ refers to those waters from the outer edge of the State boundaries, generally 3 nautical miles, to a distance of 200 nautical miles. Fishery Management Plans (FMPs) are to be prepared for fisheries which require conservation and management measures. Regulations implementing these FMPs regulate domestic fishing and foreign fishing where permitted. Foreign fishing can be conducted in a fishery for which there is no FMP only if a preliminary fishery management plan has been issued to govern that foreign fishing. Under the Act, eight Regional Fishery Management Councils (Councils) prepare FMPs or amendments to FMPs for fisheries within their respective areas. In the development of such plans or amendments and their implementing regulations, the Councils are required by law to conduct public hearings on the draft plans and to consider the use of alternative means of regulating.

The Council process for developing FMPs and amendments makes it difficult for NMFS to determine the significance and timing of some regulatory actions under consideration by the Councils at the time the semiannual regulatory agenda is published.

The DOC October 1998 regulatory agenda follows.

Dated: September 1, 1998.

Deputy General Counsel.

Abstract: On November 29, 1993, Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-110, "Uniform Administrative Requirements for Grants and Agreements, with Institutions of Higher Education, Hospitals, and Other Non-Profit Organizations" was published in the Federal Register (58 FR 62992). Abstract: The Bureau of Export Administration (BXA) is revising the Export Administration Regulations (EAR) to implement the export control provisions of the Organization of American States (OAS) Model Regulations for the Control of the International Movement of Firearms, their Parts and Components and Ammunition. The OAS Model Regulations were promulgated based upon the Inter-American Convention Against the Illicit Manufacturing of and Trafficking in Firearms, Ammunition, Explosives, and Other Related Materials (Firearms Convention). Convention signatories agreed to effectively combat the illicit manufacturing of and trafficking in firearms, ammunition, explosives, and other related materials (collectively referred to as "firearms") because of the links such activities have to drug trafficking, terrorism, transnational organized crime, and mercenary and other criminal activities by imposing an export license and import certificate requirement for the import and export of firearms.

Abstract: Reacting to the use of excessive force by Serbian police forces against civilians in Kosovo, as well as acts of violence by the Kosovan Albanian extremists, and fulfilling United States obligations to implement an international arms embargo mandated by the United Nations Security Council, the United States has banned the sale and supply of arms and related material of all types to the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia (Serbia and Montenegro). To supplement the State Department controls on items on the U.S. Munitions List, the Bureau of Export Administration is designating certain items on the Commercial Control List that are subject to the arms embargo and establishing a policy of denial to the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia (Serbia and Montenegro) on such items. No embargoed items may be exported to the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia (Serbia and Montenegro) under any License Exception, including shipments of limited value (LVS).

Abstract: On January 15, 1998, the Bureau of Export Administration published an interim final rule (63 FR 2452) implementing the Wassenaar Arrangement List of Dual-Use Items. Implementation of the Wassenaar List resulted in a number of changes to the Commerce Control List (CCL). The major changes involved the removal of national security controls on certain items, while maintaining controls on these items for antiterrorism reasons.

DOC—BXA — Completed Actions

Consistent with this revision, various antiterrorism Export Control Classification Numbers (ECCNs) were enlarged to accommodate the items removed from national security controls. An easy-to-follow pattern was developed to track the movement of these items. Items formerly classified as XX001 now default to an XX991 entry. In addition, the January 15 rule moved items from one ECCN into another or merged two or more ECCNs together. This was done to simplify the CCL and place together items that fall within the same general category. For example, ECCN 9A992 (off-highway tractors) was merged with ECCN 9A993 (on-highway tractors) to form part of a new ECCN 9A990 that also includes diesel engines.

This rule amends the Export Administration Regulations (EAR) by making the necessary comforming revision throughout the text of the EAR, consistent with the January 15 revisions to the CCL.

Abstract: The Fastener Quality Act (P.L. 101-592, as amended by P.L. 104-113 and P.L. 105-234) requires that certain fasteners sold in commerce conform to the standards and specifications to which they are represented to be manufactured and have been inspected, tested, and certified. The final rule implementing the Fastener Quality Act (FQA) became effective on November 25, 1996, and was to apply to fasteners manufactured on or after May 27, 1997, the "implementation date." On April 18, 1997, NIST announced a one-year extension of the implementation date, because there was an insufficient number of laboratories accredited to perform the volume of inspection and testing required by the FQA and regulations. During the one-year extension, NIST published for public comment proposed amendments to the rule implementing the FQA. On April 14, 1998, based on the public comments received, NIST published amendments to the 1996 final rule, effective May 14, 1998, with an implementation date of July 26, 1998. On June 30, 1998, NIST again determined that there would not be a sufficient number of laboratories accredited to perform the volume of inspection and testing required by the FQA, and extended the implementation date of the FQA until October 25, 1998. On August 24, 1998, P.L. 105-234 amended the FQA to exempt certain aircraft fasteners. The law also requires the Department of Commerce to submit a study on the FQA to Congress. P.L. 105-234 also delayed implementation of the FQA until the later of June 1, 1999, or 120 days after the Secretary of Commerce submits the required report.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 660

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Pacific Fishery Management Council (Council) plans to deliberate on Pacific coast groundfish allocation between limited entry gear groups, on allocation between recreational and commercial fisheries, and on further limiting access to certain species of the limited entry groundfish fishery. In order to provide broad advanced notice of the proposals, and at the same time to discourage fishers from intensifying their fishing efforts for the purpose of amassing catch history, the Council announced on April 9, 1998 that its deliberations on future groundfish allocation may not consider catch landed after that date. If an allocation or additional limited access program is established, the Council is planning to primarily consider catch history through the 1997 fishing season.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 660

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory.

Abstract: This rule would implement provisions of the Sustainable Fisheries Act that authorizes the Secretary of State to negotiate Pacific Insular Areas Fishing Agreements (PIAFAs) under which foreign vessels could have access to portions of the U.S. exclusive economic zone around insular "States" such as Guam, American Samoa, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, or around U.S. Possessions in the Pacific. Fees paid to the U.S. for such access would revert to the government of the insular area around which the fishing occurred. PIAFAs could only be entered into with the agreement of the Governor of the relevant insular area. Conservation plans, which must be prepared in consultation with the Western Pacific Fishery Management Council and must be consistent with relevant fishery management plans, would specify such things as allowable levels of fishing and activities for which funds collected would be spent. Foreign fishing permits would specify conditions and restrictions governing foreign vessel activities. The rule would revise the foreign fishing regulations at 50 CFR part 600 to allow fishing under a PIAFA and might also establish terms and conditions common to fishing under PIAFAs.

660. REGULATORY AMENDMENT FOR A BYCATCH REDUCTION DEVICE (BRD) TESTING AND CERTIFICATION PROTOCOL UNDER AMENDMENT 9 TO THE FMP FOR THE SHRIMP FISHERY OF THE GULF OF MEXICO

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 622

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory. Final regulations to be published within 30 days of end of NPRM comment period.

Abstract: Amendment 9: Requires the use of BRDs certified by the National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS) in most shrimp trawls used in the exclusive economic zone of the Gulf of Mexico shoreward of the 100-fathom depth contour west of Cape San Blas, Florida; sets the bycatch reduction criterion for the certification of BRDs (BRDs must reduce the bycatch mortality of juvenile red snapper by at least 44 percent from a prescribed baseline level); and establishes an FMP framework procedure for modifying the bycatch reduction criterion, for establishing and modifying the BRD testing protocol and its specifications, and for certifying and decertifying BRDs. Amendment 9 is intended to significantly reduce the shrimp fishery bycatch of red snapper (and other finfish) to allow rebuilding of this valuable, overfished species. The subject action would amend the final rule to implement Amendment 9 to establish, consistent with the FMP's framework procedure, a BRD testing and certification protocol to be used by NMFS for certifying new or modified BRDs.

661. OPTIONS FOR 1997 RULEMAKING FOR BANNING THE SALE OF UNDERSIZED ATLANTIC SWORDFISH

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 971 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 630

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: A recommendation was adopted by ICCAT member nations that would reduce fishing mortality on swordfish in the entire Atlantic Ocean. The ICCAT alternate minimum size recommendation called for a ban on the sale of fish less than the minimum size. By implementing the minimum size on U.S. vessels operating in the Atlantic, the ban on sale has been effectively applied to U.S. production of Atlantic swordfish. However, the United States is a major market for imported swordfish and there is evidence that Atlantic swordfish less than the minimum size are entering U.S. markets. NMFS solicits comments on the possible implementation strategy of this ban on sale of swordfish less than the minimum size.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 622

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory. Final regulations to be published within 30 days of the end of the NPRM comment period.

Abstract: Amendment 9 proposes more than 14 management options. For Gulf group king mackerel, actions are proposed to (1) change the start of the fishing year, (2) prohibit the sale of fish caught under the bag limit, (3) revise the allocation of TAC between the commercial and recreational sectors, and (4) increase the minimum size limit from 20 inches to 24 or 26 inches fork length. Also, for the eastern zone (off Florida), (5) revise the allocation of the commercial quota between the Florida east (North) and west coast (South/West Area) subzones. For the Florida west coast subzone, 6) subdivide the commercial hook-and-line quota into two separate quotas for proposed northern and southern subzones; and for the commercial run-around gillnet fishery, (7) restrict/reduce/phase-out the number of vessels holding gillnet endorsements to fish under the quota, (8) restrict the area of operation to southwest Florida, and (9) restrict the transfer of gillnet endorsements to vessels owned by the endorsement holder or his/her family members. For the western zone (Texas through Alabama), (10) subdivide the commercial quota on a seasonal or areal basis, and (11) establish a trip limit (harvest/ possession/landing limit) for commercial vessels. For both Gulf and Atlantic groups of king mackerel, (12) allow the sale of cut-off (damaged) fish taken and possessed within the established trip limits. Finally, for Gulf group Spanish mackerel, (3) establish a purse seine allocation and (14) vessel trip limits.

691. • REGULATORY AMENDMENT TO IMPLEMENT ATKA MACKEREL FISHING RESTRICTIONS IN THE BSAI FOR STELLER SEA LION CONSERVATION PURPOSES

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant. Major status under 5 USC 801 is undetermined.

Unfunded Mandates: Undetermined

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 679

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rulemaking would implement Atka mackerel fishing restrictions for Steller sea lion conservation purposes. The Atka mackerel fishery would be split into "A" (January 1 to April 15) and "B" (September 1 to November 1) seasons. The percent of the Atka mackerel total allowable catch taken from Steller sea lion critical habitat in the western and central Aleutian Islands management districts would be reduced. In addition, the following management measures will be included: the trawl exclusion zone around the Sequam rookery would be extended into the "B" season; vessels would be required to obtain a vessel monitoring system; exempt CDQ fisheries from the A/B season split, but the percentage of the Atka mackerel CDQ reserve that could be harvested inside and outside critical habitat would be the same percentages established for the open access fishery; the allocation of Atka mackerel to vessels using jig gear in Area 541 would be exempt from these management measures; and the impact and effectiveness of these measures will be reviewed annually by NMFS and the Council.

692. • BSAI FMP AMENDMENT PROHIBITING DIRECTED FISHING FOR POLLOCK WITH BOTTOM TRAWL GEAR

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant. Major status under 5 USC 801 is undetermined.

Unfunded Mandates: Undetermined

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq

Abstract: This FMP amendment would prohibit directed fishing for pollock with bottom trawl gear in the BSAI. This amendment would also reduce the trawl prohibited species catch limits for halibut, king crab, and tanner crab in the BSAI to account for the projected PSC bycatch savings associated with a ban on bottom trawl gear for pollock.

Abstract: This action would amend each FMP to include definitions of essential fish habitat for each managed species or species complex included within the FMP. For the Alaska Region, these amendments are not considered controversial and are expected to be supported by the fishing community. A significant majority of oral and written comments received thus far has supported the amendments and suggest the inclusion of additional species within the definition. None of the EFH amendments contain regulatory measures with which the fishing and non-fishing communities must comply. If the EFH amendments are approved, Federal action agencies must consult with NMFS if a Federal Action may adversely affect EFH.

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, October 11, 1998. Final, Statutory. See "Additional Information"

Abstract: This action would amend the Northern Anchovy Fishery Management Plan (FMP) to comply with new requirements of the Sustainable Fisheries Act. The amendment would rename the FMP, add several species (Pacific mackerel, jack mackerel, and Pacific sardine) to the management unit, establish procedures for annual specification of harvest limits for managed species, and implement limited entry for fishing for small coastal pelagic species of fish in the management area. The amendment provides definitions and criteria to determine if any stocks are overfished such that rebuilding plans are needed. An annual review of the fisheries is conducted to make this determination.

The Amendment will revise in FMP to bring it into compliance with the recently amended Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act. The primary changes relate to issues of optimum yield, overfishing, essential fish habitat, and bycatch specifications. Editorial and organizational changes to improve and update the FMP and its environmental impact statement, in addition to refinements harvest allocation standards among the recreational fisheries north of Cape Falcon, are also part of amendment effort.

724. SEA TURTLE MONITORING AND CONSERVATION MEASURES FOR NONSHRIMP FISHERIES

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 217; 50 CFR 222; 50 CFR 227

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: NMFS proposes to protect sea turtles through the implementation of sea turtle conservation measures on nonshrimp fisheries. Bottom trawlers in the mid-Atlantic take sea turtles when not using turtle excluder devices (TEDs) and may jeopardize the continued existence of endangered sea turtles. NMFS proposes to require TEDs in all bottom trawlers operating from Texas through Delaware. Other non-shrimp fisheries using tow lines, gill nets, or other gear probably take significant numbers of sea turtles. In order to better quantify that level of take, NMFS proposes to require observers in all fisheries suspected of taking turtles in all U.S. waters.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1361 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 216.24

Abstract: NMFS proposes to amend its regulations governing the reimbursement of tuna vessel owners for the cost of carrying NMFS observers (50 CFR 216.24(f)(4)). The regulations require that a U.S.-flag tuna purse seine vessel holding a certificate of inclusion under the general permit issued to the American Tunaboat Association carry an observer when assigned by the Director, Southwest Region, NMFS. The regulations currently require that NMFS reimburse vessel operators for all costs associated with carrying the observers. Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1371 (a)(6)

This action prohibits the export of marine mammals or marine mammal products for purposes other than public display, scientific research, or enhancing the survival of a species or stock and establishes three new categories of exceptions to the prohibition on importing marine mammal parts and products. Abstract: NOAA and EPA plan to make administrative changes to the Coastal Nonpoint Pollution Control Program, developed under section 6217 of the Coastal Zone Act Reauthorization Amendments, 16 USC 1455b. The Amendments require States and territories with coastal zone management programs that have received approval under section 306 of the Coastal Zone Management Act to develop and implement coastal nonpoint pollution control programs. In response to coastal States' concerns over: the ability to target the program; enforceable policies and mechanisms; timeframes; and resources to implement coastal nonpoint programs, NOAA and EPA recently completed a dialogue with the coastal States and other interested parties, and plan to make administrative changes.

NMFS must initiate a report to Congress on fisheries progress towards the Zero Mortality Rate Goal by April 30, 1997.

Abstract: The Marine Mammal Protection Act, as amended in 1994, requires that commercial fisheries reduce incidental serious injury and mortality of marine mammals to insignificant levels approaching a zero mortality and serious injury rate by April 30, 2001. This interim final rule provides the regulatory definition of the Zero Mortality Rate Goal as part of the new management regime for the unintentional taking of marine mammals incidental to commercial fishing operators.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 622

Abstract: All measures of Amendment 2 were approved by the National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS) on February 24, 1997. Under Amendment 2, BRDs certified by the NMFS are required to be used in all penaeid shrimp trawls in the exclusive economic zone (EEZ) in the South Atlantic (EEZ off North Carolina to Florida inclusive). The final rule to implement Amendment 2, effective April 21, 1997, certified three BRDs for such use (73 FR 18536). Amendment 2 specifies that a testing protocol would be developed so that additional BRDs could be tested and implemented, if they meet the bycatch reduction criterion for Spanish mackerel and weakfish (must reduce bycatch by 40 percent in number of weakfish and Spanish mackerel). The testing protocol was not completed when the proposed rule to implement Amendment 2 was published but was published with the

This action would implement that part of Amendment 2 allowing testing of new BRDs and would specify that a person who proposes a BRD for certification must test such BRD and submit the results to the Regional Administrator, Southeast Region, NMFS, in accordance with the "Bycatch Reduction Device Testing Protocol Manual" which contains the testing protocol and the specific reporting requirements for the test results.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 622

758. • INTERIM RULE TO REQUIRE SHRIMP TRAWL VESSEL OBSERVERS, LOGBOOKS, AND MONITORING SYSTEMS IN THE EXCLUSIVE ECONOMIC ZONE OF THE GULF OF MEXICO

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 622

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This interim rule provides NMFS with the regulatory authority to implement a mandatory shrimp trawl vessel observer program, a logbook program and a vessel monitoring system (VMS) starting May 1, 1998, in the Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ) of the Gulf of Mexico. These interim measures are needed for provide statistically valid estimates of the operational efficiency of NMFS certified bycatch reduction devices (BRDs) for reducing juvenile red snapper bycatch mortality and for estimating bycatch of that species. An intensive short-term research program will be conducted between May 1, 1998, and August 31, 1998, to measure and estimate these parameters. The results of this study will determine how much, if any, of red snapper total allowable catch (TAC) will be released for harvest for the fall season beginning September 1, 1998 under a separate interim rule. Currently 6.0 million pounds (MP) of the 9.12 MP TAC has been released for the Spring season. If BRDs reduce shrimp trawl-induced mortality of juvenile red snapper by 50 percent or less, no reserve TAC will be released in order to prevent overfishing of that species.

Abstract: NOAA proposes to designate critical habitat for the threatened green turtle (Chelonia mydas) and endangered hawksbill turtle (Eretmochelys imbricatta) pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (ESA). The geographic area proposed for critical habitat designation comprises the coastal waters surrounding the islands of Mona, Monito, and the Culebra archipelago, from the Mean High Water line seaward to 3 nautical miles (nm). This designation provides explicit notice to Federal agencies and the public that these areas and features are vital to the conservation of the species.

779. DRAFT POLICIES FOR SAFE HARBOR AND CANDIDATE SPECIES CONSERVATION (CCA) AGREEMENTS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 222

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The National Marine Fisheries Service and the Fish and Wildlife Service jointly proposed these policies to allow non-Federal landowners to obtain ESA section 10(a)(1)(A) enhancement of survival permits associated with a Safe Harbor or CSC Agreement. They would be between the Services and non-Federal landowners to provide a net conservation benefit to endangered species. After terms of the Agreement are completed, the enrolled lands could be returned to the baseline or agreed upon conditions through incidental taking authorized in the permit. These enhancement permits will provide non-Federal landowners, who take voluntary conservation activities agreed to in the agreements, assurances that future land use will not be restricted as a result of their conservation efforts. The enhancement of survival permits would authorize the incidental taking in performing management actions to achieve the net conservation benefit as well as incidental take authorized to return the land to target conditions upon the completion of all the management actions. Participating landowners will derive regulatory certainty, because the ESA will not prohibit them from returning their land to original or agreed upon conditions once the Agreement is fulfilled. The Agreements encourage beneficial land-use, which helps imperiled species. The FWS has its own permit regulations and has made a similar request under E.O. 12866; the request number is RIN 108-AD95.

Abstract: NMFS has completed a comprehensive status review of west coast chinook salmon populations in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and California. NMFS has identified 15 evolutionarily significant units (ESUs) of chinook within this range. NMFS is now proposing critical habitat for the ESUs that will be proposed for listing under the Endangered Species Act.

Abstract: NMFS issued an interim final rule implementing a take reduction plan to reduce serious injury and mortality to large whale species on July 22, 1997 (62 FR 3915). Fisheries covered by the plan are the multispecies groundfish gillnet fisheries in the Gulf of Maine; the Gulf of Maine lobster fisheries; the mid-Atlantic coastal gillnet fisheries; and the shark driftnet fishery.

782. TAKING OF MARINE MAMMALS INCIDENTAL TO ACTIVITIES AT VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, CA

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1361 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 216

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: NMFS received a petition for regulations and an application from the 30th Space Wing, U.S. Air Force, for an incidental, small take exemption under section 101(a)(5)(A) of the Marine Mammal Protection Act (MMPA) for the potential harassment of marine mammals incidental to missile and rocket launches, aircraft flight test operations and helicopter operations at Vandenberg Air Force Base, California.

Noise generated by aircraft and by missile and rocket launches on Vandenberg may cause negligible short-term impacts to pinnipeds hauled out on the Vandenberg coastline. Because the noise may potentially result in disturbance of pinnipeds, an MMPA authorization is warranted. As a result of this request, NMFS has proposed regulations that would authorize the incidental taking of a small number of marine mammals. The taking can be authorized if certain findings are made that include requirements for monitoring and reporting the take.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 660

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory. Final regulations to be published within 30 days of end of NPRM comment period.

Abstract: Regulations would authorize Federal purchase of Pacific Coast groundfish limited entry trawl permits, under section 312(b) of the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act, "Fishing Capacity Reduction Program." Federal purchase of trawl permits would be considered a "loan" to the trawl fleet, which would be repaid by that fleet through a tax on groundfish landings by limited entry trawl vessels. The goal of this program would be to match effort within the fishery more closely with available resources.

Abstract: NMFS announces aboriginal subsistence whaling quotas and other limitations deriving from regulations adopted at the 1997 Annual Meeting of the International Whaling Commission. For 1998, the quotas are 77 bowhead whales struck and 5 gray whales landed. These quotas and other limitations will govern the harvest of bowhead whales by members of the Alaska Eskimo Whaling Commission and the harvest of gray whales by members of the Makah Indian tribe. These are initial quotas that will remain in effect for the 1998 season unless they are revised as a result of the completion of arrangements with the Russian Federation. Any revisions to the quotas will be published in the Federal Register.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1801 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 660

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory. Final regulations to be published within 30 days of end of NPRM comment period.

Abstract: This final rule implements Regulatory amendment under the framework procedures of the Fishery Management Plan for the Crustacean Fisheries of the Western Pacific Region. This rule allocates the overall 1998 Northwestern Hawaiian Islands (NWHI) harvest guidelines of 286,000 lobsters (spiny and slipper combined) among three individual fishing banks and a fourth combined area. Specifically, no more than 70,000 lobsters may be harvested from Necker Island; no more than 20,000 lobsters may be harvested from Gardner Pinnacles; no more than 80,000 lobsters may be harvested from Maro Reef; and no more than 116,000 lobsters may be harvested from all the other remaining NWHI banks combined within Crustaceans Permit Area 1. This rule is intended to protect the lobster resources at each fishing ground, to obtain better data on the lobster stocks, and to conserve the resource.

880. • NATIONAL ESTUARINE RESEARCH RESERVE REGULATIONS—CLARIFICATION OF ASSISTANCE

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1451 et seq

CFR Citation: 15 CFR 921

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) is making a correction to its regulations concerning the National Estuarine Research Reserve System (NERRS) to clarify that certain types of financial assistance awards are not subject to specified limits on amounts. The Coastal Zone Protection Act of 1996 amended the Coastal Zone Management Act (CZMA) by, among other things, eliminating the State match requirement in cases where financial assistance was coming from proceeds of a natural resource damage action. In 1997, NOAA issued a rule to amend the NERRS regulations to conform to the statutory amendments. That rule specified that the State match requirement was eliminated in cases where natural resource damage proceeds were being used to fund NERRS activities. However, the rule did not address what the effects of other limits on financial assistance (caps on funding, rather than State match) would be in these cases. This final rule clarifies that, in cases where financial assistance is coming from natural resource damage funds, the caps on financial assistance do not apply.

Abstract: The Patent and Trademark Office (PTO) has established business goals for the organizations reporting to the Assistant Commissioner for Patents (Patent Business Goals). The Patent Business Goals have been established in response to the Vice-President's designation of the PTO as an agency that has a high impact on the public, and they are designed to make the PTO a more business-like agency. The focus of the Patent Business Goals is to increase the level of service to the public by raising the efficiency and effectiveness of the PTO's business processes. The PTO is considering a number of changes to the rules of practice and procedure to support the Patent Business Goals.

Abstract: The Patent and Trademark Office (PTO) has developed a standard format for patent applications and related papers. These changes to the rules of practice would permit and encourage, but not require, applicants to file patent applications and related papers in this standard format. The submission of application and related papers in this standard format will permit the PTO to automate the capture of the information contained in these papers. This will permit the PTO to improve the accuracy of information capture and speed of application processing for applicants who submit their patent applications and related papers in this standard format.

Improving Government Regulations; Unified Agenda of Federal Regulatory and Deregulatory Actions

AGENCY: Department of Defense (DoD).

ACTION: Semiannual regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: The Department of Defense (DoD) is publishing this semiannual agenda of regulatory documents, including those that are procurement-related, for public information and comments under Executive Order 12866 "Regulatory Planning and Review." This agenda incorporates the objective and criteria, when applicable, of the regulatory reform program under the Executive order and other regulatory guidance. It contains DoD issuances initiated by DoD components that may have economic and environmental impact on State, local, or tribal interests under the criteria of Executive Order 12866. Although most DoD issuances listed in the agenda are of negligible public impact, their nature may be of public interest and, therefore, are published to provide notice of rulemaking and an opportunity for public participation in the internal DoD rulemaking process.

This edition of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulatory and Deregulatory Actions includes The Regulatory Plan, which appears in part II of this issue of the Federal Register. The Department of Defense's Statement of Regulatory Priorities is included in part II.

The agenda portion of this document updates the report published on April 27, 1998, and includes regulations expected to be issued and under review over the next 12 months. The next agenda is scheduled to be published in April 1999, with the next regulatory plan scheduled to be published in October 1999. In addition to this agenda, DoD components also publish rulemaking notices pertaining to their specific statutory administration requirements as required.

For general information on Department of the Air Force regulations, contact Ms. Carolyn A. Lunsford, telephone 703-697-9057, or write to Department of the Air Force, SAF/AAX, 1720 Air Force Pentagon, Washington, DC 20330-1720, or e-mail: lunsforc@af.pentagon.mil.

For specific agenda items, contact the appropriate individual indicated in each DoD component report.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This edition of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulatory and Deregulatory Actions is composed of the regulatory status reports, including procurement-related regulatory status reports, from the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) and the Departments of the Army, Navy, and Air Force. Included also is the regulatory status report from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, whose civil works functions fall under the reporting requirements of Executive Order 12866 and involve water resource projects and regulation of activities in waters of the United States.

DoD issuances range from DoD directives (reflecting departmental policy) to implementing instructions and regulations (largely internal and used to implement directives). The OSD agenda section contains the primary directives under which DoD components promulgate their implementing regulations.

To ease identification and to differentiate among the variety of issuances reported, they are identified by their DoD internal numbering system, which denotes component level of authority and type of issuance, in addition to the required CFR number.

In addition, this agenda, although published under the reporting requirements of Executive Order 12866, continues to be the DoD single-source reporting vehicle, which identifies issuances that are currently applicable under the various regulatory reform programs in progress. Therefore, DoD components will identify those rules which come under the criteria of the:

a. Regulatory Flexibility Act;

b. Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995;

c. Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995.

DOD

Those DoD issuances, which are directly applicable under these statutes, will be identified in the agenda and their action status indicated. Generally, the regulatory status reports in this agenda will contain five sections: (1) Prerule stage; (2) proposed rule stage; (3) final rule stage; (4) completed actions; and (5) long-term actions. Where certain regulatory actions indicate that small entities are affected, the effect on these entities may not necessarily have significant economic impact on a substantial number of these entities as defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601(6)).

Although not a regulatory agency, DoD will continue to participate in regulatory initiatives designed to reduce economic costs and unnecessary environmental burdens upon the public. Comments and recommendations are invited on the rules reported and should be addressed to the DoD component representatives identified in the regulatory status reports. Although sensitive to the needs of the public, as well as regulatory reform, DoD reserves the right to exercise the exemptions and flexibility permitted in its rulemaking process in order to proceed with its overall defense-oriented mission. The publishing of this agenda does not waive the applicability of the military affairs exemption in section 553 of title 5 U.S.C. and section 3 of Executive Order 12866.

Dated: August 25, 1998.

D. O. Cooke,

Director, Administration and Management.

CFR Citation: 32 CFR 153

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Legislative Branch Appropriations Act of 1996 transferred to the Director of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) the Comptroller General's authority to settle claims. The OMB Director subsequently delegated some of these authorities to the Department of Defense (DoD). Later, the General Accounting Office Act of 1996 codified many of these delegations and transferred to the OMB Director the authority of the Comptroller General to waive uniformed service member and employee debts arising out of the erroneous payment of pay or allowances exceeding $1,500. The OMB Director subsequently delegated the authority to waive such debts of uniformed service members to DoD and the authority to waive employee debts to the employee's agency (non-DoD agencies may request an advisory opinion from DoD). The Secretary of Defense further delegated his claims settlement authority to the Defense Office of Hearings and Appeals (DOHA). This proposed rule seeks public comments on the procedures that DOHA proposes to use to implement these authorities.

CFR Citation: 32 CFR 44

Abstract: This rule establishes guidance governing the screening of Reserve component members of the United States Military Departments relative to their civilian employment. The requirement for screening the Ready Reserve is established in law. The purpose of the screening program is to ensure the availability of Ready Reserve members for military mobilization purposes. Abstract: This rule revises the comprehensive CHAMPUS regulation pertaining to basic CHAMPUS benefits in accordance with several statutory changes. This rule sets forth the requirements for reinstatement of CHAMPUS eligibility for beneficiaries under age 65 who would otherwise have lost eligibility for CHAMPUS due to eligibility for Medicare as a result of disability or end-stage renal disease (ESRD); establishes new classes of CHAMPUS eligibles; establishes the Transitional Assistance Management Program which provides transitional health care for members (and their dependents) who served on active duty in support of a contingency operation and for members (and their dependents) who are involuntarily separated from active duty; allows former spouses who buy a conversion health policy to keep CHAMPUS eligibility for twenty-four (24) months for preexisting conditions that are not covered by the conversion policy; and makes minor technical revisions to the double coverage provisions. In order to expedite compliance with the statutory requirements, all of these provisions have been implemented under interim instructions. This proposed rule also adds a new category of eligible beneficiary under the Continued Health Care Benefit Program.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 10 USC ch 55; 5 USC 301

CFR Citation: 32 CFR 199

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule implements provisions of the 1993 National Defense Authorization Act which allows the Secretary of Defense to establish a case management program for CHAMPUS beneficiaries with extraordinary medical or psychological disorders and to allow such beneficiaries medical or psychological services, supplies, or durable medical equipment excluded by law or regulation as a CHAMPUS benefit. Under this program, waiver of benefit limits to the Basic CHAMPUS program may be authorized for beneficiaries when the provision of such services or supplies is cost-effective and clinically appropriate, as compared to historical or projected CHAMPUS/MTF utilization of health care services. It is designed to develop a cost-effective plan of care by targeting appropriate resources to meet the individual needs of the beneficiary.

CFR Citation: 32 CFR 199

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule proposes to revise certain requirements and procedures for reimbursement under the TRICARE program, the purpose of which is to implement a comprehensive managed health care delivery system composed of military medical treatment facilities and CHAMPUS. Issues addressed in this rule include implementation of changes made to the Medicare Prospective Payment System (PPS) upon which the CHAMPUS DRG-based payment system is modeled and required by law to follow wherever practicable, along with changes to make our DRG-based payment system operate better. Additional issues include the extension of the balance billing limitations currently in place for individual and professional providers to non-institutional, non-professional providers and adjusting the CHAMPUS maximum allowable charge (CMAC) rate in the small number cases where the CMAC rate is less than the Medicare rate. The revision would also affect the implementing of the Governmentwide debarment rule where any provider excluded or suspended from CHAMPUS shall be excluded from all other programs and activities involving Federal financial assistance, such as Medicare or Medicaid, and adding violations of our balance billing or claims filing requirements to the list of provider actions considered violations of the TRICARE/CHAMPUS program.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 10 USC ch 55; 5 USC 301

CFR Citation: 32 CFR 199

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Currently, any individual who is a civilian employee of the United States Government cannot be authorized by CHAMPUS as a provider of medical services. We propose to provide an exception to this prohibition to permit these individuals to be authorized CHAMPUS providers if they meet three conditions. First, they must be employed by the Government agency on a part-time basis, that is, less than twenty (20) hours per week. Second, the agency must certify that unique or special circumstances detrimental to the delivery of quality health care exist that can be overcome only by employing part-time, non-Government physicians. Third, the agency and the physician must certify that they understand and have taken appropriate measures to avoid violation of Standards of Conduct, dual compensation, and conflict of interest requirements including protection against referral of patients to the employee's private practice.

34 CFR Subtitles A and B

Unified Agenda of Federal Regulatory and Deregulatory Actions

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, Education.

ACTION: Semiannual regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: The Secretary of Education publishes a semiannual agenda of Federal regulations. The agenda is issued under the authority of section 4(b) of Executive Order 12866 "Regulatory Planning and Review." The purpose of the agenda is to encourage more effective public participation in the regulatory process by providing the public with early information about pending regulatory activities.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Questions or comments related to specific regulations listed in this agenda should be directed to the agency contact listed for the regulations. Questions or comments related to preparation of this agenda should be directed to Kenneth C. Depew, Division of Regulatory Services, Office of the General Counsel, Department of Education, Room 5112, FB-10, 600 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, DC 20202-2241; telephone: (202) 401-8300. Individuals who use a telecommunications device for the deaf (TDD) may call the Federal Information Relay Service (FIRS) at 1-800-877-8339 between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m., eastern time, Monday through Friday.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 4(b) of Executive Order 12866, dated September 30, 1993, requires the Department of Education (ED) to publish, at a time and in a manner specified by the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, OMB, an agenda of all regulations under development or review. The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 602(a), requires ED to publish, in October and April of each year, a regulatory flexibility agenda. The regulatory flexibility agenda may be combined with any other agenda that satisfies the statutory requirements (5 U.S.C. 605(a)). In compliance with the Executive order and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, the Secretary publishes this agenda.

For each set of regulations listed, the agenda provides the title of the document, the type of document, a citation to any rulemaking or other action taken since publication of the most recent agenda, and planned dates of future rulemaking. In addition, the agenda provides the following information:

- An abstract, which includes a description of the problem to be addressed, any principal alternatives being considered, and potential costs and benefits of the action.
- An indication of whether the planned action is likely to have significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as defined by the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601(b)).
- A reference to where a reader can find the current regulations in the Code of Federal Regulations.
- A citation of legal authority.
- The name, address, and telephone number of the contact person at the Department from whom a reader can obtain additional information regarding the planned action.

In accordance with the Secretary's Principles for Regulating, listed in the Department's regulatory plan, the Department of Education is committed to regulating that improves the quality and equality of services to its customers, learners of all ages. ED will regulate only when absolutely necessary and then in the most flexible, most equitable, least burdensome way possible.

Interested members of the public are invited to comment on any of the items listed in this agenda that they believe are not consistent with the Principles for Regulating. Members of the public are also invited to comment on regulations listed on this agenda that are designated for periodic review under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 610).

The Department also will review all regulations that will be published to ensure that, if appropriate, those regulations support the National Education Goals.

This publication in the Federal Register does not impose any binding obligation on the Department with regard to any specific item on the agenda. The Department may elect not to pursue any of the regulatory actions listed here, and regulatory action in addition to the items listed is not precluded. Dates of future regulatory actions are subject to revision in subsequent agendas.

For this edition of ED's regulatory agenda, the most important significant regulatory actions are included in The Regulatory Plan, which appears in part II of this issue of the Federal Register. The Regulatory Plan entries are listed in the table of contents below and are denoted by a bracketed bold reference, which directs the reader to the appropriate sequence number in part II.

Dated: September 16, 1998.

Acting General Counsel.

RIN: 1904–AA67

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, January 1, 1994.

Abstract: The Energy Policy and Conservation Act, as amended, establishes initial energy-efficiency standard levels for most types of major residential appliances and generally requires DOE to undergo two subsequent rulemakings, at specified times, to determine whether the extant standard for a covered product should be amended.

This is the initial review of the statutory standards for central air conditioners and heat pumps.

Legal Authority: PL 96-185, sec 18; PL 94-413, sec 13(c); PL 94-163, sec 503(a)(3); PL 103-272

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 474

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The final rule on the inclusion of electric vehicles in the Corporate Average Fuel Economy (CAFE) program was issued by DOE on April 15, 1981. It established a methodology for determining the equivalent petroleum-based fuel economy (PEF) for electric vehicles so that they could be included in a manufacturer's overall CAFE program. This methodology was based on several factors including the energy efficiency of the vehicle, the efficiency of electric generation and transmission, the fuels used to generate electricity, and the driving patterns of electric vehicles. It established a method for determining the PEF of electric vehicles that are recharged from stationary sources only. Hybrid electric vehicles, a type of electric vehicle, are electrically recharged by an on-board mobile generator. Hybrid vehicles are not covered by this action. This rulemaking would update the methodology for calculating the CAFE credits for electric vehicles that are recharged by stationary sources. Rulemaking authority for establishing PEF values for electric and hybrid electric vehicles is provided under Public Law 103-272 (49 USC 32904).

Abstract: Title III of the Energy Conservation and Production Act as amended by the Energy Policy Act of 1992 (PL 102-486, October 24, 1992) provides that DOE establish Federal building energy standards that require in new Federal buildings those energy efficiency measures that are technologically feasible and economically justified. The standards for Federal buildings are intended to parallel closely the voluntary building energy codes of the Energy Policy Act for private sector construction. Interim energy performance standards which DOE had issued before enactment of the Energy Policy Act are to remain in effect for the Federal sector until the new Federal building energy standards become effective.

1093. GENERAL CRITERIA AND PROCEDURES FOR DETERMINING ELIGIBILITY FOR ACCESS TO CLASSIFIED MATTERS OR SPECIAL NUCLEAR MATERIAL

Priority: Info./Admin./Other

Legal Authority: EO 12968; 42 USC 2201

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 710 subpart A

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: 10 CFR part 710, which stipulates DOE access authorization "due process" procedures, will be revised to comply with Section 5.2(a) of EO 12968. This section requires three decision levels in the process of determining whether an individual's access to classified matter will be denied or revoked, with the final decision being made by a three member high level appeal panel. While the DOE decision structure will be revised, the DOE will continue to offer the individual the right to a hearing before a hearing officer in such cases. These revisions are not expected to significantly impact the costs, time intervals, or risks associated with DOE's administrative review process. There are no alternatives to the Department for assuring full compliance with the new requirements.

Abstract: 10 CFR part 1046, subparts A and B, establishes DOE contractor requirements in the areas of protective force medical, physical fitness, and firearms qualifications and training. The proposed revisions are to ensure protective force personnel receive quality medical services that are consistent with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990. They also will enhance communications between Designated Physicians and personnel responsible for supervising physical fitness training and certification to assure better understanding of the risk of injury to Security Police Officers and Security Officers participating in physical fitness activities.

Abstract: The Department of Energy (DOE) conducts a Personnel Assurance Program (PAP) under an interim rule published on October 9, 1996 (61 FR 53018) to assure the reliability and safety of individuals in certain critical positions involving access to DOE nuclear weapons and explosives. Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 5 USC 552

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 1004

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On October 23, 1991, DOE proposed to amend the procedures and principles to be applied in responding to requests for records under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) 5 USC 552. The proposal updated names and addresses of organizational entities, and updated guidelines for the schedule of fees associated with processing requests. A proposed section on policies clarified DOE's operation of a first-in, first-out policy in responding to FOIA requests, and the role of the Office of Hearings and Appeals was clarified. The proposal also included a statement of DOE policy on contractor records.

On December 12, 1994, DOE adopted the contractor records policy, with certain modifications. DOE expects to take final action on the remainder of the proposal in the near future.

The new regulations will clarify the FOIA process by clearly defining the roles of the FOIA Officer and the Denying Official and comply with the new requirements of the Electronic Freedom of Information Act Amendment of 1996. The new regulations will be written in a more customer-friendly manner in plain English.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2208 Atomic Energy Act of 1954, sec 168

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 610

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action will revise the Department of Energy's policy on making payments for special burdens and in lieu of taxes to State and local taxing jurisdictions pursuant to the Atomic Energy Act of 1954. Prior to the 1987 issuance of DOE Order 2100.12, the Department and its predecessor agencies approved such payment requests on an ad hoc basis. To ensure all eligible taxing jurisdictions are provided appropriate opportunity to comment, the revised policy is being established through the rulemaking process. The Department anticipates no added costs by issuing the revised policy as a regulation rather than as an internal directive revision.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 7191

Abstract: 10 CFR part 835 establishes the basic requirements for DOE contractor and subcontractor activities to ensure radiation protection of occupational workers at DOE facilities. See 58 FR 65458 (December 14, 1993). The proposed amendment to part 835 would include items not previously covered such as sealed radioactive source accountability and control, posting of areas where radioactive material is present, and surface contamination values for tritium. Several additional changes are proposed to ensure continuity in DOE's system of radiation protection standards by codifying in part 835 critical provisions of the "DOE Radiological Control Manual" which is no longer a mandatory document. DOE also proposes to exclude explicitly from part 835 radiological transportation conducted in compliance with applicable DOE Orders and certain activities conducted on foreign soil. This rulemaking stems from DOE's ongoing effort to strengthen the protection of health and safety from the nuclear and radiological hazards that may exist at these DOE facilities.

Unified Agenda of Federal Regulatory and Deregulatory Actions

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, HHS.

ACTION: Semiannual regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: The President's Executive Order 12866 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980 require the semiannual publication of an agenda which summarizes all current, projected, and recently completed rulemakings of the Department. The agenda informs the public about regulatory actions that are under development within the components of the Department, and it provides all concerned with the opportunity to participate in this work at an early stage. The last such agenda was published on April 27, 1998.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ann White, Department of Health and Human Services, Washington, DC 20201, (202) 690-6824, or the contact person for a specific component of the Department as listed below.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The agenda of regulatory actions set out below continues to reflect the Department's efforts to exemplify in its rulemaking the President's initiative to streamline the Federal regulatory system so that it affords important benefits to the American people while creating fewer burdens. The agenda also reflects emerging policy mandates for HHS involving: Numerous innovations in the Medicare and Medicaid programs, new structures for assuring the safety of the Nation's food supply, access to health services for children, welfare reform, health insurance reform, new standards for electronic data interchange in health insurance transactions, more effective regulation of drugs and medical products, and the combating of waste, fraud, and abuse in the health care system.

Underlying the Department's pursuit of its regulatory responsibilities in all of the above-mentioned programmatic areas, there endures the focus and discipline which the principles articulated in the President's Executive Order 12866 and the many subsequent regulatory reform initiatives of the Administration have brought to the Department's regulatory program. Public comments are invited to assist the Department in continuing to pursue these purposes. Comments should be sent to the addresses listed below, depending on the specific agenda entry that is of interest. Comments may be sent to the Office of the Secretary if the responsible component of the Department is not apparent or if a comment covers subjects crossing agency lines.

For this edition of the Department's regulatory agenda, the most important significant regulatory actions are included in The Regulatory Plan, which appears in part II of this issue of the Federal Register. The Regulatory Plan entries are listed in the table of contents below and are denoted by a bracketed bold reference, which directs the reader to the appropriate sequence number in part II.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1320a-7e

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 61 (New)

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, January 1, 1997.

Abstract: This proposed rule would implement the requirements of section 1128E of the Social Security Act, as added by section 221(a) of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996. Section 1128E of the Act directs the Department to establish a national health care fraud and abuse data collection program for the reporting and disclosure of certain final adverse actions taken against health care providers, suppliers and practitioners. In addition, this rule sets forth an expanded listing of safe harbor provisions designed to protect additional payment and business practices from criminal prosecution and civil sanctions under the anti-kickback statute.

Legal Authority: PL 103-296, sec 312 (42 USC 1320b-10)

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 101

Abstract: This interim final rule with comment period will establish procedures for implementation of section 312 of the Social Security Independence Act. That section amends existing prohibitions against "misuse of symbols, emblems, or names in reference to Social Security or Medicare." Section 312 newly prohibits the "unauthorized reproduction, reprinting, or distribution for fee" of a "form, application, or other publication of the Social Security Administration or of the Department of Health and Human Services". It requires prior authorization for any such activity in accordance with the Secretary's regulations. The Department plans to distinguish between forms and publications that potentially involve misuse in contrast to benign or desirable reproductions and distributions, and to provide pre-authorization for the latter. The rule will be developed in consultation with the Social Security Administration.

Animal Drug Availability Act of 1996.

Abstract: The Animal Drug Availability Act of 1996 (ADAA) requires FDA to consider legislative and regulatory options for facilitating approval of new animal drugs intended for use in minor species and for minor uses, and to announce no later than April 9, 1998, proposals for legislative or regulatory change to the approval process for such drugs. Because the markets are small for approved new animal drugs intended for minor species or for minor uses, there are often insufficient economic incentives to motivate sponsors to develop the data necessary to support approvals. Manufacturers have not, in many cases, been willing to fund research to obtain these data, so only small numbers of new animal drugs intended for minor species or for minor uses have been approved and are legally marketed. Facilitating approvals for minor uses and minor species will bring about an increase in approvals of new animal drugs intended for these uses, which would be desirable to address the scarcity of approved, legally marketed new animal drugs intended for minor species or minor uses.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The OTC drug review establishes conditions under which OTC drugs are considered generally recognized as safe and effective and not misbranded. After a final monograph (i.e., final rule) is issued, only OTC drugs meeting the conditions of the monograph, or having an approved new drug application, may be legally marketed. NOTE: NPRM for "Antidotes, Toxic Ingestion Products" was combined with NPRM for "Emetic Products" and reproposed as "Poison Treatment Products." NPRM for "Astringent (Wet Dressings) Products" was included in the NPRM for "Skin Protectant Products." NPRM for "Diaper Rash Products" was included in NPRMs for "Antifungal," "Antimicrobial," "External Analgesic" and "Skin Protectant Products." NPRM for "Fever Blister/Cold Sore Products (External)" was included in NPRMs for "External Analgesic" and "Skin Protectant Products." NPRM for "Insect Bites and Stings (Relief) Products" was included in NPRMs for "External Analgesic" and "Skin Protectant Products." "Poison Ivy/Oak/Sumac Prevention" was included in NPRMs for "External Analgesic" and "Skin Protectant Products." NPRM for "Mercurial (Topical) Products" was included in revised NPRM for "Antimicrobial Products." NPRM for "Alcohol (Topical) Products" was included in revised NPRM for "Antimicrobial Products." The NPRM for "Antimicrobial Products" was updated and split into two sections: First Aid Products and Health Care Antiseptic Products.

SMALL ENTITIES AFFECTED: The effects, if any, vary depending on the individual rulemaking. However, the Agency anticipates that the rules would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as defined by the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 601

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, February 1, 1991.

Abstract: Section 314 of the National Childhood Vaccine Injury Act of 1986 mandated that the warnings, use instructions, and precautionary information of specified childhood vaccines be reviewed and that their adequacy in warning health care professionals of the nature and extent of dangers posed by such vaccines be determined. This precautionary information is contained in the package insert of each vaccine licensed by the agency. FDA held a public meeting to receive public comment on the adequacy of these package inserts.

Abstract: The proposed rule will revise the regulations under part 291 and title 42 to provide for the certification of narcotic treatment programs as a basis for fulfilling the Department's requirements of the Narcotic Addict Treatment Act of 1974. Certification will be based on accreditation by non-profit accrediting bodies. This new system will replace the current system which relies solely on direct FDA approval and inspection for determining whether narcotic treatment programs comply with Federal treatment standards. The proposed rule will provide for a transition period for programs operating under the existing regulatory system.

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 312.110

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the regulations on the exportation of unapproved new drug products, including biological products, for investigational use. In general, the proposed rule would provide four different routes for exporting an unapproved new drug product for investigational use. One route would permit exportation if the drug is the subject of an investigational new drug application (IND) and is being exported for use in the investigation. A second route would permit exportation, without prior Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approval and without an IND, if the product is to be exported for use in a clinical investigation and has received marketing authorization in certain developed countries. The third route would permit exportation, without prior FDA approval and without an IND, if the product is to be exported for use in a clinical investigation in certain specified developed countries. The fourth route would permit exportation without an IND, to any country provided that the exporter sends a written certification to FDA at the time the drug is first exported. Drugs exported under any of the first three routes would, however, be subject to certain statutory requirements, such as not conflicting with the foreign country's laws and not being sold or offered for sale in the United States. Drugs exported under either the second or third routes would be subject to additional statutory requirements, such as being in substantial conformity with the current good manufacturing practices and certain labeling requirements. These provisions would implement recent changes in FDA's export authority resulting from the FDA Export Reform and Enhancement Act of 1996.

Abstract: The Food and Drug Administration is proposing to revoke the interim final rule which permitted the Commissioner to determine, based on a request by the Department of Defense, that obtaining informed consent from military personnel for the use of investigational products is not feasible in certain military combat situations. The rule was used to permit a waiver from the informed consent requirements for pyridostigmine bromide and the botulinum toxoid vaccine during the Gulf War. The agency is proposing this action after reviewing comments it received in response to a July 1997 Request for Comment as to whether the agency should revise or revoke the rule.

At the same time, it will propose to amend its new drug and biological product regulations to identify the kind of evidence needed to demonstrate the efficacy of drug and biological products used to treat or prevent the toxicity of potentially devastating chemical or biological substances when efficacy studies in humans ethically cannot be conducted because they would involve administering a lethal or permanently disabling toxic substance to healthy human volunteers without a proven treatment.

Abstract: FDA is proposing to amend the regulation that permits the use of ozone-depleting substances in particular circumstances to set the standard FDA will use to determine when the use of ozone-depleting substances (ODS) is no longer essential under the Clean Air Act (CAA) and set a new standard to determine when a new essential-use designation should be granted after the effective date of the rule. FDA is also proposing to amend the regulations to better conform to other statutes and regulations relating to ozone-depleting substances to eliminate potential confusion and conflicts. FDA is proposing to eliminate out-of-date transitional provisions and make other nonsubstantive housekeeping changes to its regulations on ozone-depleting substances. The intended effect of the proposed rule is to protect the health and safety of medical device users while complying with the CAA and the Montreal Protocol.

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: PL 104-250

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Animal Drug Availability Act (ADAA) amended the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (the act) to create a new section 504, Veterinary Feed Directive Drugs (VFD Drugs). VFD drugs are animal drugs intended for use in or on animal feed which are limited by an approved application filed pursuant to section 512(b) of the act to use under the professional supervision of a licensed veterinarian in the course of the veterinarian's professional practice. This section requires, among other things, that the labeling, distribution and use of a VFD drug be consistent with its approval; that persons involved in the distribution and use of a VFD drug maintain copies of the VFD; and that persons distributing animal feed provide a one time notice upon first engaging in the distribution of VFD drugs. The proposed rule will provide guidance to the industry about how to comply with section 504 of the act and will serve as a basis for enforcement action.

Abstract: The final rule would amend the regulations governing communications with State and foreign government officials. The proposed rule would permit the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) to disclose confidential commercial information to international organizations having responsibility to facilitate global or regional harmonization of standards and requirements. These disclosures would, in almost all instances, occur only with the consent of the person providing the confidential commercial information to FDA. The proposed rule would also eliminate the need for a written statement by a State or foreign government official establishing that government's ability to protect from public disclosure nonpublic, predecisional documents (such as draft rules and guidance documents) provided by FDA that do not include confidential commercial information. These changes are intended to facilitate information exchanges with State and foreign governments.

Abstract: In multiple rulemakings, the Food and Drug Administration is proposing to amend the biologics regulations by removing, revising, or updating specific regulations applicable to blood derivative products to be more consistent with current practices and to remove unnecessary or outdated requirements. This action is based on a comprehensive review of the regulations that has been performed by FDA. It is also based on reports by the U.S. House of Representatives Committee on Government Reform and Oversight, Subcommittee on House Resources and Intergovernmental Relations; the General Accounting Office; the Institute of Medicine; as well as public comments. Some of the subjects intended to be addressed in the rulemakings include: "Lookback" requirements for hepatitis C virus; notification of consignees and end users of product safety information for plasma derivative products; notification of permanently deferred donors; requirements for donor suitability and testing; viral inactivation; and definitions for "analogous products." These actions are intended to help ensure the continued safety of the nation's blood supply.

Abstract: There have been numerous foodborne outbreaks of Salmonellosis, principally due to Salmonella Enteritidis (SE), that have been traced to the consumption of temperature abused and/or undercooked shell eggs. The Food and Drug Administration has received petitions from Rose Acres Farm, Inc., and the Center for Science in the Public Interest that request, in part, that FDA establish safe handling statements for shell eggs. FDA intends to propose to require safe handling statements on labeling of shell eggs that have not been treated to destroy Salmonella microorganisms that may be present. In accordance with amendments to the Egg Products Inspection Act, USDA proposed on October 27, 1992, to require that shell eggs be stored at an ambient temperature of 7 degrees Celsius (45 degrees Fahrenheit). USDA intends to finalize that requirement shortly. However, the USDA rulemaking does not include refrigeration at retail. As part of a separate rulemaking , FDA intends to propose regulations, based on recommended provisions of the Retail Food Code, to mandate that shell eggs be stored for retail sale at 5 degrees celsius (41 degrees Fahrenheit) or less. FDA is proposing this measure to ensure that shell eggs are handled in a manner to decrease the possible growth of any SE that may be present in shell eggs. All of these actions are intended to reduce the occurrence of illnesses and deaths associated with the consumption of improperly cooked shell eggs.

Abstract: Section 116 of the Food and Drug Administration Modernization Act of 1997 added a new section to the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act that sets forth categories for the reporting of manufacturing changes to a drug product. These categories are based on the potential of the change to adversely affect the identity, strength, quality, purity, and potency of the drug as they may relate to the safety and effectiveness of the drug. Abstract: Section 127 of the Food and Drug Administration Modernization Act of 1997 (Pub. L. 105-115) added section 503A to the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 USC 353a). Section 503A governs the application of Federal law to the practice of pharmacy compounding. Section 503A(b)(1)(A) directs FDA to issue by regulation a list of bulk drug substances that may be used in compounding that are not covered by a United States Pharmacopeia (USP) or National Formulary (NF) monograph and are not components of FDA-approved drugs. Bulk drug substances that do not appear on the list may not be used in compounding under section 127 unless such substances are covered by a USP or NF monograph or are components of approved drugs.

Pursuant to section 116, the rulemaking will propose to revise current procedures for approving manufacturing changes and generally classify such changes into three categories. Major manufacturing changes, which are of a type determined by the Secretary to have a substantial potential to adversely affect the identity, strength, quality, purity, and potency of the drug as they may relate to the safety and effectiveness of a drug, require prior approval of a supplemental application. Other changes may be made pending review of a supplemental application if FDA has not notified the company within 30 days after the submission of a supplement that prior approval is required. The proposed rule will also identify another category of changes that may be made without the submission of a supplement but which must be reported in an annual report.

1186. • FOOD LABELING: TRANS FATTY ACIDS IN NUTRITION LABELING AND NUTRIENT CONTENT CLAIMS

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 21 USC 321; 21 USC 343; 21 USC 371

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 101

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 403(q) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, which was added by the Nutrition Labeling and Education Act of 1990, requires that the label or labeling of food products bear nutrition information. Among other things, section 403(q) authorizes the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) to add or delete nutrients that are to be declared on the labels or labeling of food products by regulation if it finds such action necessary to assist consumers in maintaining healthy dietary practices. In response to this section, FDA published a proposal on November 27, 1991 (56 FR 60366). Among other things, FDA discussed including trans fatty acids among the nutrients that could voluntarily be listed on the nutrition label but concluded that there was no basis for doing so. On January 6, 1993, FDA issued a final rule entitled "Food Labeling: Mandatory Status of Nutrition Labeling and Nutrient Content Revision, Format for Nutrition Label" (58 FR 2079) prescribing how nutrition labeling is to be provided on the food. Based on its review of the comments to the proposal, the agency stated that it was premature to consider the listing of trans fatty acids on the nutrition label because of a lack of consensus on the dietary implications of trans fatty acids intake. However, the agency acknowledged that it might be necessary to readdress the labeling of trans fatty acids in the future. FDA subsequently received a citizen petition requesting that FDA amend the definition of saturated fatty acid in section 101.9(c)(2)(i) to include trans fatty acid. In response to this petition and based on new evidence, FDA is proposing to amend its regulations to provide for the declaration of trans fatty acids in nutrition labeling, to add a requirement that prevents foods from bearing nutrient content claims for saturated fat (i.e., saturated fatty acids) and cholesterol if they contain trans fatty acids above a specified level, and to define a "trans fatty acids free" nutrient content claim.

Abstract: FDA intends to remove this rule. Abstract: Section 4 of the Animal Drug Availability Act of 1996 (Pub. L. 104-250) requires the establishment of tolerances for animal drugs used or intended for use in animals grown in an exporting nation from which an edible portion is imported into the United States. The standards used to establish tolerances are to be similar to the criteria used by the Secretary of HHS to establish tolerances for drugs administered to animals grown in the United States. The data used for establishing the tolerances may be from the manufacturer and include data upon which a foreign approval is based or data available to an international organization such as the Codex Alimentarius Commission. The Animal Medicinal Drug Clarification Act of 1994 (Pub. L. 103-396) allows the Secretary to establish a safe level for a residue of an animal drug when the drug is used in an extralabel manner, if there is a reasonable probability that an extralabel use may present a risk to the public health.

Abstract: On December 17, 1991, the Agency published a proposed revision of the existing regulations that is consistent with the current procedural regulations for human drugs, where appropriate. The New Animal Drug Application (NADA) revisions articulate general requirements in regulations containing performance standards and would complement these regulations through detailed guidances on, among other matters, appropriate ways of meeting requirements for submission of chemistry, pharmacology, and statistical data that would better address the intricate scientific issues involved. A separate proposed rule for reporting requirements for marketed animal drugs also was published on that date. The agency intends to repropose the NADA proposed rule to incorporate some recent changes in procedure. The NADA revisions are expected to include regulations to implement the provisions of the Animal Drug Availability Act of 1996, specifically the definition of flexible labeling, and implement parts of the President's National Performance Report "Reinventing the Regulation of Animal Drugs," May 1996. In the reinventing regulations report, FDA proposed to revise its regulations to reflect numerous new process changes and programs that will maintain safety and effectiveness of new animal drugs and enable a more streamlined animal drug application review and approval process which will result in less regulatory burden upon industry and FDA. The Agency also proposes to amend its regulations to implement title I of the Generic Animal Drug and Patent Term Restoration Act, which established new standards for marketing approval of generic copies of animal drugs approved after 1962.

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: PL 100-293 Prescription Drug Marketing Act of 1987

CFR Citation: 21 CFR 203

Abstract: The Prescription Drug Marketing Act of 1987 (PDMA) amended the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act to: (1) require State licensing of wholesale distributors of prescription human drugs under Federal guidelines including minimum standards for storage, handling, and recordkeeping; (2) ban the reimportation of prescription human drugs produced in the United States, except when reimported by the manufacturer or for emergency use; (3) ban the sale, trade, or purchase of drug samples; (4) ban trafficking in or counterfeiting of drug coupons; (5) mandate storage, handling, and recordkeeping requirements for drug samples; (6) require licensed practitioners to request drug samples in writing; (7) prohibit, with certain exceptions, the resale of prescription human drugs purchased by hospitals or health care facilities; and (8) set forth criminal and civil penalties for violations of these provisions. In the Federal Register of September 14, 1990 (55 FR 38012), FDA issued a final rule setting forth Federal guidelines for State licensing of wholesale drug distributors. This final rule would provide information, guidance, and clarification of those sections of PDMA that are not related to State licensing of wholesale distributors.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: FDA is amending the regulations that require licensed manufacturers of biological products to report errors and accidents in manufacturing that may affect the safety, purity, or potency of a product. FDA defines terms used; establishes a reporting period for all licensed biological products; and amends the current good manufacturing practice (CGMP) regulations for blood and blood components to require error and accident reporting by unlicensed registered blood establishments and transfusion services currently reporting on a voluntary basis. The reporting requirements will expedite reporting of errors and accidents in manufacturing of biological products; provide FDA with a more accurate surveillance of the Nation's blood supply enabling FDA to monitor actions taken in response to the errors and accidents detected for all establishments involved in the manufacture of blood and blood components; and facilitate a rapid response where public health may be at risk. The cost to licensed establishments would be minimal, since they already are required to report. Unlicensed establishments would only have to make some changes in standard operating procedures. Unlicensed establishments are already required to keep records and conduct investigations. Under the final rule they would have to establish reporting procedures and report to FDA. The transfusion services would have to assure that their recordkeeping and investigation procedures are sufficient, and establish reporting procedures.

Abstract: FDA has required tamper-resistant packaging features for OTC drug products since 1982. The tamper-resistant packaging regulations were revised in 1989 in response to continuing tampering incidents. Despite the regulatory protection provided by the regulations, two-piece, hard gelatin capsules remain vulnerable to malicious tampering and were implicated in tampering incidents in 1991. This action is in response to the 1991 tampering incidents and requires use of the term "tamper-evident" instead of "tamper-resistant", and that all OTC human drug products marketed in two-piece, hard gelatin capsules be sealed.

Abstract: In August 1995 the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) published a proposed rule that specified standards for the distribution and quality of useful prescription medication information, designed for patients, that voluntary, private-sector efforts should supply to patients receiving new prescriptions. On August 6, 1996, section 601 of the Agriculture Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1997 was enacted which places the proposed rule as it relates to a voluntary program in abeyance. The legislation did not address the provisions that would have required mandatory Medication Guides in relatively rare instances (approximately five products annually) where a product poses a serious and significant public health concern requiring immediate distribution of FDA-approved patient information. FDA is in the process of finalizing the requirement for mandatory Medication Guides for these rare products.

Abstract: FDA is finalizing revisions to the current good manufacturing practice (CGMP) regulations at 21 CFR parts 210 and 211 regarding finished pharmaceuticals. The new regulations codify current agency policies or current industry practices. Among other things, the rule will create or clarify requirements for process and methods validation, appropriate laboratory testing procedures, and protection against contamination. The rule is designed to update the CGMP regulations in response to technological changes and the agency's experience with the regulations.

Abstract: The Animal Drug Availability Act of 1996 (ADAA) amends sections 512(a) and 512(m) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (the act) to require a single facility license for the manufacture of feeds containing approved new animal drugs, rather than multiple medicated feed applications (MFAs) for each feed mill, as previously required by the act. Prior to the passage of the ADAA, an approved medicated feed application was required by the act for the manufacture of medicated feed. The ADAA eliminates the requirement that a feed mill submit a separate medicated feed application for the manufacture of each type of medicated feed and instead provides for feed mills to be licensed and allows a licensed facility to manufacture any feed containing an approved new animal drug. Additionally, the act, as amended by the ADAA, provides the agency with the authority to exempt facilities that manufacture certain types of medicated feed from the requirement of a medicated feed mill license.

The Food and Drug Administration published on July 30, 1997, a proposed rule to amend the animal drug regulations and add a new part (21 CFR 515) to provide for feed mill licensing in accordance with the ADAA. The proposed regulation implements the requirements for feed mill licensing set forth in the ADAA. Under this proposal, those medicated feeds exempted from the MFA requirement under 21 CFR 558.4 will also be exempt from the requirement of a medicated feed mill license.

Abstract: The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) issued a direct final rule and companion proposed rule to amend the biologics regulations by adding "cellular therapy products" to the list of products excepted from the general safety test (GST) and by adding an administrative procedure for obtaining an exemption from the GST requirements for other biological products. Because the agency received significant adverse comment on the administrative procedure portion of the direct final rule, FDA withdrew that portion of the rule and confirmed the remaining portion. FDA intends to finalize the companion proposed rule to respond to the significant adverse comment on the administrative procedure portion of the rule. FDA is taking this action because the GST may not be relevant or necessary for all biological products, including cellular therapy products, currently in various stages of development. This action is part of FDA's continuing effort to achieve the objectives of the President's "Reinventing Government" initiative, and is intended to reduce the burden of unnecessary regulations on biological products without diminishing the protection of the public health.

Abstract: The Nutrition Labeling and Education Act of 1990 (NLEA) requires that most foods bear nutrition labeling. The agency issued final rules implementing most of the provisions contained in the NLEA on January 6, 1993. Subsequently, however, the agency has identified additional areas that should be the subject of rulemaking. FDA issued a proposal on January 6, 1993, to establish requirements for the identification of certain ingredients on food labels. FDA proposed on June 15, 1993, to amend its January 6, 1993, final rules on nutrient content and health claims to remove the provisions that exempted restaurant menus from the requirements for how nutrient content claims and health claims are to be made. The agency proposed on January 4, 1994, to establish reference daily intakes based on the 9th and 10th editions of the National Research Council's Recommended Dietary Allowances. On March 14, 1994, FDA published a proposal describing the provisions for exemptions for low-volume food products of small businesses that were established by the Nutrition Labeling and Education Act Amendments of 1993. On August 18, 1993, FDA published a proposal concerning the placement of the nutrition facts panel on food labels. Finally, on July 18, 1994, FDA published proposed revised guidelines for the voluntary declaration of nutrition labeling for raw produce and fish. A final rule concerning the placement of the nutrition facts panel was published on April 5, 1995. A final rule establishing reference daily intakes based on the 9th and 10th editions of Recommended Dietary Allowances was published on December 28, 1995.

FDA published a final rule on August 2, 1996, on nutrient content claims and health claims to remove the provisions that exempted restaurant menus from the requirements for how nutrient content claims and health claims are to be made. FDA published a final rule on August 7, 1996, describing provisions for an exemption for small businesses from the requirements for nutrition labeling and providing instructions on how to file a notice claiming the exemption. FDA published on August 16, 1996, final guidelines in the voluntary declaration of nutrition labeling for raw produce and fish.

Abstract: FDA is considering whether to classify stand-alone computer software products that fit the definition of a medical device under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act. Although the Secretary has not made a final decision to initiate such a program, the agency is considering classifying these devices by using a risk-based approach as required under the Medical Device Amendments to the act. In addition, the agency would use existing exemptions from regulation where appropriate. Under this approach, low risk medical software devices would be subject only to the adulteration and misbranding provisions of the act. Moderate risk devices would additionally be subject to the registration, listing, good manufacturing practice requirements, and reporting and recordkeeping requirements. High risk devices would be the only products to require premarket submissions. FDA is also seeking comment on potential criteria related to the intended uses of medical software devices that might be used in determining the level of risk.

Abstract: In response to President Clinton's memorandum to heads of departments and agencies entitled "Regulatory Reinvention Initiative," FDA has initiated rulemaking to retain, revise, or revoke certain of its regulations for food. FDA published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) on December 29, 1995, requesting information on the need to retain, revise, or revoke its food standards of identity regulations and its common or usual name regulations. In the same issue of the Federal Register FDA proposed to improve the coordination of the food additive, GRAS, and color additive approval process with USDA for substances used in meat and poultry products. FDA proposed to revoke several lower fat milk standards on November 9, 1995. On June 12, 1996, FDA published an ANPRM announcing its intention to review (1) its human food labeling regulations pertaining to the exemption for soft drinks from requirements for the type size and placement of certain information on the information panel, requirements for listing "statements of identity," and requirements for flavor labeling; (2) its infant formula regulations to ensure that they fully reflect the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; (3) its regulations pertaining to the discharge of waste aboard casino ships, passenger ships, and ferries; and (4) its food additive regulations to consolidate certain existing regulations. In the same June 12 issue of the Federal Register, FDA published a second ANPRM seeking public comment on possible ways to streamline various food additive regulations. FDA also proposed on June 12, 1996, to revoke certain food labeling regulations pertaining to labeling of food with number of servings and labeling Kosher and Kosher-style foods and to revoke the agency's voluntary filing of cosmetic product experiences. The latter was published August 12, 1997.

On October 13, 1995, FDA proposed to revoke certain agency regulations that were obsolete or no longer necessary to achieve public health goals. The final rule (pertaining to food regulations only) was published on June 3, 1996. A confirmation of effective date (CED) on those regulations promulgated under the formal rulemaking procedures of section 701(e) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 USC 371(e)) pertaining to diabetic labeling (21 CFR 105.67) and sodium intake labeling (21 CFR 105.69) was published on August 27, 1996.

In the Federal Register of April 17, 1997 (62 FR 18938), FDA proposed to establish a notification procedure for companies to use to inform FDA of a company's determination that use of a substance in food is generally recognized as safe (GRAS).

Abstract: On January 4, 1994, FDA published final rules relative to nutrition labeling, nutrient content claims and health claims for dietary supplements. The Dietary Supplement Health and Education Act (DSHEA) was enacted on October 25, 1994, modifying the statutory provisions governing labeling of dietary supplements. FDA has initiated rulemaking to modify its regulations for dietary supplements accordingly. One proposal would modify the nutrition labeling and ingredient declaration requirements. A second proposal would provide for the use of nutrient content claims and health claims on dietary supplements and establish procedures for the use of a disclaimer to accompany statements of nutritional support. A third proposal would define the terms "high potency" and "antioxidant." These three proposals were published in the Federal Register on December 28, 1995. An ANPRM was published in February 1997 seeking public comments on issues related to the establishment of current good manufacturing practices for dietary supplements. FDA published three final rules on September 23, 1997, responding to the proposals of December 28, 1995, and entitled: (1) "Food Labeling; Statement of Identity, Nutrition Labeling and Ingredient Labeling of Dietary Supplements; Compliance Policy Guide, Revocation;" (2) "Food Labeling; Requirements for Nutrient Content Claims, Health Claims, and Statements of Nutritional Support for Dietary Supplements;" and (3) "Food Labeling; Nutrient Content Claims; Definition for "High Potency" and Definition for "Antioxidant" for Use in Nutrient Content Claims for Dietary Supplements and Conventional Foods." The agency received several petitions for reconsideration of aspects of the final rule on nutrition labeling and ingredient declaration for dietary supplements. In response to these petitions, FDA pubished a final rule revising the nutrition labeling requirements for dietary supplements that contain liquid or dried extracts.

DHSEA also established an independent agency within the Executive Branch known as the Commission on Dietary Supplement Labels. The Commission was charged with conducting a study on, and providing recommendations for, regulating label claims and statements for dietary supplements, including the use of literature in connection with the sale of dietary supplements and procedures for evaluating such claims. On November 24, 1997, the Commission's final report was released. On April 29, 1998, FDA issued a notice on its views on the Commission's report and a proposed rule that responds to guidance in the report concerning statements about the effect of dietary supplements on the structure or function of the body.

Abstract: FDA is proposing to revise its regulations governing investigational use of new animal drugs by proposing to delete 21 CFR 511 and establish in 21 CFR part 512 revised investigational use new animal drug regulations. The investigational use new animal drug regulations are expected to include regulations to implement provisions of the Animal Drug Availability Act of 1996, specifically presubmission conferences, and implement parts of the President's National Performance Report, "Reinventing the Regulation of Animal Drugs," May 1996. In the reinventing regulations report, FDA proposed to revise its regulations to reflect numerous new process changes and programs that will enable a more streamlined animal drug application review and approval process, and which would result in less regulatory burden upon industry and FDA while maintaining safety and effectiveness of new animal drugs.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 11131

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 60.7

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This NPRM proposes to require that in addition to reporting to the National Practitioner Data Bank medical malpractice payments made where physicians or other health care practitioners are named in final judgments or settlements, payments be reported where they are made for the benefit of physicians or other health care practitioners not named in the judgments or settlements but who furnished or failed to furnish the health care services upon which the actions or claims were based. The purpose of this NPRM is to prevent the evasion of the medical malpractice payment reporting requirement of the Data Bank through the agreement of the parties to a lawsuit to use the corporate health care entity to "shield" the parties to the health care practitioner from being reported.

It would also require malpractice payers, in very limited circumstances when it is impossible to identify the practitioner who furnished or failed to furnish the health care services upon which the actions or claims were based, to report why the practitioner could not be identified, the name of the hospital or health care organization for whose benefit the payment, and the name (if known) of any hospital or health care organization with which the practitioner is affiliated or associated with.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1396r-2, note

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 60

Abstract: Public Law 100-93 amended section 1921 of the Social Security Act to require that each State have in effect a system of reporting discipline licensure actions taken against health care practitioners and entities. It also requires States to report any negative action or finding which a peer review organization, private accreditation entity or a State licensing agency has concluded against a health care practitioner or entity. Section 1921 directs the Secretary to provide for maximum appropriate coordination in the implementation of these reporting requirements with those of the Health Care Quality Improvement Act of 1986 (title IV of Public Law 99-660).

The NPRM provides for the Department to collect and maintain this information and make the information available to authorized parties to determine the fitness of individuals to provide health care services, to protect the health and safety of individuals receiving health care services, and to protect the physical integrity of the Medicaid/Medicare programs.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 45 USC 11101 to 11152

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 60

Abstract: Since the opening of the Data Bank, the Department has received feedback that several terms defined in the regulations have caused confusion. These items include "health care entity," "formal peer review process," and "clinical privileges." Based on this feedback, the Department reviewed the Health Care Quality Improvement Act of 1986 and its regulations. Through this review, the Department recognizes the need to clarify and/or broaden certain definitions in light of the rapid evolution of the health care system. This NPRM would more fully implement Congressional intent, which was to give access to Data Bank information to health care organizations reviewing the quality of physician care in order to protect patients from incompetent practitioners with previous damaging or incompetent performance.

Abstract: The Balanced Budget Act of 1997 requires that the Secretary establish a fee schedule for ambulance services through negotiated rulemaking. The fee schedule is to be effective beginning with services furnished on or after January 1, 2000. In addition to setting the payment rates, the Secretary is to ensure that the aggregate amount of payment made for ambulance services in 2000 may not exceed the amount of payment that would have been made absent the fee schedule. This is a cap on payment, not a budget neutrality adjustment. The Secretary is to consult with national organizations representing individuals and entities that furnish and regulate ambulance services and share relevant data with these organizations. This provision will be met through the negotiated rulemaking process.

Abstract: The Deficit Reduction Act of 1984 established a voluntary participation program for physicians and suppliers under which physicians and suppliers enter into an agreement with Medicare that binds them to accept payment on an assignment-related basis for all services they furnish to Medicare beneficiaries. This proposed rule would set forth the terms and conditions of the participation agreements. This proposed rule would reflect provisions of OBRA '93 as to the suppliers subject to the charge limits, and provisions of SSA '94 as to administrative procedures for enforcing the charge limits. This rulemaking will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements. It will give beneficiaries the opportunity to make informed consumer decisions regarding the choice of Medicare Part B services.

Abstract: This final rule will require Medicare-participating hospitals with emergency departments to provide upon request medical examinations and treatments for individuals with emergency medical conditions and women in labor. A participating hospital that has specialized capabilities or facilities (such as burn, shock trauma, or neonatal intensive care units) must accept an appropriate transfer if it has the capacity to treat the individual. Hospitals failing to meet those requirements may have their Medicare provider agreements terminated, and hospitals and responsible physicians may be subject to civil money penalties. Under section 9122 of COBRA '85, Medicare-participating hospitals are required to accept CHAMPUS and CHAMPVA payment as payment in full for services provided to CHAMPUS and CHAMPVA beneficiaries. These regulations also implement section 9305(b) of OBRA '86, which requires Medicare hospitals to give patients a notice of their discharge rights.

Abstract: This rule will codify in the CFR the Medicare secondary payer (MSP) provision, under the Social Security Act, for disabled individuals who are covered under large group health plans (LGHPs). Under this provision, LGHPs may not take into account that such individuals are entitled to Medicare. The rule contains procedures under which a plan can appeal a determination of nonconformance that could lead to an excise tax. It reflects statutory revisions mandated by OBRA '86, OBRA '89, and OBRA '93, some of which also affect the MSP provisions for persons who are entitled on the basis of age or end-stage renal disease.

Abstract: This rule will address provisions of OBRA '89 and OBRA '90. OBRA '89 provides the services of clinical psychologists (CPs) and clinical social workers. It requires CPs to agree to consult with the patient's primary care or attending physician. (Also, it will eliminate the dollar limitation that previously applied to mental health services, although the 62.5 percent limitation still applies). OBRA '89 also provides coverage for clinical social worker services, but places two limitations on separate payment, which apply to services provided to inpatients of hospitals and skilled nursing facilities that are Medicare participating. OBRA '90 unbundled CP services from the definition of "inpatient hospital services." It also implements two sections (psychology services in hospitals and consultation by social workers) of the Social Security Act Amendments of 1994.

Allowing the use of telephone requests will supplement, not replace, the current procedures for initiating appeals. By providing quick and easy access to the appeals process, this rule will also improve carrier relationships with the beneficiary, physician and other suppliers.

Abstract: This rule updates and revises policy on coverage of ambulance services. It bases coverage and payment for ambulance services on the medical services needed to treat the beneficiary's condition. It also clarifies Medicare policy on coverage of non-emergency ambulance services for Medicare beneficiaries. It defines an ambulance by describing the requirements for furnishing both basic and advanced life support levels of ambulance services. The rule would require use of additional HCFA common procedure coding systems (HCPCS) codes to show the origin and destination of the ambulance transportation on the billing form. It requires use of international classification of diseases, ninth revision, clinical modification (ICD-9-CM) codes to bill the Medicare program for basic and advanced levels of ambulance services.

Abstract: This notice announces the withdrawal of a proposed rule on cytology proficiency testing that was published in the Federal Register November 30, 1995, and instead, announces a supplement to the rulemaking record of a final rule published February 28, 1992. In publishing the proposed rule, HHS complied with a Federal court order requiring publication of a proposal that would require that cytology proficiency testing be conducted to the extent practicable, under normal working conditions. As required, we proposed to revise regulations to require that proficiency testing be conducted at a pace corresponding to the maximum workload rate for individuals examining slides. We also solicited comments on the use of computer facsimile representations of cytology specimens, as an alternative to glass-slide proficiency testing. After the proposed rule was published, the appeals court revised the lower court's order, allowing us to withdraw the Abstract: This final rule with comment period amends current regulations to reflect statutory changes under which physician certification, plan of care, and utilization review requirements become State plan requirements and are no longer included in the quarterly "showings" of compliance that States must submit. Those showings are now limited to inspection of care reviews in institutions for mental diseases and intermediate care facilities for the mentally retarded. The rule also reflects the discontinuance of the State-operated claims processing assessment system and of regional office review of a subsample of each State's Medicaid quality control sample.

Abstract: The Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 and the Contract With America Advancement Act of 1996 made statutory changes affecting the eligibility of large numbers of Medicaid recipients. Changes were made to the definition of disability for children and eligibility requirements of non-U.S. citizens and individuals receiving disability cash assistance based on a finding of alcoholism and drug addiction. In order to protect Federal financial participation in State Medicaid expenditures for States with unusual volumes of eligibility redeterminations caused by these statutory changes, we published a final rule with comment period on January 13, 1997. That rule changed our regulations to provide additional time for States to process redeterminations and provide services pending the redeterminations. We are analyzing the public comments to the January 13 rule in preparation of a final rule.

Abstract: This interim final rule with comment period will revise our rules to allow States to include individuals who are described as categorically needy to be covered as medically needy. The State must specify the income and resources criteria for the medically needy group in the State plan. If an individual is also described as categorically needy, the individual would receive Medicaid as categorically needy if the State elected to cover the categorically needy group into which the individual fits. If the State has not elected to cover that group, the individual would be medically needy. This change will allow more individuals to become eligible for Medicaid as medically needy and eliminate an inequity in current regulations. This revision also allows some individuals who would otherwise lose their Medicaid benefits to retain their eligibility.

Abstract: This final rule with comment period will make a change necessary for a State to further facilitate coordination of its Medicaid and foster care program in cases where coverage has been expanded under its Temporary Assistance for Needy Families beyond the definition of unemployed parent contained in existing Aid to Families with Dependent Children regulations. This rule revises the definition of unemployment of a principal wage earner for purposes of coverage of dependent children of unemployed parents. It will also allow States to eliminate inequitable policies that are a disincentive to family unity.

In addition, we are amending the list of approved programs and clarifying payment rules for certified registered nurse anesthetist programs. This rule will also address section 4004 of OBRA '90 which provides that, effective with cost reporting periods beginning on or after October 1, 1990, under certain conditions, costs incurred by a hospital or educational institution related to the hospital for clinical training are treated as pass-through costs and paid on the basis of reasonable cost even though the hospital does not operate the education programs.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This final rule with comment period will amend the Medicare and Medicaid regulations by removing obsolete long-term care survey forms, guidelines, and procedures used by State agencies when they evaluate a Medicare skilled nursing facility or a Medicaid nursing facility for compliance with Federal certification requirements. Effective October 1, 1990, the application of new Federal participation requirements for these facilities with an increased focus on actual or potential resident outcomes has made the survey forms and process in existing regulations outdated. Retention of the outdated items can cause confusion in connection with directions State survey agencies must follow in determining facility compliance. This rule is part of the Administration's reinventing government and regulatory reform initiatives. Publication of this regulation is dependent upon court approval which has been sought.

Alternative sanctions could be imposed instead of, or in addition to, terminating a psychiatric hospital's participation in the Medicare and Medicaid programs when deficiencies do not pose immediate jeopardy to the health and safety of psychiatric hospital patients. These amendments are necessary to conform HCFA regulations to changes made by OBRA '89 and OBRA '90. The statutory and regulatory revisions are intended to encourage correction of deficiencies that do not jeopardize patient health and safety before termination of a facility becomes necessary.

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend our regulations to revise certification and payment requirements for Rural Health Clinics (RHCs). It would include new refinements of what constitutes a qualifying rural shortage area in which a Medicare RHC must be located, including the requirement that shortage areas be redesignated every three years; establish criteria for identifying RHCs essential to delivery of primary care services that can continue to be approved as Medicare RHCs in areas no longer designated as medically underserved; and include recent statutory provisions that provide a temporary waiver of certain nonphysician practitioners staffing requirement. It also would impose payment limits on provider-based RHCs and prohibit "commingling", the use of the space, equipment and other resources of a provider-based RHCs to establish a quality assessment and performance improvement program that goes beyond current regulatory requirements.

This proposed rule would implement section 4205 of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997 and makes other revisions for clarity and uniformity and to improve program administration.

Before section 1881 of the Social Security Act was amended by section 12 of the Medicare and Medicaid Patient and Program Protection Act of 1987 (Public Law 100-93), HCFA was authorized to impose alternative sanctions only when an ESRD facility failed to cooperate in the goals and activities of the ESRD network for the area in which the facility is located.

Abstract: This rule would allow Peer Review Organizations (PROs) to disclose confidential information to researchers without the consent of the individuals who would be identified. The research must be directly related to the purposes of the PRO or ESRD program. Currently, PROs can only disclose to the public nonconfidential aggregate data where no one is specifically identified. The statute, however, provides for limited disclosure and allows the Secretary to provide for disclosure in the regulations while assuring adequate protection of the rights and interests of patients, health care practitioners, and providers. HCFA is now emphasizing the sharing of PRO data for educational and research purposes as evidenced by the implementation of the Uniform Clinical Data Set and the Health Care Quality Improvement Initiative. This regulatory revision would make confidential PRO information accessible to researchers while still protecting the identities of beneficiaries and practitioners from unwarranted disclosure.

Abstract: This final rule will revise the requirements that hospitals must meet to participate in the Medicare and Medicaid programs. The revised requirements focus on patient care and the outcomes of that care, reflect a cross-functional view of patient treatment, encourage flexibility in meeting quality standards, and eliminate unnecessary procedural requirements. These changes are necessary to reflect advances in health care practices since the requirements were last revised in 1986.

Abstract: This rule provides that a physician who has (or whose immediate family member has) a financial relationship with a health care entity may not make referrals to that entity for certain services (designated health services) under the Medicare program except under specified circumstances. In the Medicaid context, this rule would deny payment to a State for expenditures for designated health services furnished on the basis of a physician referral that, all things being equal, would result in denial of payment under Medicare. The provisions of the rule are based on sections 13562 and 13624 of OBRA '93 and section 152 of SSAA '94.

Abstract: This final rule will revise home health agency conditions of participation to center on the patient, using outcome-oriented measures. Most of the current HHA conditions of participation have remained unchanged since home health services became a Medicare benefit in 1966. Some limited modifications have been made over the years to comply with legislative changes. As a result, most of the conditions of participation continue to be structure and process oriented. In addition, this final rule will require that HHAs use a standard core assessment data set, the "Outcome and Assessment Information Set" (OASIS), when evaluating adult, non-maternity patients receiving home health care.

Abstract: As part of the CLIA program (see RIN 0938-AE47), this rule will develop criteria for simple and easy-to-use test systems that have demonstrated accuracy and precision through scientific studies. We also proposed that a small number of surveys be conducted to validate the criteria for determining APT and to assure quality.

Abstract: This proposed rule would define skilled nursing facilities (SNFs) under section 1819(A)(1) of the Social Security Act for purposes of Medicare coverage of durable medical equipment (DME) and home health services. A Medicare SNF (as defined under section 1819 of the Social Security Act) cannot be considered a home under Medicare part B for DME and home health coverage. This proposed rule would presume that all Medicare nursing facilities are section 1819(A)(1) facilities and thus would not be considered a home for DME coverage. This would define non-Medicare nursing homes as skilled facilities based upon the receipt of skilled care at least once a week by a proportion of its residents population.

Currently, when a State requests reconsideration of a denied SPA, a hearing is held in all cases, even when the only dispute is over the interpretation of the statute. Under the proposed regulation, the State and HCFA could avoid the cost and delay of the hearing process when the only issue is interpretation of the statute by permitting the State expedited judicial review, without a full administrative hearing, after HCFA has a brief opportunity to reconsider its decision.

Abstract: A provider whose charges are lower than its reasonable costs for those services in any cost reporting period beginning January 1, 1974, but before April 28, 1988, may carry forward costs that are unreimbursed for two succeeding cost reporting periods. Sufficient time has passed since the publication of this provision to warrant the deletion from the regulation text of any reference to the carryover provision. Since payment for durable medical equipment (DME) provided by home health agencies (HHAs) is no longer based on the lesser of the reasonable cost or reasonable charge but rather on 80 percent of the lesser of the actual charge for the item or the payment amount recognized under the DME fee schedule and, for nominal charge HHAs, on 80 percent of the DME fee schedule amount, the lesser of costs or charges provision no longer applies and should be deleted from the CFR.

1380. DETERMINATION OF SUBSTANDARD CARE IN SNFS AND NFS (HCFA-2240-P)

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1395i-3; 42 USC 1396r

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 488.301

Abstract: This proposed rule would revise the definition of "substandard quality of care" as it applies to skilled nursing facilities, in the Medicare program, and nursing facilities, in the Medicaid program. "Substandard quality of care" is one type of noncompliance with Federal participation requirements that carries with it statutory consequences to facilities providing such care. The purpose of this proposed revision is to improve the definition of substandard quality of care so that the process can make a more meaningful distinction between facility noncompliance that warrants the consequences mandated by the statute for a finding of substandard quality of care and noncompliance that does not.

This rule does not apply to those suppliers covered under the appeals provisions for our regulations at 42 CFR 498.

Abstract: The Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 created changes in Federal law making most non-U.S. citizens ineligible for Supplemental Security Income (SSI). In most States, receipt of SSI confers automatic Medicaid eligibility. Although many States have elected optional eligibility, groups that provide a basis for covering persons who do not receive SSI, some States have not done so. In these States, these individuals would be left without access to Medicaid (including emergency services). To conform with the new law, we are proposing regulations that would result in the loss of Medicaid for qualified aliens in those States that cover only SSI recipients. We are also seeking comments on whether there remains any statutory basis to continue Medicaid coverage for these individuals.

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend current regulations to clarify our policies regarding the treatment of interest expense. The rule would require that, when only part of the interest on a loan is allowable, repayment would be made first to that portion of the loan on which expense is allowable. This rule also would clarify how this policy is to be applied in situations in which there are multiple loans and one or more of the loans are not related to patient care. Abstract: Included in the passage of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997 Public Law 105-33 are the development of the Child Health Insurance Program, the extension of the Supplemental Security Income Insurance (SSI) cut off date for aliens, and the continuance of Medicaid eligibility for children who lose SSI. These are changes in Federal law that affect a large number of individuals while placing a significant additional workload on States.

This notice protects Federal financial participation (FFP) in State Medicaid expenditures for States with unusual volumes of eligibility redeterminations caused by these recent changes in the law. Additional Information: The Administration on Aging, in consultation with the Office of Management and Budget, has determined that it is no longer necessary to pursue final action on rules earlier proposed to implement the 1992 amendments to the Older Americans Act. The provisions of the Act remain in force and need no further regulations to implement them. AoA anticipates promulgating rules in the latter part of 1998 to implement the provisions to the next reauthorization of the Older Americans Act, if necessary.

DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT (HUD)

DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

24 CFR Subtitles A and B

[Docket No. FR-4335-02]

Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Department of Housing and Urban Development.

ACTION: Semiannual regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: In accordance with section 4(b) of Executive Order 12866 "Regulatory Planning and Review," the Department is publishing its agenda of (1) regulations already issued or expected to be issued and (2) currently effective rules that are under review. Additionally, in accordance with section 602 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, the Department also has prepared an agenda of regulations expected to be proposed or promulgated, which are likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. As permitted by Executive Order 12866 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, the two agendas are combined for publication.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Camille E. Acevedo, Assistant General Counsel for Regulations, Department of Housing and Urban Development, Room 10276, 451 Seventh Street SW., Washington, DC 20410, (202) 708-3055. (This is not a toll-free number.) A telecommunications device for hearing- and speech-impaired individuals (TTY) is available at 1-800-877-8339 (Federal Information Relay Service).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12866 "Regulatory Planning and Review," published on October 4, 1993 (58 FR 51735), requires each agency to publish semiannually an agenda of (1) regulations that the agency has issued or expects to issue and (2) currently effective regulations that are under agency review. Consistent with the principles set forth in Executive Order 12866 to reduce and streamline regulations and in response to President Clinton's memorandum to Federal agencies to examine all regulations and eliminate those that are obsolete, the Department continues to examine those rules proposed to be issued under these principles.

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601-612) requires each agency to publish semiannually a regulatory agenda of rules expected to be proposed or promulgated that are likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of "small entities," meaning small businesses, small organizations, or small governmental jurisdictions.

Executive Order 12866 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act each permits incorporation of the agenda required with any other prescribed agenda. The agenda set out below combines the information required by Executive Order 12866 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act. In addition, the agenda contains certain information not required by either the Executive order or by the Act, which the Department considers useful, both better to inform the public and to enhance the Department's own inventory control over its body of regulations.

Section 610(c) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act requires each agency to publish annually a list of the rules that have a significant economic impact upon a substantial number of small entities and that are to be reviewed in accordance with section 610 during the succeeding 12 months. All rules under development, published in each HUD agenda, are reviewed in accordance with the principles of section 610 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. In 1995 and 1996, all HUD regulations then codified underwent a section 610 review when these regulations were examined in accordance with President Clinton's regulatory reinvention initiative. The Department invites comments from the public on any rule listed in this agenda that the public may believe will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The Department specifically invites comment on HUD's rules pertaining to manufactured housing, lead-based paint hazard control, and real estate settlement procedures.

The Department also is subject to certain rulemaking requirements set forth in the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act (42 U.S.C. 3531 et seq.). Section 7(o) of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act (42 U.S.C. 3535(o)) requires that the Secretary transmit to the congressional committees having jurisdictional oversight of HUD (the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs and the House Committee on Banking and Financial Services) a semiannual agenda of all rules or regulations which are under development or review by the Department. A rule appearing on the agenda cannot be published for comment before or during the first 15 calendar days after transmittal of the agenda. If, within that period, either committee notifies the Secretary that it intends to review any rule or regulation which appears on the agenda, the Secretary must submit to both committees a copy of the rule or regulation, in the form it is intended to be proposed, at least 15 calendar days before it is published for comment. The semiannual agenda published today is the agenda transmitted to the committees in compliance with this requirement.

For purposes of Executive Order 12866, "regulation" or "rule" is defined as "an agency statement of general applicability and future effect, which the agency intends to have the force and effect of law, that is designed to implement, interpret, or prescribe law or policy or to describe the procedure or practice requirements of an agency," subject to certain exceptions. The agenda published below focuses on regulatory material contained or expected to be contained in the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) (or incorporated therein by reference) following publication in the Federal Register. As appropriate, however, issuances in the nature of general statements of policy may be published in the Federal Register but not for codification in the CFR.

The agenda items are divided first by program office. Within each program office, the agenda items are divided into four groups: (i) Prerulemaking actions, (ii) publication or other implementations of notices of proposed rulemaking, (iii) publications or other implementations of final rules, and (iv) completed actions. Within each grouping, rules are listed in chronological order by the part number of the CFR affected. Where a rule affects multiple parts of the CFR, the rule is listed by the first affected part number.

The agenda reflects that some rules have been withdrawn by the Department since issuance of the previous agenda. On further examination of the subject matters of these rules, the Department may determine that certain rules listed as withdrawn under this agenda are necessary, and if that determination is made, the rules will be included in a succeeding semiannual agenda.

Items listed in this agenda are from the following offices within the Department: Office of the Secretary; Office of Housing; Office of Public and Indian Housing; Office of Community Planning and Development; Office of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity; Office of Administration; Office of Inspector General; Office of Policy Development and Research; and the Government National Mortgage Association.

For this edition of the Department's regulatory agenda, the most important significant regulatory actions are included in The Regulatory Plan, which appears in part II of this issue of the Federal Register. The Regulatory Plan entries are listed in the table of contents below and are denoted by a bracketed bold reference, which directs the reader to the appropriate sequence number in part II.

The Department invites all interested members of the public to comment on the rules listed in this fall 1998 agenda to assist the Department in improving its regulatory products and procedures.

Dated: August 25, 1998.

Gail W. Laster,

General Counsel.

Abstract: The Multifamily Assisted Housing Reform and Affordability Act of 1997 (Title V of the Departments of Veterans Affairs and Housing and Urban Development, and Independent Agencies Appropriations Act, 1998; Pub. L. 105-65, approved October 27, 1997) (the Act) made several amendments to strengthen HUD's enforcement authority. Among other amendments, the Act expands the list of persons and types of violations subject to a civil money penalty under HUD's multifamily insured housing programs. The Act also amends the United States Housing Act of 1937 (the statutory authority for HUD's public and assisted housing programs) to provide for the imposition of civil money penalties for noncompliance with section 8 Housing Assistance Payment contracts. In accordance with the Act, HUD is implementing these statutory amendments through issuance of a proposed rule. The rule would incorporate these amendments in HUD's civil money penalty regulations located at 24 CFR part 30.

Abstract: In an effort to comply with the President's regulatory reform initiatives, HUD proposes streamlining its regulations for displacement, relocation assistance, and real property acquisition, by consolidating into part 42 similar provisions appearing throughout title 24 of the Code of Federal Regulations and by eliminating provisions that repeat statutory language or are otherwise unnecessary. HUD also proposes to include in part 42 technical corrections to certain regulations implementing Section 104(d) of Housing and Community Act of 1974. Finally, HUD proposes to issue regulations in part 42 that would implement Section 922 of the HCD Act which prohibits lump sum payments for relocation compensation.

Abstract: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort to remove redundancy throughout title 24 of CFR for flood insurance requirements as currently cited in the affected HUD program regulations. The rule would streamline, consolidate, and codify into a single CFR part all the flood insurance and disaster assistance requirements described separately in each of the individual HUD program regulations of title 24 of the CFR. The flood insurance and disaster assistance requirements are general and cross-cutting and applicable to all HUD programs that provide financial assistance for buildings located within Special Flood Hazard Areas. As presently described in each of the affected individual HUD program regulations, the text is redundant sometimes outdated or incomplete, uninformative, and less than user-friendly.

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 81

Abstract: Through a notice published on 12/30/97, HUD sought comments from the public regarding a possible future proposed rule on non-mortgage investments to amend HUD's regulations at 24 CFR part 81 governing the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (Freddie Mac) and Federal National Mortgage Corporation (Fannie Mae) (both are known as Government Sponsored Enterprises or GSEs). Under their respective Charters, the GSEs have broad authority to invest their funds. At the same time, the Secretary has general regulatory power over the GSEs to ensure that the purposes of the Federal Housing Enterprises Financial Safety and Soundness Act of 1992, the Federal National Mortgage Association Charter Act, and the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation Act are accomplished. HUD's current GSE regulations do not contain specific provisions concerning non-mortgage investments by the GSEs. Based on comments received and its analysis, HUD may issue a proposed rule on this subject.

Abstract: On June 30, 1997, OMB published revised Circular A-133 to implement the Single Audit Act Amendments of 1996. Abstract: The Multifamily Assisted Housing Reform and Affordability Act of 1997 (title V of the Departments of Veterans Affairs and Housing and Urban Development, and Independent Agencies Appropriations Act, 1998; Pub.L. 105-65, approved October 27, 1997) (Multifamily Housing Reform Act) made several amendments to strengthen the enforcement provisions of the National Housing Act (12 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.). Among other amendments, the Multifamily Housing Reform Act provides that a suspension issued by the HUD Mortgagee Review Board is effective upon issuance, if there is sufficient evidence that immediate action is required to protect the financial interests of HUD or the public. Currently, such a suspension is effective only after HUD's issuance of 30-day written notice to the mortgagee. The Multifamily Housing Reform Act also expanded the list of persons subject to a civil money penalty for violations of Federal Housing Administration (FHA) program requirements. This rule updates HUD's FHA enforcement regulations at 24 CFR parts 25 and 30 to incorporate the amendments made by the Multifamily Housing Reform Act.

Abstract: HUD is adopting procedures to implement Executive Order 11990 "Protection of Wetlands." HUD's proposed rule published on January 4, 1990 (55 FR 396), proposed to implement wetlands procedures, but the final rule published on April 21, 1994 (59 FR 19100) only contained procedures implementing Executive Order 11988 on Floodplain Management. References to the wetlands procedures were removed from the 1994 final rule because at that time the Administration was revising Federal policy concerning wetlands. This rule will amend part 55 to implement the procedures for wetlands protection in accordance with Executive Order 11990. The rule would also propose several other changes including expanding the number of HUD programs that would be subject to the four-step decision-making process for ensuring compliance with part 55.

Abstract: This notice announces HUD's intention to issue a proposed rule to update its procedural and enforcement regulations for the Manufactured Home Construction and Safety Standards program (24 CFR part 3282). While the current monitoring and enforcement procedures work well in most cases, HUD is interested in alternative approaches that may better serve the objectives of consumers, the manufactured home industry, and HUD. This document requests recommendations from interested members of the public on ways HUD may update, streamline, and increase the effectiveness of its regulations in 24 CFR part 3282. With better enforcement regulations, HUD will ensure that manufacturers make homes that comply with the Federal construction and safety standards. More effective and efficient regulations will also make manufactured housing an attractive source of affordable housing.

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1709(b)

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 203

Abstract: The rule would propose an additional means of obtaining property approval for a new home that will secure an FHA-insured mortgage with a loan-to-value (LTV) ratio over 90%. Currently a mortgage with a high LTV ratio will be insured only if the property was approved by HUD or VA before construction or if the property is covered by a 10-year warranty plan offered by a warranty company with an insurance backer. The proposal would also allow a 3-year builder warranty to be used.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 5403

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 3280

Abstract: The Department's Manufactured Home Construction and Safety Standards include numerous standards adopted by voluntary consensus standards bodies, which have been incorporated by reference in 24 CFR part 3280. Generally, the voluntary consensus standards bodies update their standards on a regular cycle. Before the Department can adopt the updates to these consensus standards, however, it is required to permit additional public review through notice-and-comment rulemaking. CFR Citation: 24 CFR 200; 24 CFR 202; 24 CFR 203; 24 CFR 206

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule implements the Lender Insurance program, which reflects the Secretary's new authority to delegate the issuance of Mortgage Insurance Certificates (MICs) to mortgagees that are approved under the Direct Endorsement program. This rule will provide that eligible mortgagees that participate in the Lender Insurance program will be responsible for conducting a pre-endorsement review during the origination of their single family mortgage loans, and they will be responsible for endorsing the mortgages for insurance. HUD intends that delegating this insurance authority through the Lender program will be consistent with HUD's efforts to reinvent the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) by creating a more efficient and less burdensome process for providing single family mortgage insurance.

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 200; 24 CFR 207

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule would require mortgagees that hold or service multifamily mortgages insured by HUD to submit certain data electronically to HUD in a HUD-prescribed format. Electronic submission is necessary because the manual submission of HUD forms has become a burden to servicing mortgagees, as well as to HUD. This rule would apply to all multifamily mortgagees in their reporting of mortgage delinquencies, mortgage defaults, mortgage reinstatements, elections to assign mortgages to HUD, and withdrawal of assignment elections.

Abstract: This rule proposes to suspend the authority of the HUD Secretary to provide FHA insurance pursuant to section 248 of the National Housing Act for mortgage loans made for the financing of single-family homes on Indian reservations. The suspension would be in effect whenever authority is available to the Department to guarantee additional loans under its Indian Housing Loan Guarantee program authorized by section 184 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1992. The rule would suspend a program that has not been effective in promoting housing opportunities for Native Americans and permit HUD to focus scarce resources on the similar section 184 program, whenever authority under that program is available.

Abstract: This rule will amend HUD's regulations in 24 CFR part 203 to reduce the Up-Front Mortgage Insurance Premium from 1.75 percent to 1.50 percent for qualified first-time homebuyers with counseling located in "central cities."

Section 424 of the Departments of Veterans Affairs and Housing and Urban Development and Independent Agencies Appropriations Act of 1997 mandated that the Up-Front Mortgage Insurance Premium not exceed 2.00 percent for first-time homebuyers. The further reduction from 1.75 to 1.50 is consistent with the Administration's homeownership strategy.

The concept of risk-sharing is one of the underpinnings of the Federal Housing Administration's (FHA's) reinvention efforts and is critical to our intensified focus on customer service. Abstract: These four statements of policy set forth the Department's interpretation under the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (RESPA) (12 U.S.C. 2601 et seq.) of the legality of certain arrangements involving private mortgage insurers and lenders, and are issued under the authority of RESPA and Regulation X (24 CFR 3500.4(a)(ii)). These statements of policy analyze the applicability of section 8 of RESPA to Lender Paid Mortgage Insurance, to captive reinsurance arrangements, to the Performance Notes program and to agency pool insurance.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 3535(d); 42 USC 5301 to 5321

CFR Citation: 24 CFR 570

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule would make a variety of changes and clarifications to the regulations for the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Entitlement program. This rule would, in part, codify statutory changes made by section 225 of the Omnibus Consolidated Rescissions and Appropriations Act of 1996 and section 807(a) of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1992. This rule would also make further changes necessary to conform the CDBG and HOME programs, particularly in regard to national objective requirements, and make other changes to the national objectives regarding job retention for low- and moderate-income persons. This rule would further advise grantees and subrecipients regarding the need to net all applicable credits from costs to be paid with CDBG funds. An Office of Inspector General (OIG) audit found that applicable credits have not always been properly netted from costs before the costs were paid with CDBG funds. Other changes are needed to codify new eligible activities and to make it easier for grantees to carryout joint CDBG and HOME activities.

Abstract: This document sets forth the administrative guidelines the Office of Community Planning and Development will follow in determining on a case-by-case basis, that the amount of assistance being provided by HUD for a specific housing project for which other government assistance is also being made available, is not more than is necessary to make the assisted activity feasible after taking into account the other government assistance. HUD is required to make these determinations, and to so certify, under section 102(d) of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Reform Act of 1989 for certain CPD programs.

Abstract: The Housing for Older Persons Act (HOPA) of 1995 (Pub. L. 104-76), signed into law on December 28, 1995, amends the "55 and older housing" exemption to the Fair Housing Act's (the Act) prohibition against discrimination based on familial status. The HOPA eliminates the requirement that "housing for older persons" have significant services and facilities for their residents and establishes a good faith reliance defense for monetary damages based on the housing provider's legitimate belief that the housing was entitled to an exemption. In order to qualify for the "55 or over housing" exemption, a housing community must be able to meet the following criteria: 1) at least 80 percent of the units are occupied by at least one person 55 years of age or older per unit; 2) the publication and adherence to policies and procedures which demonstrate an intent by the owner or manager to provide housing for persons 55 years of age or older; and 3) verification of the ages of its residents through reliable surveys and affidavits.

Abstract: This rule finalizes the policies and procedures described in HUD's December 18, 1997 proposed rule. Specifically, the final rule interprets the Fair Housing Act to clarify that an Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) may assess more than one maximum civil penalty against a respondent in a given case, where the respondent has committed separate and distinct acts of discrimination. The final rule is also part of President Clinton's "Make 'Em Pay" initiative, which is designed to fight housing-related acts of hate violence and intimidation with increased enforcement and monetary penalties. The rule describes how ALJs apply in determining the amount of a civil penalty to assess against a respondent found to have committed a discriminatory housing practice.

Abstract: Under the section 8 Management Assessment Program (SEMAP), HUD assesses whether local agencies operate the tenant-based rental assistance programs effectively. SEMAP currently measures housing agency performance under indicators representing 15 key program areas. This rule would add three new performance indicators to SEMAP: timeliness of housing assistance payments (HAPs) to owners; implementation of screening and termination policies for certain evictions, for drug-related criminal activity, and for disruptive alcohol abuses; and for deconcentration of assisted families.

The Balanced Budget Downpayment Act I amended the 1937 Act to permit the establishment of caps or ceiling rents on the income-based monthly rental payment that reflect the reasonable market value of the housing, but are not less than the monthly costs (1) to operate the housing of the PHA; and (2) to make a deposit to a replacement reserve (in the sole discretion of the PHA).

Abstract: This rule finalizes a comprehensive revision of the public housing development and acquisition program regulation at 24 CFR 941. This rule will respond to comments received on three interim rules. The first of those rules redesigned the public housing development process to give housing authorities and localities maximum flexibility in developing public housing in their communities. The second of those rules (FR-3919, RIN 2577-AB54) provided procedures to permit housing agencies to enter a partnership with an entity to develop and own public housing properties in mixed-income developments using a mixed-financed development method. The third rule (FR-4113, RIN 2577-AB69) streamlined and modified this mixed finance component.

Abstract: Under the section 8 Management Assessment Program (SEMAP) established by the rule, HUD assesses whether the section 8 tenant-based assistance programs operate effectively to achieve the intended result of helping eligible families afford decent rental units at a reasonable subsidy cost. SEMAP establishes an objective system for HUD to measure HA performance in key section 8 program areas to enable the Department to ensure program integrity and accountability. SEMAP provides procedures for HUD to identify housing agency management capabilities and deficiencies in order to target monitoring and program assistance more effectively. Housing agencies can use the SEMAP performance analysis to assess and improve their own program operations.

You should direct general comments relating to the agenda to the Office of Regulatory Affairs, Department of the Interior, at the address above or on 202-208-5257 or 202-208-3071.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: With this publication, the Department satisfies the requirement of Executive Order 12866 that the Department publish an agenda of rules that we have issued or expect to issue and of currently effective rules that we have scheduled for review.

Simultaneously, the Department meets the requirement of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) to publish an agenda in April and October of each year identifying rules that will have significant economic effects on a substantial number of small entities. We have specifically identified in the agenda rules that will have such effects.

For this edition of the Department's regulatory agenda, we have included the most important significant regulatory actions in The Regulatory Plan, which appears in part II of today's Federal Register. The table of contents below lists the Regulatory Plan entries and denotes them by a bracketed bold reference that directs the reader to the appropriate sequence number in part II.

1582. NATURAL RESOURCE DAMAGE ASSESSMENTS: TYPE B PROCEDURES

Priority: Other Significant. Major status under 5 USC 801 is undetermined.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 9651(c)

CFR Citation: 43 CFR 11

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: CERCLA and the Clean Water Act allow natural resource trustees to bring a claim against a potentially responsible party for resources that have been injured by a release of a hazardous substance. CERCLA requires that natural resource damage assessment regulations be promulgated and that the regulations be reviewed, and revised as appropriate, every two years. This rulemaking is the biennial review of the administrative process for conducting assessments as well as the so-called "type B" procedures for determining injury and damages through scientific and economic studies. This rulemaking will also address the calculation of lost non-use values of natural resources, in compliance with State of Ohio v. Department of the Interior, 880 F.2d 432 (D.C. Cir. 1989), which ordered the Department to allow for the assessment of all reliably calculated values lost as a result of a natural resource injury.

Abstract: This proposed rule would implement the Secretary of the Interior's June 1, 1993, recommendation to Congress that the Department promulgate regulations addressing rights-of-way pursuant to R.S. 2477 across lands now administered by the Bureau of Land Management, the National Park Service, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. R.S. 2477--a provision adopted in 1866 that granted a right-of-way for the construction of highways across public land not reserved for public uses--was repealed in 1976 but valid existing rights-of-way were not terminated. This proposed rule is intended to clarify the meaning of the statute and provide a workable administrative process and standards for recognizing valid claims.

Abstract: This rule would revise the customary and traditional use determinations and establish regulations for hunting and trapping seasons, harvest limits, methods, and means related to taking of wildlife for subsistence uses during the 1999-2000 regulatory year. The rulemaking is necessary because subpart D regulations require annual public review, and customary and traditional use determinations are also open to the same annual regulatory revision process. When final this rulemaking will replace hunting and trapping regulations in "Subsistence Management Regulations for Public Lands in Alaska; subparts C and D--1998-1999 Subsistence Taking of Fish and Wildlife Regulations," which expires on June 30, 1999. Abstract: The Service proposes to list as endangered in the United States the short-tailed albatross. Due to an oversight when the foreign and native species lists of the 1969 Endangered Species Conservation Act were merged, the U.S. population of this species was not listed. This proposed listing, if made final, would extend endangered status throughout the species' range. The species nests on certain Japanese islands but ranges into U.S. coastal waters.

None of these species are currently known to exist in this river reach or its tributaries. Thus, to ensure that any reintroduced species that may move into the tributaries are covered by these NEP designations, we also propose that the geographic boundaries of the NEPs include the lower 5 miles (8km) of all tributaries that enter the Wilson Dam tailwater.

Abstract: The Service proposes to remove the Dismal Swamp Southeastern Shrew from the list of endangered and threatened wildlife. The Dismal Swamp Southeastern Shrew was listed as a threatened species in 1986 under the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. New data indicate that this species is more widely distributed than previously believed, is fairly abundant within its range, occurs in a wide variety of habitats, and is genetically secure. The Service concludes that the data supporting the original classification were incomplete and that the new data indicate removing the Dismal Swamp Southeastern Shrew from the list of endangered and threatened wildlife is warranted.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Service proposes to remove the peregrine falcon in North America from the list of Endangered and Threatened Wildlife. The Service proposes this action because the available data indicate that this species has recovered following restrictions on organochlorine pesticides in the U.S. and Canada and following implementation of successful management activities, including the reintroduction of captive bred and relocated wild hatchling peregrine falcons. Currently, a minimum of 1,204 American peregrine falcon pairs are found in Alaska, Canada, and the western U.S., and a minimum of 173 falcon pairs are found in the eastern U.S. At least 31 pairs occur in 6 midwestern States not covered by the Peregrine Falcon Recovery Plan or the two recovery plans for the American peregrine falcon in the western United States. The proposed action will remove the American peregrine falcon as an endangered species and will remove the designation of endangered due to similarity of appearance for any free-flying peregrine falcons within the 48 coterminous States from the list of endangered and threatened wildlife. The proposed action removes all Endangered Species Act protections from all subspecies and populations of North American Flaco Peregrinus. There is a mandatory five-year monitoring program that follows delisting.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 712(2)

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 21

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Service proposes to add a new subpart to 50 CFR part 21 for the management of overabundant migratory birds. We (in cooperation with State wildlife agencies) are further proposing to implement a population reduction program by establishing a conservation order for mid-continent light geese under the authority of the proposed subpart. Collectively, mid-continent lesser snow and Ross' geese (referred to as mid-continent light geese; MCLG) have all exceeded their population objective levels in both the U.S. and Canada. Due to the high population growth rates facilitated by abundant agricultural food resources in the mid-continent U.S. and prairie Canada, a decline in adult mortality, and an increase in winter survival, MCLG have approached population sizes that are a threat to both themselves and to other migratory bird populations. These populations must be reduced soon to avoid further habitat degradation and to avoid further negative impacts to migratory birds or their associated habitats.

Abstract: The Service proposes to establish annual hunting regulations for certain migratory game birds. The Service also requests proposals from Indian tribes that wish to establish special migratory bird hunting regulations. The establishment of these regulations will permit the taking of the designated species during the 1999-2000 hunting season. The Service annually prescribes outside limits within which States may select hunting seasons. The Service has also employed guidelines to establish special migratory bird hunting regulations on Federal Indian reservations and ceded lands. These seasons provide hunting opportunities for recreation and subsistence; aid Federal, State, and tribal governments in the management of migratory game birds; and are designed to permit harvests at levels compatible with migratory bird population status and habitat conditions.

These species are restricted to native prairie in the Willamette Valley in Oregon and currently are known from a few small remnants of a formerly widespread distribution. CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Judicial, April 1, 1998.

1634. CAPTIVE-BRED WILDLIFE

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Fish and Wildlife Service regulates certain activities involving non-native endangered or threatened wildlife species that are born in captivity in the United States. Currently, this is accomplished by requiring persons who wish to conduct otherwise prohibited activities with such wildlife to register with the Service to obtain a captive-bred wildlife or CBW registration. These regulations will be reviewed to determine if further action is necessary to relieve certain restrictions on the public that may have become burdensome, counterproductive, or outmoded.

Captive-bred wildlife regulations, part 2

Regulatory Flexibility Analysis Required: No

Government Levels Affected: None

Additional Information: On June 11, 1993, the Service published a proposed rule that would revise the captive-bred wildlife regulations and the definitions of the terms "harass" and "enhance the propagation or survival." During the 90-day comment period, extensive comments on the proposal were received. The Service has decided to eliminate education as the sole basis for justifying issuance of a captive-bred wildlife registration, and a final rule to that effect was published on December 27, 1993 (58 FR 68323). The Service will split this action into three final rules and reopen the comment period on the balance of the issues in the proposals, including the question of the value of education as it relates to endangered species permits.

Abstract: Regulations will be developed which would list, reclassify, or delist, as appropriate, certain species of fish, wildlife, and plants under the Endangered Species Act, and where prudent, would identify critical habitat for endangered and threatened species. 1657. TAXONOMIC CHANGE FROM SUBSPECIES TO VERTEBRATE POPULATION SEGMENT FOR THE VIRGIN RIVER CHUB

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Recent taxonomic work concluded that specific rank is warranted for the Virgin River chub, a federally listed endangered species found in the Virgin River system of Arizona, Nevada, and Utah. Additionally, researchers concluded that the chub in the Muddy River of Nevada is conspecific with the Virgin River chub. Previously this distinctive population of the Virgin River chub, a category 2 candidate for Federal listing, was considered a separate, unnamed subspecies of roundtail chub, and was referred to as the Moapa roundtail chub. Because of this recent taxonomic work, the Service accepts that specific rank is warranted for the Virgin River chub and proposes to change the listing of the Virgin River chub in the Virgin River from a subspecies to a vertebrate population segment in the List of Endangered and Threatened Wildlife. In addition, the Service initiates a status review of the Virgin River chub in the Muddy River to determine whether this vertebrate population warrants listing as a threatened or endangered species.

Lloyd's hedgehog cactus is presently known from four counties in west Texas and one county in New Mexico and from Chihuahua, Mexico.

Abstract: The Service proposes technical amendments to its general regulations implementing its permitting program. The proposed revisions would explain and clarify applicable general permit conditions to the permitting procedures associated with habitat conservation plans and safe harbor agreements issued under section 10 of the Endangered Species Act of 1973. The Service also announces a safe harbor policy under the Act, providing incentives for private and other non-Federal landowners to restore, enhance, or maintain habitat for endangered and threatened species. The Service, in cooperation with the appropriate State agencies, may enter into safe harbor agreements with non-Federal landowners to enhance the survival of listed species with the concurrence of the landowner, include proposed or candidate species in such agreements. A procedure and guidance for providing assurances to non-Federal landowners involved in candidate conservation also is proposed.

Abstract: The Service proposes endangered status pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973 for two plants (Baker's larkspur and yellow larkspur). These species grow in a variety of habitats including coastal prairie, coastal scrub or chaparral in Sonoma and Marin counties in northern California. Habitat loss and degradation, sheep grazing, road maintenance activities, and overcollection imperil the continued existence of these plants. 1686. ENDANGERED AND THREATENED WILDLIFE AND PLANTS; PROPOSED ENDANGERED STATUS FOR IONE BUCKWHEAT AND THREATENED STATUS FOR IONE MANZANITA

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory. In accordance with 16 USC 1533, the Service must take action (list, withdraw, or extend the rulemaking for 6 months) on a proposed listing no later than 1 year after such proposal.

Abstract: The Service proposed endangered status for ione buckwheat (a perennial herb) and threatened status for ione manzanita (an evergreen shrub of the heath family). These two species occur primarily on gravelly clay soils with iron oxide crust within chaparral (derived from the iron formation) in Amador or Calaveras counties in the central Sierra Nevada foothills of California. They are imperiled by one or more of the following factors: mining, clearing of vegetation for agriculture and fire protection, disease, inadequate regulatory mechanisms, habitat fragmentation, residential and commercial development, changes in fire frequency, and continued erosion due to prior off-road vehicle use. Random events increase the risk to the few, small populations of ione buckwheat. Ownership of most occurrences of these two species is private. One population of each occurs on Federal land managed by the Bureau of Land Management. Other potential Federal involvement includes the use of Federal highway funds, the permitting of lignite or coal mines through the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, and the relicensing of hydro-electric projects by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

1687. IMPORTATION OF POLAR BEAR TROPHIES FROM CANADA; ADDITION OF POPULATIONS TO THE LIST OF AREAS APPROVED FOR IMPORT

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1361 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 18

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule announces proposed findings on the import of polar bears taken in sport hunts in the areas formerly known as Parry Channel-Baffin Bay and Queen Elizabeth Islands, Northwest Territories, Canada. These findings include polar bears taken but not imported prior to enactment of the 1994 amendments to the Marine Mammal Protection Act (MMPA). The Service summarizes the new research data used by Canada to redefine these areas into five populations: Queen Elizabeth Islands, Norwegian Bay, Kane Basin, Lancaster Sound and Baffin Bay and provides a summary of the Nunavut Land Claim and the new flexible quota option. The Service proposes to find that Lancaster Sound and Norwegian Bay meet the requirements of the MMPA and to add them to the list of approved populations in the regulations. On the other hand, the Service proposes to defer the decision on the remaining three populations: Queen Elizabeth Islands, Baffin Bay and the Kane Basin. The Service intends to make these findings for multiple sport hunting seasons pending receipt of substantial new information or review as required under the MMPA.

1688. ENDANGERED AND THREATENED WILDLIFE AND PLANTS; PROPOSED THREATENED STATUS FOR NEWCOMB'S SNAIL FROM THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory. In accordance with 16 USC 1533, the Service must take action (list, withdraw, or extend the rulemaking for 6 months) on a proposed listing no later than 1 year after such proposal.

Abstract: The Service proposes threatened status pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended, for Newcomb's snail. This freshwater snail is restricted to the Hawaiian Island of Kauai. The known historic distribution of this snail has greatly decreased and extant populations are presently limited to restricted habitats on five perennial streams on State land. The five known populations of this snail and its habitat are currently threatened by predation by a species of non-native predatory snail and two species of non-native marsh flies. These populations are also subject to an increased likelihood of extirpation from naturally occurring events, including natural disasters such as hurricanes and landslides. All populations of this species occur on State-owned lands.

1689. ENDANGERED AND THREATENED WILDLIFE AND PLANTS; PROPOSAL TO LIST KLAMATH RIVER POPULATION SEGMENT OF BULL TROUT AS ENDANGERED AND COLUMBIA RIVER POPULATION SEGMENT AS THREATENED

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory. In accordance with 16 USC 1533, the Service must take action (list, withdraw, or extend the rulemaking for 6 months) on a proposed listing no later than 1 year after such proposal.

Abstract: The Service proposes to list the Klamath River population segment of bull trout (members of the char subgroup in the salmon family) as endangered from south-central Oregon and the Columbia River population segment of bull trout as threatened from the northwestern United States and British Columbia, Canada, with a special rule pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973. The Klamath River population segment, comprised of seven bull trout populations from south-central Oregon, is threatened by habitat degradation, passage restrictions at dams, and competition from non-native lake and brook trout. The special rule allows for take of bull trout within the Columbia River population segment if in accordance with applicable State fish and wildlife conservation laws and regulations. Pursuant to a court order, this rule is based on the 1994 administrative record. All available information, including current data, will be considered prior to promulgation of a final rule.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Abstract: The Service proposes to list Sidalcea keckii (Keck's sidalcea) as endangered pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973. This annual herb (belonging to the mallow family) is threatened by urban development, agricultural land conversion, and random events. The species (found on sparsely vegetated slopes of serpentine-derived clay in annual grasslands) is known only from one population in the south-central Tulare County on private land and is not in an approved habitat conservation plan. The likelihood of any Federal involvement is small, however, the Bureau of Reclamation's renewal of the Central Valley Project Friant water contracts may affect the species.

1691. ENDANGERED AND THREATENED WILDLIFE AND PLANTS; PROPOSED RULE TO LIST THE ILLINOIS CAVE AMPHIPOD AS ENDANGERED

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory. In accordance with 16 USC 1533, the Service must take action (list, withdraw, or extend the rulemaking for 6 months) on a proposed listing no later than 1 year after such proposal.

Abstract: The Service proposes endangered status pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973 for the Illinois cave amphipod, Gammarus acherondytes. Historically, the amphipod was known from six cave streams in Monroe and St. Clair counties, Illinois. Recent surveys have found the species at only three of the original six sites. The species is believed to be threatened primarily by groundwater pollution which is likely due to the application of pesticides in cave stream recharge areas. A possible secondary threat is contamination of subsurface water by human and animal wastes from sewage and septic systems and livestock feedlots. The Monroe-Randolph Bi-County Health Department supports listing this species as a means of justifying greater protection for groundwater in the Karst area. Also the Natural Heritage Division of the Illinois Department of Conservation supports Federal listing of this species. It is currently a State-listed endangered species.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory. In accordance with 16 USC 1533, the Service must take action (list, withdraw, or extend the rulemaking for 6 months) on a proposed listing no later than 1 year after such proposal.

Abstract: The Service proposes endangered species status pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973 for the Wenatchee Mountains checker-mallow (Sidalcea oregana var calva). This plant is endemic to meadows that have surface water on saturated soil in the spring and early summer at middle elevations in the Wenatchee Mountains of Chelan county, Washington. Although five populations of this plant are known, three of these have very few individuals. The estimated total number of plants is about 3,300. The primary threats to this plant include alterations of hydrology, rural residential development and associated activities, competition from native and alien plants, recreation, fire suppression and activities associated with fire suppression. To a lesser extent, the taxon is threatened by livestock grazing, road construction and timber harvesting and associated impacts including changes in surface-runoff in the small watersheds in which the plant occurs. This proposal, if made final, would implement the Federal protection and recovery programs of the Act for this plant.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 703 to 711; 16 USC 712; 16 USC 742a to 742j

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 20

Abstract: The Service is proposing to amend section 20.21(j) to grant temporary approval of tungsten-iron shot as nontoxic for the 1998-99 migratory bird hunting season, except in the Yukon-Kuskokwim (Y-K) Delta, Alaska. The Service has previously granted temporary approval of tungsten-iron shot as nontoxic for the 1997-98 season. The toxicological report, which is an extensive literature search and analysis of tungsten and tungsten-iron, suggests that these compounds are nontoxic under assumed use and in the environment. Analysis of the toxicity study reveals no adverse effects over a 30-day period when dosing mallards with 8 bb-size tungsten-iron shot. However, there is some concern that the absorption of tungsten into the femur, kidney, and liver could potentially affect the spectacled eider, a species already subject to adverse weather, predation, and lead poisoning on the Y-K Delta. Until a reproductive/chronic toxicity test has been completed and the Service has reviewed the results, tungsten-iron shot will not be approved for the Y-K Delta.

Abstract: The Service proposes to list cylindrical lioplax, flat pebblesnail and plicate rocksnail as endangered; painted rocksnail, round rocksnail and lacy elimia as threatened species under the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. These aquatic snails are found in localized portions of the Black Warrior, Cahaba, Alabama and Coosa Rivers or their tributaries in Alabama. Impoundment and water quality degradation have eliminated the 6 snails from 90 percent or more of their historic habitat. Surviving populations are currently threatened by pollutants such as sediments and nutrients that wash into streams from the land surface.

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Abstract: The Service proposes to list Virginia Sneezeweed (Helenium Virginicum) as a threatened species, under the authority of the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. This rare plant is restricted to seasonally inundated sinkhole ponds and meadows in Augusta and Rockingham Counties, Virginia. Five of the 25 known extant populations are on U.S. Forest Service land, the others are on private land. This perennial plant is threatened by residential development, incompatible agricultural practices, filling and ditching of its wetland habitat and other disruptions of its habitat and the hydrology that maintains it. At several sites, ditches have been constructed to reduce the length of time that standing water is present. This has caused the species at one of the sites to be reduced to near extinction. Virginia Sneezeweed is presently listed as endangered by the State of Virginia.

Abstract: The Service proposes endangered status pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973 for two animals, the Kauai Cave Wolf Spider and the Kauai Cave Amphipod. These two species are found on the Hawaiian Island of Kauai. The Kauai Cave Wolf Spider is known from two populations and the Kauai Cave Amphipod is known from four populations. These animals and their habitats have been variously affected or are currently threatened by the following: habitat degradation/loss from development; competition for space, water, and nutrients by naturalized introduced animals; biological/chemical pesticide use; and an increased likelihood of extinction from proposed development activities and naturally occurring events. This proposal, if made final, would extend Federal protection and recovery provisions of the Act for these animal taxa. Additionally, Hawaii State regulations protecting these animals would be triggered. All populations of these species occur on privately owned lands.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Service proposes endangered status for the St. Andrews beach mouse pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. This subspecies is restricted to coastal sand dunes and had an historic distribution that included the northeast FL panhandle from Gulf County into portions of Bay County. Its current range is limited to a portion of the St. Joseph Peninsula in Gulf County within St. Joseph Peninsula and William J. Rish State Parks and some private lands. Habitat impacts causing loss of mice and the species' local capability to recover from such impacts are primarily responsible for the range curtailment. Threats to beach mouse habitat include severe storms, coastal land development and its associated activities, and non-storm related natural shoreline erosion. Additional threats include predation by free-ranging domestic cats and displacement by house mice. This species is State-listed as endangered.

Abstract: The Service proposes to list the Topeka shiner as an endangered species under the authority of the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. The Topeka shiner is a small fish, presently known from small tributary streams in the Kansas and Neosho River Basins in Kansas; the Missouri, Grand, Loamine, Chariton, and Des Moines River Basins in Missouri; the North Racoon River Basin in Iowa; the James and Vermillion River watersheds in South Dakota; and the Rock River watershed in Minnesota. More than 95 percent of the remaining populations of the Topeka shiner occur on private lands with the remaining populations on State and Federal lands belonging to the States of Kansas and Missouri and the National Park Service. The Topeka shiner is threatened by habitat destruction, degradation, modification, and fragmentation resulting from siltation, reduced water quality, tributary impoundment, stream channelization, and stream dewatering. The species is also impacted by introduced predatious fishes.

Abstract: The Service proposed to determine threatened status for the Australian koala. The eucalyptus forest and woodland ecosystem on which this arboreal marsupial depends has been reduced by more than half and is continuing to deteriorate. The species also is threatened by habitat fragmentation and consequent potential loss of genetic viability, disease, and other factors. This proposal incorporates a finding that a petition requesting the listing of the koala is warranted. It is emphasized that any final rule resulting from this proposal would classify the koala or certain populations thereof as endangered or could exempt certain populations from any classification.

This species is restricted to wet swales and meadows in Douglas County, Oregon, where only 10 occurrences are known. Most populations are small with few individuals. The total estimated number of plants is 3,000 within a combined area of about 10 acres (most on private land). Threats to this species include destruction and/or alteration of habitat by development and hydrological changes (e.g., wetland fills, draining, construction); spring and summer grazing by domestic cattle, horses, and sheep; roadside maintenance; and competition from native and alien plant species.

Abstract: On November 22, 1994, the Service published special rules to establish nonessential experimental populations of gray wolves in Yellowstone National Park and central Idaho. The nonessential experimental population areas include all of Wyoming, most of Idaho, and much of central and southern Montana. This proposed revision is to amend a section of the special regulations so that it clearly applies within the Yellowstone nonessential experimental population area and the central Idaho nonessential experimental population area as described in 7(ii). Ongoing litigation requires the clarification of the Service's need and authority to remove these animals from the area through live capture or lethal means in the interest of attaining gray wolf recovery goals. This proposed change will not affect any of the assumptions and earlier analysis made in the environmental impact statement or other portions of the special rules.

1705. ENDANGERED AND THREATENED WILDLIFE AND PLANTS; PROPOSED ENDANGERED STATUS FOR CATESBAEA MELANOCARPA

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Service proposes to determine catesbaea melanocarpa (no common name) to be an endangered species pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. Catesbaea melanocarpa (branching shrub) is known from Puerto Rico, St. Croix in the U.S. Virgin Islands, Barbuda, Antigua, and Guadeloupe. In Puerto Rico, it is currently known from only one location in Cabo Rojo, and in the U.S. Virgin Islands it is known from one location near Christiansted, St. Croix. Both populations are located on privately owned land subject to intense pressure for development for residential tourism and industrial purposes.

1706. ENDANGERED AND THREATENED WILDLIFE AND PLANTS; PROPOSED ENDANGERED STATUS FOR OAHU ELEPAIO FROM THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Service proposes endangered status pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended, for the Oahu elepaio. This bird is endemic to the Island of Oahu, HI, where it was formerly found in all forested areas on the island. It is currently found in greatly reduced numbers and range in six isolated populations occurring in mid-elevation forests in the southern Koolau mountain range and parts of the Waianae mountain range. The Oahu elepaio is now thought to occupy less than 8 percent of its original, prehistoric range. It may have been affected in the past or continue to be threatened by one or more of the following: habitat degradation, including habitat fragmentation; population fragmentation; predation by introduced alien mammals; competition from introduced alien birds, and introduced avian disease. The Oahu elepaio is also subject to an increased likelihood of extinction from naturally occurring events, including natural disasters.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Abstract: The Service proposes to list Howell's spectacular thelypody as threatened pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. This plant is known from 11 sites in Baker and Union Counties, OR, all on privately-owned land. This taxon is threatened by a variety of factors including habitat destruction and fragmentation from agricultural and urban development, grazing by domestic livestock, competition from non-native vegetation, and alterations of wetland hydrology.

1708. ENDANGERED AND THREATENED WILDLIFE AND PLANTS; DETERMINATION OF THE PECOS PUPFISH TO BE ENDANGERED

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Judicial, April 1, 1998.

Abstract: The Service proposes to list the Pecos pupfish as an endangered species under the authority of the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. The historical range of the Pecos pupfish included the mainstream Pecos River from the vicinity of Roswell, Chaves County, New Mexico, downstream to the vicinity of Sheffield, Pecos County, Texas, and included various lakes, gypsum sinkholes, saline springs, and tributaries associated with the river. The primary reason for the rapid range reduction is hybridization with and/or replacement by the Sheepshead minnow, a nonnative species introduced into the Pecos River between 1980 and 1984.

Abstract: The Service will propose regulations to implement portions of the Public Use Management Plan (PUMP) for the Kodiak National Wildlife Refuge. Proposed regulations will include access restrictions and specific requirements and limitations related to commercial and administrative structures, camping, snow machines, pack animals, tent platforms, food containers, and fish cleaning. The PUMP was prepared with an environmental assessment and was reviewed in an appropriate public involvement process. The final document was released in November 1993. By implementing the PUMP, compatible public uses will be allowed while protecting the refuge resources.
